HUNDREDS DIE IN FOREST FIRES

Miners in Canadian District Suffocated Under Ground; Others Perish in Flight.

MILLIONS IN PROPERTY LOST

People, Though Warned by Clouds of Smoke, Waited Too Late to Escape.

THREE DEAD IN MICHIGAN

Two Towns Wiped Out and Others Threatened—Maine Village Also Destroyed.

TORONTO, Canada, July 12.—Hundreds of lives were lost and millions of dollars worth of property was destroyed in the forest fires which swept the Porcupine mining district in Northern Ontario yesterday. The flames are still raging.

Among the victims were Robert Weiss, manager of the West Dome Mine, and Mrs. Weiss; Augus Bult, an Assayer, and his wife; Capt. Jack Hamilton of the West Dome, Capt. George Dunbar, and Andy Yull, foreman of the United Porcupine Mines.

Only 3 of the 84 employes of West Dome Mine have been accounted for, and nearly 300 miners, muckers, &c., in the Dome Mine have been suffocated.

The mines burned include the Dome, the North Dome, the Preston, East Dome, the Vipond, the Foley O'Brien, the Philadelphia, the United Porcupine, the Eldorado Porcupine, the Standard Imperial, West Dome, and Success.

The Philadelphia Mine's loss is about $50,000; United Porcupine Mine's loss, $20,000; Eldorado Porcupine, all buildings destroyed; Standard, about $40,000; Imperial, about $35,000; Success, presumably destroyed; West Mines, about $75,000.

In four short hours, starting at 12:30 P. M. yesterday, the fire swept from the Standard Mines right through to the shores of Porcupine Lake, where it ate up the town sites of South Porcupine, Pottsville, and part of Golden City, as well as many small buildings along the lake front.

While part of the loss of life occurred in the vicinity of Porcupine Lake, in which many persons were drowned in fleeing from the flames, the greatest havoc was wrought about the main mines, notably West Dome and Big Dome. Here the entrapped miners cut off from escape by flames were forced to take to the shafts for safety and, hemmed in by the flames, perished. This was notably true at Dome and West Dome mines.

At Preston East Dome an untimbered shaft gave shelter and none perished. The streets of South Porcupine are strewn with dead persons, horses, dogs, and cattle. Along the mine roads are the charred bodies of those overcome trying to escape.

Along the highway between West Dome and South Porcupine, over a comparatively open section, were found six charred bodies. In the ruins of the town of South Porcupine were found the bodies of William Gohr and his clerk, Mac Smith, Capt. George Runbar, and Tome Geddes.

Early yesterday morning the miners saw dense clouds of smoke to the Southwest, where the fires were raging. They gave small heed. Later in the day there was a small blaze started in Lakeview, of the Porcupine townsite, but it passed almost unnoticed because of the frequency of bush fires in the last few weeks of the dry spell.

It was not until noon that the dense clouds began to roll over the Porcupine district and screen the sun a dull red. Then the miners became alarmed, and the camps took on unusual activity. Messengers were sent out and soon returned with warnings that the fire was traveling through the forests at a rapid pace, and was licking up many townships.

Shortly after noon the fire had covered an area of twenty-five miles in length and two miles in width, and was licking up the base line of Tisdale, sweeping over the Standard and Imperial mines at Delore, the Philadelphia, Inshaw, Eldorado, and United mines in Southern Whitney.

At 1 o'clock the seriousness of the situation was apparent at South Porcupine, when to the southward could be seen the sweeping wall of flames. The fire call was sounded with the Dome mine whistle, and was followed by repeated blasts from those of other mines. Miners and women and children began to scurry about in the dense smoke, packing valuables and light baggage.

In another half hour the flames had swept parcels of land just vacated by the miners. They swept over the Foley-O'Brien mine, then jumped to the Preston East Dome, and followed over the Dome, West Dome, and North Dome, also licking up what remained of the Dome extension after Sunday's fire.

Hundreds fled before the flames, which were eating up the shacks in the outlying section of South Porcupine. The dense clouds of black smoke hung very low over the land and made flight difficult. Many perished from exhaustion and lay prostrate before the raging fire as it swept over the town. The frame buildings in the heart of the town burned with a crackling sound that brought terror to the hearts of the fleeing people.

Twenty minutes after the flames struck the outskirts of South Porcupine the town was in ashes, so quickly did the fire sweep on to the north. All of those who escaped the flames made for the water, where all sorts of water craft, launches, canoes, scows, and skiffs were pushed into service.

Women and children were first huddled into the small boats and started off for Pottsville and Golden City, where they were temporarily safe from the flames.

MR. GATES A LITTLE BETTER.

But His Condition Is Very Critical—Five Doctors Attending Him.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 12.—The condition of John W. Gates is very critical

Dr. Gros, one of the physicians attending Mr. Gates, told THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent to-day that unless there were a marked improvement in the next forty-eight hours there would be little hope of saving the patient.

Dr. J. Russell Ryan of London, who had been telegraphed for, arrived at the Hotel Meurice at 11 P. M. and at once went into consultation with the other physicians.

The arrival of Charles G. Gates was a great relief to Mrs. Gates, who was almost prostrated, having attended her husband day and night.

PARIS, July 12.—After a consultation this evening the physicians in attendance on John W. Gates said that the congestion of the kidneys had measurably relaxed, giving ground for reasonable hope that Mr. Gates would live.

The consultation was participated in by Dr. Reeves, who accompanied Charles G. Gates from New York; Dr. J. Russell Ryan of London, who arrived to-night, and Drs. Gros, Roget and Vittel.

Mr. Gates's mind has continued clear throughout, which is considered an excellent sign.

Charles G. Gates believes that his father will survive the present attack. He says that he has seen him as ill before and is confident that his powerful constitution will once more pull him through.

It is said that the abscesses in the American financier's throat were operated upon successfully, but that complications resulted when the poison of the abscesses reached the kidneys and caused congestion.

CZAR HELPS BEAR COFFIN.

Attends Great-Aunt's Funeral — Her Son Forbidden to be Present.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 12.—The body of the Grand Duchess Alexandra Josefovna, who died recently, was conveyed to-day from the Marble Palace on the banks of the Neva to the Fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul.

The Emperor arrived from Finland in the imperial yacht Standart, but was not accompanied by the Empress, whose health is poor. A launch carried his Majesty up the Neva to the palace, where a brief requiem was held.

The Emperor and Grand Dukes bore the coffin on their shoulders to the hearse and followed on foot to St. Peter and St. Paul. The route was lined with spectators behind a wall of troops and horses. The streets were strewn with pine twigs, emblematic of the resurrection.

The entire Diplomatic Corps attended the services in St. Peter and St. Paul Cathedral, in which assembled the representatives of the Church, the Court, and the State. Further services will be held to-morrow prior to the final interment.

The Grand Duke Nicholas Constantinovitch, son of the late Grand Duchess, who at one time was under the odium of banishment, did not attend the funeral. It is reported that permission to do so was refused to him.

OHIO GRAFT IN PORTRAITS.

Capitol Paintings of Four Governors Replaced by Crude Substitutes.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 12.—The portraits of four former Ohio Governors, Thomas Corwin, Thomas Kirker, Robert Lucus and William Shannon, are strangely missing from the State Capitol. In their stead are four crude oil paintings, the work of Mrs. Emma L. Hollingsworth, Assistant State Librarian, who received $1,000 for the work. Competent artists have declared that copies of the four portraits could have been obtained for $300.

Henry Weidenbach, who was sentenced in 1909 to four years' imprisonment in the Ohio Penitentiary for theft, was authorized to clean the portraits, and it is said he was given $100 and granted a pardon when the work was completed. This occurred Oct. 25, 1910, a little more than a year after he was sentenced.

Mrs. Hollingsworth then approached the Governor with a proposition to repaint the replicas and obtained an order for the work. After the portraits had been painted, as explained by Mrs. Hollingsworth to-day, they were passed upon by Weidenbach and then placed in the buildings.

The mystery of the affair is the disposition of the four original paintings.

COUNTERFEITER SEEKS DEATH

Comrade Killed Himself After Capture and Cordero Makes Several Vain Attempts.

Carmello Cordero, who was arrested on Tuesday with Francesco Martino on the charge of counterfeiting, made a vigorous attempt yesterday to kill himself, as Martino had succeeded in doing. He was taken before United States Commissioner Russ at Hoboken yesterday afternoon and held by him for examination on July 18.

Deputy United States Marshal Louis Beekman handcuffed both his hands and started with him in a Jackson Avenue trolley car for the Jersey City Heights on his way to the Hudson County Jail.

As the car was running up the trestle and had reached Newark Avenue station, where it is from fifteen to twenty feet above the ground, Cordero broke away from Beekman and tried to hurl himself to the pavement beneath. Beekman threw himself on his prisoner and fought with him. It was only after a lively tussle that he overpowered him. A moment or two later Cordero shook Beekman off again, and this time made for the stairway leading from the station to the street. He tried to throw himself over the balustrade, and again it took all the Deputy's strength to restrain him.

When the prisoner saw that he could not kill himself in this way he raised his manacled hands above his head and brought them down two or three times with all his force on his skull. The steel of the handcuffs cut him badly, but he could not end his life in this way.

Besides being wanted for counterfeiting one-dollar bills, the prisoner, the police say, is charged by the Italian authorities with murder.

NAVY EMBEZZLER SENTENCED

E. V. Lee Gets Five Years and Fined $5,000 for Stealing $46,000.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., July 12.—Edward Valentine Lee, the former paymaster's clerk on the battleship Georgia, from which he absconded at Havana last February with $46,000, to-day pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny and was sentenced to serve five years in the Federal prison at Atlanta and to pay a fine of $5,000. Lee was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury in this city yesterday.

HEAT WAVE BROKEN; 31 MORE ARE DEAD

Fully 150 Prostrated on the Last Trying Day, and Since the First 221 Have Died.

LIVING WEATHER AHEAD NOW

Humidity Yesterday Proved More Deadly Than the Heat—Temperature Lower, but the Air Unbearable.

The second stage of the refractory heat wave, after claiming an eleventh-day toll of thirty-one deaths, was declared permanently broken by the Weather Man last night. He said he was certain of a three days' truce, at least, and that anything that might arise thereafter could not in any way be connected with the wave which has passed. He did not promise three days of real coolness, but simply three days of just ordinary July weather, temperature about 80, humidity about 50, winds westerly or northwesterly and somewhat refreshing.

For to-day Acting Forecaster Reed briefly predicts fair weather with moderate temperature, accompanied by light west to northwesterly winds.

The total of deaths in New York City due to the heat for the last eleven days is now 221. Of this number 128 died in Manhattan, 88 in Brooklyn, 4 in Queens, and only one in Richmond. The greatest number of deaths on a single day was on July 5, when forty persons were killed by the heat.

Peculiar conditions attending the freakish weather made yesterday morning the most unbearable of any day. Humidity and not the heat was the predominant factor. Humidity was responsible for all except a few of the reported deaths, catching its victims in an exhausted state and killing all of them within the hours between 7 and 10 A. M.

The forecaster had promised "brief" showers for yesterday, and a reduced temperature and both were realized, but he had said nothing about humidity.

The showers, if such they can be called, arrived at 6:32 A. M. and 12:15 P. M. Although the sensitive rain gauges can record a five-thousandth part of an inch of rainfall, neither of the "showers" made even this minimum impression on the instruments. The first one was accompanied by much thunder, which rumbled as early at 5:45 A. M., giving promise of big things, and then disappeared into the ocean, where a greater quantity of rain is believed to have fallen.

The rain left an ill-effect in overhanging clouds. They drooped low and formed a confining roof, through which the stifling air near the surface could not pass even though a light breeze played at the lower altitudes. The humidity, which was relatively high during the night, and which had made sleeping almost an impossibility, increased rapidly in percentage, reaching 75 at 8 A. M., while the temperature stood at 78. Nor did it drop perceptably until a few minutes before 11 o'clock, when the temperature quickly climbed to 86.2, the maximum of the day. For only a few minutes the humidity stood at 60, and then jumped again to 72, maintaining that mark practically all the afternoon.

By 10 A. M. it had already done its deadlies work, 20 deaths and 150 prostrations having been reported.

On the sidewalk no unusually high temperatures were reported. The thermometers stood for hours near the 90 mark, being about 7 degrees higher than those at the Government Observatory on the roof of the Whitehall Building. Compared with the high marks of 103 to 107 reached on preceding days, therefore, no records were made for the day. The suffering, however, due to the overwhelming density of the superheated atmosphere, made the weather appear hotter than on many days before.

Toward night the humidity dropped rapidly and a southwesterly breeze sprang up, blowing, at times, at the rate of 20 miles an hour. People on the street congratulated themselves. One man said that he expected to get his first night's sleep in a fortnight.

Just what Forecaster Reed means by his promise of three ordinary average July days can best be explained from his book of records. The normal maximum temperature for July, for 41 years, is 82.1 degrees. The maximum for July 12 in the same length of time was 84. Yesterday's maximum of 86.2, therefore, was more than 2 degrees above normal for that day and more than 4 degrees above the normal monthly temperature. To-day's temperature and that of the two days following is expected to be slightly above 80.

Just what will happen after that is problematical. The entire stretch between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans is now free of unusually high barometric area and more heat waves are not anticipated. It is highly probable, said the forecaster, that the temperature on Sunday will be a little higher than normal, but he said that he could see no indications whatever of any more very hot days.

It was learned last night that Eva Booth, Commander of the Salvation Army, is ill at her New York home from heat prostration. At the army's headquarters it was said that, following a vigorous evangelistic campaign in New England, she had had several fainting spells.

Among the deaths was that of Hersey Brown, senior member of the printing firm of Brown, Lent & Pett of 90 William Street. Mr. Brown had been to luncheon with a member of the firm whom he left at the corner of William Street and Maiden Lane, not far from his office. He became faint from the heat and fell to the sidewalk, fracturing the base of his skull. He died before arriving at the Volunteer Hospital. He was 64 years old, and leaves a widow and a young son.

An unidentified man about 30 years old, apparently driven insane by the heat, while seeking relief on the pier at the foot of Pike Street, leaped overboard there yesterday, while hundreds of women and children looked on. Witnesses said that he had been trying vainly to sleep in a shady corner on the pier. Then he dashed toward the water front and cried out:

"I can't stand this any longer."

MELLON WITNESSES CANNOT BE FOUND

These Still at the Ritz-Carlton, but Pittsburg Intimates That the Englishmen Have Left These Shores.

Capt. T. W. Kirkbride and Alfred George Curphey, the two Englishmen who are wanted to testify in the divorce action brought by Andrew W. Mellon, the Pittsburg banker, could not be found here yesterday when they were expected to appear in court for extradition to Pittsburg. They have been staying at the Ritz Carlton, and their baggage, in charge of their valet, was still there last night, but the Englishmen themselves were not. The valet professed ignorance of their whereabouts as did the hotel management. It is understood also that their counsel, Francis P. Garvan, is as much in ignorance about just where they are as any one else.

There is at present only one charge against the two—that of conspiracy to defeat the ends of justice in Pennsylvania. On this charge a warrant, signed by Gov. Dix, who has granted their extradition, has been issued, but not served. It is believed in some quarters that they are anxious not to receive service on this warrant, as it will mean that they will be surrendered to the Pittsburg authorities, and though anxious to testify in the Mellon divorce proceedings they object to journey back to Pittsburg as prisoners.

Both Curphey and Capt. Kirkbride were to have appeared before Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions yesterday on the first charge, which alleged contempt of court and obstructing justice in Pittsburg. When they failed to appear, Assistant District Attorney Johnston announced that he had no idea where they were, and asked that their bail be forfeited.

Mr. Garvan, their counsel, admitted that he did not know where they were, but opposed the Assistant District Attorney's motion on the ground that while it was true that the National Surety Company's bond of $2,500 each had been given to insure their presence on this charge, the Governor, having failed to sign the extradition papers on this charge, though he had signed on another and different accusation, the first charge had fallen through and his clients could not be held on it. Consequently the bonding company was not responsible.

"There is a warrant out against them," said a friend of the Englishmen last night, "but it can't be served until the authorities find them. They are not responsible to the court until it is served. It is perfectly sound reasoning to argue that until this warrant is served and they are bonded in court no company is responsible for their appearance."

At the beginning of the Mellon divorce case Mr. Mellon named Curphy as corespondent. When it came time for him to testify Curphy could not be found, and it was learned that both he and Capt. Kirkland had come to this city.

Pittsburg last night was full of rumors, apparently emanating from the Mellon side of the divorce controversy, that the Englishmen had left America, having had enough of the law's tangles here. Their counsel here smiled over these rumors, repeating that the two had come here voluntarily to testify in the divorce case.

DENY DYNAMITE PLOT.

McNamaras Plead Not Guilty in Los Angeles Times Explosion Case.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 12.—John J. and James B. McNamara, alleged dynamite plotters, answered "not guilty" to the 19 charges of murder against them when to-day after ten weeks in the county jail Judge Walter Bordwell had overruled every point advanced by the defense for the quashing of the indictments, alleging their connection with the destruction of the plant of The Los Angeles Times, Oct. 1, 1910.

John McNamara was the first to be asked how he wished to plead. He answered "not guilty." Hardly a minute later James B. McNamara made a similar response to the same charge. Afterward they replied at the same time to the accusations. When the nineteen murder accusations growing out of The Times explosion had been answered John J. McNamara stood alone and answered "not guilty" to the charge of complicity in the explosion at the Llewellyn Iron Works in this city.

The defense asked that the date of trial be not fixed until Joseph Scott, one of the McNamara attorneys, could return from San Francisco. The prosecution objected, but Judge Bordwell ordered a continuance until Friday morning, when the trial date will be settled.

Mrs. Ortie McManigle and her uncle, George Behm, of Portage, Wis., shared the interest with the McNamara brothers. Mrs. McManigle and her uncle came to the court directly from the jail, where the two made another effort, it is asserted, to induce Ortie McManigle, the alleged confessed co-conspirator, to repudiate his confession. Torn between conflicting desires to do as his wife wished and also to keep his alleged pledge to become a State witness, McManigle is said to be on the verge of collapse. The visit of McManigle's wife and uncle to his cell to-day followed a similar call yesterday. Behm, who arrived here several days ago, reared McManigle from boyhood, and is said to have urged his nephew to do as his wife wished and remain true to his fellow-prisoners.

McManigle is said to have wavered but to have refused finally to desert the prosecution.

"I cannot do it," he is quoted as saying. "They would hang me if I did."

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The methods employed in extraditing John J. McNamara from Indiana in connection with the destruction of The Los Angeles Times building were arraigned as unjust to-day by Attorney Leo M. Rappaport of Indianapolis, who addressed the Senate "Third Degree" committee in support of legislation which would prevent such methods. No remedy was definitely suggested. Mr Rappaport, however, expressed the opinion that relief might be obtained by granting the United States courts authority to issue writs of habeas corpus, which would detain an extraditable prisoner long enough to permit him to make his defense.

NEW YORK LINES UP FOR AN INCOME TAX

Assembly Follows the Senate's Lead by Voting 91 to 42 for Federal Plan.

CONNECTICUT REJECTS IT

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 12.—After debating it pretty nearly all day the Assembly late this afternoon passed the concurrent resolution indorsing the Federal Income Tax proposition. The vote stood 91 to 42. Every Democrat who attended the session, with the exception of Edmund R. Terry of Kings, voted for the resolution. These Republicans voted for it: Murray, Brooks, Higgins, Ward, and Shilvek of New York, Colne of Kings, and F. A. Waters of Orleans. Assemblyman Chanler and Oliver said they were personally against the measure, but voted with their party.

The Senate passed the concurrent resolution on April 19, and the action of the Assembly to-day puts this State on record as favoring the proposed amendment to the United States Constitution.

Claims of the Republicans that New York State would suffer at the hands of the Western and Southern States, which Minority Leader Merritt declared "had put their heads together to indirectly do to manufacturing and business States what they couldn't do directly," were met by Majority Leader Smith and other Democrats with arguments that the resolution only empowered Congress to levy such a tax, and did not fix the manner in which it was to be levied.

"I don't think Congress will ever unjustly tax us," said Mr. Smith.

"A tax on incomes, from whatever source derived," Leader Merritt said, "will act in a manner detrimental to the securities of this State. The Western States need money for improvements, and they propose to reach for it where it is. I don't like to see New York delivered, bound hand and foot, to a sister State. Our people would be the mark for Federal income tax collectors."

Assemblyman Terry attacked the resolution, saying the whole matter was being treated as lightly as if it were a bill to construct a bridge over a country creek. It was thought so little of, he declared, that in the caucus it was lumped with another piece of legislation.

Although New York by the action of the Assembly to-day swings into the list of States that have ratified the proposed Federal income tax and brings the total up to thirty-one, tabulation shows that the necessary thirty-five or three-fourths vote of the States is out of the question this year. Fifteen States have either defeated the amendment in one or both houses, have adjourned without taking action, or, having indorsed the measure in one branch, have gone into adjournment with the other branch unrecorded in the matter. This accounts collectively for all forty-six States to date.

Eliminating Arkansas, whose Governor has raised a constitutional question by vetoing the indorsement of the amendment by both branches of the State's Legislature, but thirty votes in favor of the proposal remain. Thus it is obvious that further progress must await the convening of new Legislatures to indorse the amendment either because of adverse action or by inactive adjournment are Connecticut (whose House killed the proposal to-day, following the lead of the Senate), Delaware, Florida, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New Jersey Pennsylvania Utah, Rhode Island, Virginia, Vermont, West Virginia, and Wyoming.

The names of the States which have indorsed the amendment and of those that have voted against it are as follows:

AFFIRMATIVE.

New York,
Maine,
Ohio,
Michigan,
Indiana,
Illinois,
Kentucky,
Maryland,
North Carolina,

West Virginia.

Of the eight remaining States, the Legislature of Vermont, Wyoming, Utah, Pennsylvania, and Delaware have taken no action. The lower House of Virginia has rejected the proposed amendment, and it has passed only one house in Florida and in Minnesota.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 12.—The House of Representatives to-day voted, 89 to 74, to reject the resolution to give Congress the power to lay an income tax. This disposes of the matter as the Senate had rejected it.

PETTIT SHORTAGE $1,200,000.

Insurance Companies Are Still Inquiring Into His Drowning.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 12.—F. O. Wetmore, Vice President of the First National Bank, Chicago, was to-day made Chairman of a joint committee of Minneapolis and Chicago bankers, which is considering the financial affairs of F. H. Peavy & Co. of Minneapolis.

F. T. Heffesinger, President of F. H. Peavey & Co., to-day placed at $1,200,000, the shortage of James Pettit, President and General Manager of the Peavey Grain Company of Chicago, most of the stock of which is owned by F. H. Peavey & Co., and the business of which, it was announced yesterday, would be wound up following the drowning of Pettit in Lake Michigan last Saturday.

Mr. Heffesinger said it had been found that Pettit destroyed many of his personal letters and papers. He thought that there was no likelihood of the appointment of a receiver for either the Chicago firm or any other Peavey corporation.

It is stated that an autopsy on the body of Pettit will not be made unless members of the family demand it. Representatives of the insurance companies in which Pettit carried policies aggregating $100,000 are still investigating the circumstances of Pettit's drowning.

To Amend Nominations Bill.

ALBANY, July 12.—That further amendments will be made to the Blauvelt Direct Nominations bill to meet the platform pledges of the Democratic Party was the opinion expressed by Gov. Dix to-day. The bill was reported in the Assembly yesterday, and in its present form provides for direct nominations for Senators, Assemblymen, and members of the Common Council.

CHOLERA SITUATION GRAVE.

International Congresses That Were to be Held in Rome Postponed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 12.—A sensation was caused at a meeting of the Academy of Medicine last evening, when it was officially announced that two international congresses—on tuberculosis and dermatology—scheduled for the end of September in Rome, had been postponed until next Spring on account of the cholera epidemic in Italy.

Official advices from Italy indicate that the epidemic has suddenly grown more serious owing to a sharp rise in temperature.

Numerous cases of cholera are reported from Naples, Venice, and Genoa.

LAWSON TREED BY BEAR.

Out Trout Fishing in Oregon Kept on Log's End Five Hours.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 12.—A dispatch from Seattle says that Thomas W. Lawson of Boston, who has been staying on the ranch of an old friend, Thomas Sharp, in Oregon, near Prineville, has been treed by a bear.

Last Saturday, the dispatch says, Mr. Lawson went off fishing, telling Mrs. Sharp he would bring home trout for dinner. When Mr. Lawson was late to dinner Mr. Sharp started after him. After a walk of three miles he heard a faint "Hello," and recognized Lawson's voice. In a few minutes he reached the banks of Walwawai Creek. Out on the end of a log, suspended over the water, sat Mr. Lawson, astride.

On the bank sat a big black bear, slowly devouring the trout. Mr. Lawson said he had been a prisoner for five hours.

CUT CITY FERRY FARE IN HALF

Round Trip to St. George Made Five Cents, So the Poor May Get Air.

The Sinking Fund Commission authorized the Dock Commissioner yesterday to accept fares at 5 cents for a round trip in the ferry boats from Manhattan to Stapleton, S. I., between the hours of 9 A. M. and 4 P. M., except on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

The reduction from 10 cents a round trip was made for the benefit of poor mothers and children. The reduced rates will continue during July, August and September.

SEES A BRIGHT COMET.

Allegheny Observer Reports One in Constellation of Auriga.

PITTSBURG, Penn., July 12.—Director Frank Schlesinger of the Allegheny Observatory this morning reported that a fairly bright comet was seen just before dawn in the eastern sky.

The right ascension is four hours and forty-five minutes and its declination 34 degrees 30 minutes. It is in the constellation of Auriga, not far from the bright star Capella.

GALLINGER'S SON KILLED.

Auto Accident Causes Death of R. E. Gallinger, Son of the Senator.

PEMBROKE, N. H., July 12.—Dr. Ralph E. Gallinger of Concord, son of United States Senator Jacob H. Gallinger, was killed in an automobile accident just before midnight to-night.

Dr. Gallinger and A. E. Davies, a Concord insurance Superintendent, had been out for an evening spin in the former's car. When about half-way between this town and Concord on the return trip the machine struck a sandy stretch of roadway and turned turtle. Dr. Gallinger was pinned beneath the car and instantly killed. Davies was thrown clear of the machine, and, although severely injured, his condition is not considered critical.

Dr. Gallinger was 40 years of age, a practicing physician at Concord. He was also physician of the New Hampshire State Prison.

LORD OF THE RAILROAD TRACK

Flagged a Train and Wouldn't Move Until the Conductor Saluted.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 12.—William Edwards, who said he was a former member of the Seventh Regiment, sat on the New York Central track at Hastings last night and flagged a train. He refused to get off, and held up traffic until the conductor tipped his hat to him. Then he got aboard the train and was put off at Tarrytown.

Edwards was affected by the heat, and imagined he was President Taft and that he could do anything. He was turned over to Overseer of the Poor Brown of Dobbs Ferry. It took twelve men to put him in a strait jacket. He was sent to Poughkeepsie this afternoon.

Edwards said he lived in Perry Street, the Bronx, and that his father at one time owned a large electrical supply house in Mott Haven.

WILSON-McCREARY BOOM.

Kentuckians Start One While New Jersey Governor Is Their Guest.

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 12.—Since Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey has been here attending the meeting of the State Bar Association, a Vice Presidential boom has been started for James B. McCreary, ex-United States Senator and Democratic nominee for Governor. Mr. Wilson, according to the boom, is to be nominated for President with the Kentucky statesman, who has been prominent in politics of the State and Nation for many years, as Vice President.

A conference was held here last night between Gov. McCreary and Gov. Wilson, and while both deny that their meeting has any significance in a political way, friends of both men say that as Mr. McCreary is a representative Democrat of the South, he will have a large following in the Democratic National Convention.

DOUKOBORS BLOCK CENSUS.

Refuse to be Counted in British Columbia—Force May Be Used.

NELSON, B. C., July 12.—More than one thousand Doukobors, members of a colony at Brilliant, on the lower Arrow Lake, have rebelled against the census taking, absolutely refusing to be counted. Sherbining, the leader of the colony, has done everything in his power to persuade the colonists to submit and they have been threatened with arrest without avail.

The Census Commissioner has telegraphed to the Minister of Agriculture at Ottawa asking for instructions. From previous experience, the police and census men here believe that the instructions will be to arrest all men who refuse to give the data required and preparations are being made to send a strong force of officers to the colony to enforce the law.

DISMISS BOSTON GRAFT CASE.

Klous, Accused of Selling Poor Coal, Not to be Prosecuted.

BOSTON, July 12.—The indictment against Maurice H. Klous, manager of the River Coal Company, accused of larceny in sixteen counts from the City of Boston, was dismissed to-day by District Attorney Pelletier. This is the only so-called "city graft case" begun by the Finance Commission.

The District Attorney says that he feels certain that he could not get a conviction and ought not to put the county to the expense of a long and expensive trial.

Klous was charged with selling a poor quality of coal to the city.

SECRET INQUIRY IS MADE

RUSBY DEFENDS HIS COURSE.

Declares One-Sided Inquiry Was Held and That He Really Suffered in Serving the Government.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—After having failed in many vigorous efforts to separate Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the pure food expert, from his place at the head of the Bureau of Chemistry in the Department of Agriculture, his opponents seem at last in a fair way to succeed in their desire, and to carry with his retirement the reduction of L. F. Kebler, Chief of the Division of Drugs, and the dismissal of Dr. H. H. Rusby, head of the New York College of Pharmacy at Columbia University, employed by the drug division as an expert pharmacognocist.

Heretofore the fight on Dr. Wiley has been based upon his administration of the pure food and drugs law or upon some incident growing out of that administration. Now the recommendation that will be hailed with delight by the food and drug adulterators and misbranders all over the country comes from the Committee on Personnel of the department, consisting of Assistant Secretary Willett M. Hays, Solicitor George P. McCabe, and Chief Clerk C. C. Clark.

This committee has had under investigation a charge that Dr. Wiley and Mr. Kebler conspired to give an illegal compensation to Dr. Rusby. It has recommended that Dr. Wiley be permitted to resign; that Mr. Kebler be put in a place where he will no longer have power to make recommendations as to employments of experts, and that Dr. Rusby be dismissed. Its findings have been submitted to Attorney General Wickersham and he has decided that the circumstances are so grave that the recommendations of the committee should be carried out. Secretary Wilson has made no recommendation in the matter, and the papers are now before the President for final action.

Alleged Violation of Law.

The complaint against Dr. Wiley and Dr. Kebler arises out of the employment of Dr. Rusby. He has been regarded by Dr. Wiley as one of the most valuable assistants in the enforcement of the Pure Food and Drugs act. Formerly he had received $20 a day for his expert services. Congress, however, getting complaints of high salaries paid to experts, passed a law providing that the compensation of none of them should exceed $3,500 a year, or later $4,000 a year.

This law was construed by the law officers of the department as meaning that the compensation of any such person employed should not exceed $9 a day or later $11 a day. Dr. Rusby said he could not continue his connection with the bureau at such compensation, and after much negotiation, the evidence showed, an arrangement was made whereby he was put on a basis of $1,600 a year salary, and it was left to him to do such an amount of work for the bureau as would make his salary cover an allowance of $20 a day for his expert work and $50 a day for his court work.

The papers in the case have been submitted to Dr. Rusby, and he has written a defense of his conduct to Secretary Wilson. He declares that the hearing on which he was condemned was one-sided, that so far as he was concerned he did not care for the employment with the bureau, and that the compensation as arranged did not really profit him greatly as he had to arrange for substitution in his college work, and was put under expenses otherwise. The allowance of $50 a day as expert, he set forth, was only half what he would ordinarily receive for such services. He also declared that any responsibility for illegality in his employment must rest with the officials who employed him, and that charges made against him must be withdrawn or the persons making them would suffer the just penalties. He supposed his superiors knew the law and that his appointment and salary were perfectly legal.

Secretary Wilson to-night would only say that the matter was in the hands of the President, and that he could not talk about it at all. None of the members of the Committee on Personnel would discuss it. The whole matter has been handled with the greatest secrecy here, and the officials of the department who were questioned about it were surprised to have the subject broached.

Long Fight Against Wiley.

Dr. Wiley has wielded more power for many years than almost any other subordinate official of the Department of Agriculture. He was the prime mover in all the pure food legislation that has been placed on the statute books, and has been charged with the execution of the law under the direction of the Secretary of Agriculture ever since the passage of the law. Practically single-handed he has waged a vigorous fight against every form of adulteration of foods entering into domestic and foreign commerce, and has presented an uncompromising front to every attempt to evade or let down the strict letter of the law. He has consequently been under fire for years, and has maintained his position against all odds with an ability and fearlessness that have won for him the highest praise.

He had the co-operation of President Roosevelt in the earlier stages of the contest against adulterators of food products, but at times his position was so radical that no other alternative was presented but to overrule him. With the incoming of the Taft Administration a distinct understanding was insisted upon by President Taft that the activity of the author and executor of the pure food law should be limited to existing laws and no steps should be taken to enlarge its scope or jurisdiction. Under Dr. Wiley's unmitigated persistence in running down violations of the law hundreds of decisions have been secured in the courts all over the country whereby manufacturers have been fined heavily and their reprehensible practices absolutely stamped out.

Valuable Services to Nation.

Dr. Wiley has been connected with the Department of Agriculture as a chemist for twenty-eight years, and has a record for constructive scientific work as well as sleuthing adulterators of food out of business existence. He contributed largely to the success of the beet sugar industry in its inception in this country. He has accomplished many valuable works in the chemistry of the soil, and by the conduct of extended experiments in digestion with so-called poison squads has given to the scientific world a vast fund of practical information in regard to the maintenance of health under the modern conditions of living in the large cities.

Personally Dr. Wiley has been a most picturesque figure in the official life of Washington. He is a member of numerous clubs, and is recognized wherever he goes as a wit. His method of popularizing his theories has been to give out interviews in his bright, facetious style, thereby attracting favorable attention in every quarter where otherwise he might have been met with downright indifference and neglect. He has endeavored to teach the American people not to eat too much, and not to eat meat if they can get along with some other cheaper form of protein.

His latest propaganda has been directed against the use of tobacco, and for years he has urged total abstinence. At the same time his expert knowledge of fine liquors has been at the service of the Cosmos Club, his favorite resort in Washington, in the inspection and purchase of its stock of wines and other drinks, and the most popular beverage in that happy resort of the scientists and litterateurs bears his name. A prominent diplomat not long ago, on spending an evening at the club, heard Dr. Wiley speaking French, and asked who he was. On being told he exclaimed:

"I thought he was a Frenchman, but I have heard everybody near me to-night saying 'Wiley's Scotch,' and yet you say he is an American."

Increased Work of Bureau.

Dr. Wiley has always been at his best before committees of Congress, where his art of telling stories and emitting witticisms has gradually enlarged his department by increasing its annual appropriations until it is one of the largest scientific bureaus in the Government service. At a hearing before the House Agricultural Committee a few years ago, just before he was to begin a scientific dissertation, Mr. Wadsworth, then Chairman of the Committee, said:

"Doctor, before we begin will you be kind enough to tell us what a scientific agriculturist is?"

"With pleasure," replied the rosy doctor. "A scientific agriculturist is one who makes two dollars grow on an appropriation bill where before was but one."

It is a matter of history that the appropriations for the department were increased that year by several hundred thousand dollars and members of the committee have always said it was due to that joke of Dr. Wiley's.

Of late Dr. Wiley has turned his attention to farming and has established a fine home in Loudoun County, Va. He has also planted a fine orchard on another farm up on the Blue Ridge and has invested in a large rich farm in Montgomery County, Md., and is contemplating the purchase of one of the largest and finest estates in Virginia. After a long life of single blessedness he married last Winter Miss Nan Kelton, one of the beautiful and accomplished daughters of the late Gen. J. G. Keltor, of the U. S. Army.

Career of Dr. Rusby.

Dr. Rusby has been head of the New York College of Pharmacy since 1888. He was former President of the Torrey Botany Club and Chairman of the Board of Scientific Directors of the New York Botanical Gardens. He was born at Franklin, N. J., in 1855. He attended the Massachusetts State Normal College and was graduated from the Medical School of New York University in 1885.

Early in his life he undertook scientific explorations for the Smithsonian Institution, making trips as a botanist through New Mexico and Arizona in 1880 and 1883. In 1885 he crossed the South American wilderness from the Atlantic to the Pacific. This trip took him into parts hitherto unvisited by white men, and he brought back thousands of botanical specimens new to scientists. He visited chiefly the eastern slopes of the Andes in Ecuador and in Peru, the crossing of the continent consuming two years. In 1896 he led another party up the Oronoco.

Dr. Rusby is a member in a long list of scientific societies. For the term of 1909-10 he was President of the American Pharmaceutical Association. He is the author of books on pharmacy, materia medica, and botany.

BEGINNING OF THE INQUIRY.

The matter of Dr. Rusby's employment was brought to the attention of the Secretary of Agriculture on March 28 by Dr. F. L. Dunlap as acting Chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, and the Secretary referred the memorandum and papers to the Committee on Personnel of the department, composed of W. M. Hays, Assistant Secretary; George P. McCabe, Solicitor, and C. C. Clark, Chief Clerk, for investigation and report.

The committee took the matter up with Dr. Wiley, Chief of the Bureau of Chemistry; Dr. W. D. Bigelow, Assistant Chief; Dr. L. F. Kebler, Chief of the Drug Laboratory, and Dr. Rusby. In addition to their written statements all of these were examined orally. The committee found that the following facts had been established:

Dr. Rusby was first appointed an expert in drug products in the Bureau of Chemistry on July 13, 1907, at $20 per diem for days actually employed, not to exceed fifty days or $1,000 in any fiscal year. On April 10, 1908, he was appointed to the same position at the same rate per diem, not to exceed seventy days or $1,400 in any fiscal year. This appointment was terminated on Dec. 15, 1908. Four days earlier he had been appointed a pharmacognocist, effected Dec. 16, at the same rate, not to exceed 150 days or $3,000 in any fiscal year. On May 24, 1909, the Attorney General advised the Secretary of Agriculture that the effect of an act of March 4, 1907, was to prohibit the payment to members of the Referee Board of Consulting Scientific Experts of compensation at a rate per diem which if continued throughout the year would make a total aggregate compensation in excess of $3,500.

The maximum per diem compensation under this opinion, the committee held, was approximately $9. Under the agricultural appropriation act of 1910 the maximum salary of scientific investigators was fixed at $4,000 per annum, which made the maximum per diem rate of compensations approximately $11. The committee says:

> In common with the rest of the department, the officers and employes of the Bureau of Chemistry were aware of the fact that $20 per diem was in excess of the maximum per diem compensation fixed by statute that could be paid any scientific investigator.

On May 29, 1909, Dr. Rusby's salary was reduced to $9 per diem for days actually employed. The committee says:

> Dr. Wiley, Dr. Bigelow, Dr. Kebler, and Dr. Rusby were aware of the fact that this reduction in the salary of Dr. Rusby was due to an expressed provision of statute, and was not due to any change in the character or grade of work performed by Dr. Rusby.

Dr. Rusby notified Dr. Wiley that he would ask to be relieved from duty unless he could be put on the former basis of payment, and on Feb. 16, 1911, Dr. Rusby was appointed a pharmacognocist at $1,600 per annum on the recommendation of Dr. Wiley, who said:

> I recommend that Dr. H. H. Rusby, now a pharmacognocist in this bureau at a salary at the rate of $9 per day, be appointed as a pharmacognocist at a salary at the rate of $1,600 per annum, to be paid on the miscellaneous roll from the appropriation for general expenses. Dr. Rusby is doing excellent expert work on drugs and drug products, and as a matter of fact it is believed that there is not a person in the United States who is as high an authority on the subject as Dr. Rusby is. It would therefore be extremely difficult to replace him. His work is necessary to the bureau in the enforcement of the food and drugs act.

The foregoing points are stated as agreed facts. The committee then goes on with the following points in controversy:

On Dec. 20, 1910, and subsequently Dr. Rusby applied to Dr. Wiley to have his salary put on the former basis of $20 per diem. In a letter of Jan. 23, 1911, Dr. Wiley, Dr. Rusby stated, that an agreement had been reached between himself and Dr. Bigelow that his salary should amount to $2,000 a year, with the understanding that he did 100 days' work. Dr. Kebler recommended to Dr. Rusby that he accept the new appointment for the following reasons:

> Under this appointment you can do as little as one day's work per month and you get your salary; on the other hand, if you work five or ten days your salary will be the same per month. It seems to me that you have the matter largely in your own hands.

On Jan. 23, 1911, Dr. Rusby informed Dr. Wiley that he had agreed with Dr. Bigelow on the following arrangement:

> This agreement provides that my salary shall amount to $2,000 per year, conditioned upon my doing 100 days' of seven and one-half hours each. It is understood that if the amount of service should not reach that number of days there would be a pro rata reduction in the compensation.

The committee says it does not appear from the record that this statement was ever contradicted by Dr. Wiley or any other official at the Bureau of Chemistry, but that Dr. Wiley stated to the committee that he had no knowledge of the number of days Dr. Rusby was to work. He stated, the committee says, that it was his understanding that Dr. Rusby's proposed compensation was to include compensation at the rate of $9 per day for examination of samples and $50 per diem for services as a witness, but was unable to say how the latter amount could be estimated.

The solicitor had been asked to approve payment to Dr. Rusby on this basis, but declined to do so.

When accepting his new appointment at $1,600 Dr. Rusby suggested the appointment of William Mansfield as a skilled laborer at $50 a month, and the committee says that Dr. Rusby stated that he had two reasons for this appointment, first that Dr. Mansfield might perform certain work at the Government laboratory for Dr. Rusby in the latter's absence, and second, that Dr. Mansfield would lecture in Dr. Rusby's place at the university while the latter was away. Dr. Mansfield was not appointed. Dr. Wiley, the committee says, was uncertain whether the Secretary of Agriculture had formally approved Dr. Rusby's employment at $2,000 per annum. The committee's conclusion of facts is:

> 1—That Drs. Wiley, Bigelow, and Rusby, throughout the negotiations for the readjustment of Dr. Rusby's salary, had in view the purpose to restore Dr. Rusby's rate of compensation to $20 per diem for days actually employed, thus to retain his expert services both in the laboratory and in court, which services were highly valued by the Bureau of Chemistry; to accomplish this purpose they made a secret arrangement, and, through Dr. Wiley, proposed to the Secretary of Agriculture the appointment of Dr. Rusby at a legal rate per annum, without disclosing to the Secretary that Dr. Rusby was in fact to be paid at an illegal rate, different from the rate specified in the appointment.
> 2. That Dr. Kebler knew the object sought by Drs. Bigelow and Wiley, approved the arrangement, and recommended its acceptance by Dr. Rusby; and added a statement of his opinion that the new arrangement was more advantageous than the former arrangement for compensation at the rate of $9 per diem for days actually employed.
>
> 3. That Dr. Rusby recommended the appointment of Dr. Mansfield at the rate of $50 a month partly in order that he might avail himself of Dr. Mansfield's services as a substitute during his absence from university work without expense to himself.
>
> 4. That Dr. Rusby's compensation was reduced from $20 per diem to $9 per diem, in accordance with the opinion of the Attorney General that his employment at the former rate was contrary to law; that thereafter, with full knowledge of this fact, Dr. Rusby proposed and Dr. Bigelow and Dr. Kebler, with the approval of Dr. Wiley, arranged the appointment of Dr. Rusby at an apparently lawful rate of compensation, namely, $1,600 per annum, with the private agreement, not disclosed to the Secretary of Agriculture, that, notwithstanding the terms of this appointment, Dr. Rusby was to be compensated at another and a different rate, namely, $20 per diem, the rate which had been originally paid and held to be illegal.

After considering this evidence the committee sent this letter to Secretary Wilson:

COMMITTEE ASKS PUNISHMENT.

Department of Agriculture,
Office of the Secretary.
Washington, D. C.
Committee on Personnel.
May 3, 1911.

The Honorable the Secretary of Agriculture:

Sir—Referring to "Memorandum for the Secretary," with exhibits in relation to appointments of Dr. H. H. Rusby in the Bureau of Chemistry, submitted to you under date of March 28, 1911, by Dr. F. L. Dunlap, as Acting Chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, and referred by you to the Committee on Personnel for investigation and report, the Committee has the honor to transmit herewith its report in relation thereto.

Based upon this report, the Committee submits the following recommendations:

1. That Dr. H. H. Rusby, Pharmacognosist in the Bureau of Chemistry at $1,600 per annum, be dismissed from the service, on account of irregularities in connection with his appointments and recommendation for appointment of Dr. William Mansfield as unskilled laborer.

2. That Dr. L. F. Kebler, Chief of Drug Laboratory in the Bureau of Chemistry, be reduced from his present position as Chief of the Drug Laboratory to a position and status in which he will have no authority to make recommendations regarding the salaries or periods of service of other employees, on account of irregular conduct in procurement of services of Dr. H. H. Rusby.

3. That Dr. H. W. Wiley, Chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, and Dr. W. D. Bigelow, Assistant Chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, be given an opportunity to resign from the positions which they now hold in the Bureau of Chemistry, on account of irregularities in appointments of Dr. H. H. Rusby.

Respectfully,
(Signed) W. M. HAYS,
(Signed) GEO. P. McCABE,
(Signed) C. C. CLARK,
Committee on Personnel.

The matter then went to Attorney General Wickersham, and he delivered the following opinion:

LAW VIOLATED, SAYS WICKERSHAM.

Department of Justice, Washington,
May 13, 1911.

The President,
The White House.

Sir—I have carefully examined the report of the Committee on Personnel of the Department of Agriculture in which, after summarizing the evidence adduced before them, they recommend that Dr. H. H. Rusby, Pharmacognosist in the Bureau of Chemistry, be dismissed from the service; that Dr. L. F. Kebler, Chief of Drug Laboratory in the Bureau of Chemistry, be reduced from his present position, and Dr. H. W. Wiley, Chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, and Dr. W. D. Bigelow, Assistant Chief of the Bureau, be given an opportunity to resign from the positions which they now hold in the Bureau of Chemistry, on account of irregularities in the appointments of Dr. H. H. Rusby.

The facts shown by these papers are, briefly, as follows:

Dr. Rusby was employed as a scientific expert in the Bureau of Chemistry, Department of Agriculture, his regular charge for his services being, apparently, $20 a day for laboratory work, and $50 a day for attendance in court.

On May 24, 1909, the Attorney General advised the Secretary of Agriculture that no greater compensation could be lawfully paid to members of the Referee Board, Department of Agriculture, than a pro rata of the maximum compensation of such employes, respectively, viz., $3,500 per annum, for the time which they actually serve under such employment. The specific question submitted and answered was whether or not the Secretary was justified in making payments to members of that Board as compensation for their services at a rate per diem, which, if continued throughout the year, would make the total aggregate compensation greater than the amount limited by a provision of the act of March 4, 1907 (34 Stat., 1280), which reads as follows:

> Provided, That the maximum salary of any classified scientific investigator in the City of Washington, or other employe engaged in scientific work, shall not exceed $3,500 per annum.

This question the Attorney General answered in the negative (27 Op., 358).

Rusby's Pay Offically $9 a Day.

This opinion being promulgated in the department, the compensation of Dr. Rusby was reduced to the rate of $3,500 per annum, which pro rated throughout the year amounted to about $9 per day, and on May 29, 1909, Dr. Rusby's appointment as pharmacognosist in the Bureau of Chemistry, Department of Agriculture, was issued, designating him to that employment, > at a salary at the rate of $9 per diem when actually employed, on the miscellaneous roll paid from the fund appropriated for "general expenses, Bureau of Chemistry, Laboratory, Department of Agriculture." By change in salary from $20 per diem, when actually employed, not to exceed 150 days in any one fiscal year.

This reduction in salary was very objectionable to Dr. Rusby, who seemed to have complained about it, and finally to have advised Dr. Kebler, Chief of the Drug Laboratory in the Bureau of Chemistry, that unless some better arrangement could be made he could not continue in his employment in the bureau. Thereupon Dr. Kebler, Dr. Bigelow, and Dr. Wiley, Chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, united in an arrangement whereby they were to satisfy Dr. Rusby's demands for increased compensation and evade the provisions of law applicable to the employment of scientific experts in the Bureau of Chemistry, which had been held to limit the possible payment to him to $9 per day. Pursuant to this arrangement, on Feb. 16, 1911, Dr. Wiley submitted to the Secretary of Agriculture, for his approval, an appointment of Dr. Rusby as pharmacognosist—

> At a salary at the rate of one thousand six hundred ($1,600.000) dollars per annum, on the miscellaneous roll paid from the fund appropriated for "General Expenses, Bureau of Chemistry," Food and Drug Act, Salaries out of Washington. By change of salary from $9.00 per diem, when actually employed, on the same roll.

This appointment was signed by the Secretary and transmitted to Dr. Rusby. Prior thereto, and on Jan. 21, 1911, Dr. Bigelow wrote to Dr. Rusby, stating, among other things:

> Kebler and I took the matter up with Dr. Wiley to-day, and he said he would approve it if we had on record an understanding with you so that we could not be held responsible for your receiving an annual salary and not devoting your whole time to the bureau. I told him that if you were given an appointment at the rate of $170 a month you would agree not to receive more than $20 a day for time actually employed. By that I mean the usual official day of seven and one-half hours. This would be equivalent to eight and one-half days a month on the average. I told him that if it happened that your work for the department amounted on the average to less time than that you would ask for leave of absence for sufficient time to bring it to that basis.

Could Plan His Own Work.

In reply to this Dr. Rusby wrote, under date of Jan. 23, 1911, that he did not fully understand the language of Dr. Bigelow's letter, but supposed that it meant that if he did not earn the entire $2,000 at the rate agreed upon (at that time they were talking about a salary at the rate of $2,000 per annum, the rate being later fixed at $1,600) he would not expect to receive any more than was so earned.

When the appointment was issued and sent to Dr. Rusby, Dr. Bigelow wrote to him saying:

> Personally I think this is far better than the former arrangement. You are now assured of getting a certain amount each month irrespective of the time spent, and you can still so plan your work so as to interfere with your regular duties to a minimum extent.

Dr. Rusby, however, was not sure about this, and on March 3, 1911, wrote to Dr. Bigelow stating that before accepting the appointment he desired to secure information on several points, so as to ascertain whether he would be in a worse position financially under the new appointment than under the old one. In this letter he said:

> Kindly recall that on my side the basis of compensation is not less than $20 per day. At that rate, only eighty days' work per year are provided for, and that is not time enough to satisfactorily perform more than the current port work here, leaving no time for examination of inter-State samples, especially microscopical examinations, or for attendance at court. For every day at court, on the average, one day of preparation is required.
> The above facts lead to the inquiry: Would not the salary named compel me to either do very much more than eighty days' work per year, or otherwise fail to do the necessary amount of work in a satisfactory manner?

In reply to this, E. M. Chace wrote to Dr. Rusby stating that owing to Dr. Bigelow's absence his letter had come to him for attention, and that while he had not taken the matter up officially in any way, his understanding of Dr. Rusby's appointment was that he was at liberty to do such outside work as came within the proper limits, except on the days of his departmental service.

> The salary stated is drawn monthly, whether or not work has been done during the month.

On March 4 Dr. Kebler wrote to Dr. Rusby, stating, among other things:

> Personally I am of the opinion that your new appointment is much better than the old. Under this appointment you can do as little as one day's work per month and you get your salary. On the other hand, if you work five or ten days, your salary would be the same per month. It seems to me that you have the matter largely in your own hands. I am satisfied that if you do not accept the new appointment, nothing more can be done, and your services, so far as our work is concerned, can no longer be utilized materially in the future.

On March 6 Dr. Rusby wrote to Dr. Kebler saying that he had decided to accept the appointment.

Criticism of Dr. Kebler.

When the matter came before the Committee on Personnel of the Department of Agriculture, the various officials involved appeared and testified with respect to the transaction, their attention being called to the letters above referred to. Dr. Kebler's testimony does not impress me as being very straightforward. He equivocated a good deal about the letters signed by him, but did not deny writing them. Dr. Bigelow testified more frankly. He admitted that he had an understanding with Dr. Rusby that his remuneration was to be not more than $20 per day. His attention was called to the letter which he wrote to Dr. Rusby on Jan. 21, containing the paragraph:

> Kebler and I took the matter up with Dr. Wiley to-day, and he said he would approve it if we had on record an understanding with you so that we could not be held responsible for your receiving an annual salary and not devoting your whole time to the bureau.

On this point he testified as follows:

> When the reply to that letter came back I took it to Dr. Wiley. He said, "No, you misunderstood me; what I want is an understanding with Dr. Rusby that he will go to court whenever we ask it, and will do whatever work we have for that salary."

Dr. Bigelow's attention being called to the above quoted paragraph of his letter beginning: "I told him that if you were given an appointment at the rate of $170 a month," &c., he stated that the understanding at that time was that Dr. Rusby was to get $2,000 for one hundred day's work, and if he worked less than that he was to get less than $2,000, in proportion. Dr. Bigelow said he took the letter to Dr. Wiley, who stated that he would explain the whole matter carefully to the Secretary; that afterward, just as he [Dr. Bigelow] was leaving for Porto Rico he asked Dr. Wiley if he had taken the matter up with the Secretary, and he said, "Yes, and he approved it." Dr. Bigelow afterward found that the annual salary specified had been reduced from $2,000 to $1,600.

Mr. McCabe called Dr. Bigelow's attention to Dr. Rusby's letter of March 3, 1911, in which Dr. Rusby said that the basis of compensation was not less than $20 a day. Dr. Bigelow said that he did not receive that letter until after his [Bigelow's] return from Porto Rico; that he took no action because he found that Chace had acknowledged the letter, and that a reply had come from Dr. Rusby saying that the matter was arranged, or something to that effect.

Explanation by Dr. Wiley.

Dr. Wiley testified that his understanding of the arrangement with Dr. Rusby was this:

> Of course there was no definite arrangement made with Dr. Rusby so far as I know as to how many days he was to work. This is the way I put it up to the Secretary: That this change of appointment was to enable Dr. Rusby to get more money for the time he was absent from New York on cases, namely, about $50 a day, and that all the rest of the money that was coming to him would be charged by him at the old rate of $9 a day. He was satisfied at that rate if he did his work there. Then he would have to adjust the work so that for the number of days he was in court he would be charged at the rate of $50 a day. That was in my mind as the object in making this change. Of course the per diem charges are made in there by the men. We are wholly at their mercy, but we believe they do not charge a day's work unless they do it. I have every confidence in Dr. Rusby.
> When you employ an expert at a stated monthly salary the only difference is that he does not have to return his day's work unless he wants to. We leave him to judge of the way he puts in his time. If I was satisfied I would let it go. If I found a man doing nothing I should ask that his monthly salary be withdrawn.

Dr. Wiley testified as to his conversations with the Secretary, but did not claim that he gave the Secretary any reason to believe that the intention was, in appointing Dr. Rusby on an annual salary of $1,600 per year, that he should do just as little work as he chose to, or that he should do any less amount of work than was required of other employes of the Government paid by annual salaries. The original proposition was that he should have $2,000 a year, that being about the rate which he had earned previously. Subsequently this was found to be more than he had previously been paid in any year, and the annual allowance was thereupon fixed at $1,600, instead of $2,000. The following testimony was given before the Committee on Personnel:

> Mr. McCabe—So far as you were concerned, he was to work as many days as he was called on. For instance, if you had 365 days' work for him, was he to work 365?
> Dr. Wiley—No; my estimation was that he was to work days enough which, added to his court days, would make his salary $2,000—$9 a day.

(Dr. Wiley elsewhere testified that the idea was that Dr. Rusby should have $50 per day for each day spent in attending court.)

> Mr. McCabe—Then you do not know anything about an agreement with Drs. Kebler, Bigelow, and Rusby that he was to work not to exceed 100 days; you didn't know anything about it?
>
> Dr. Wiley—I would not say that, because I know that Dr. Rusby regarded his work at all times worth $20 a day, and at the same time he was willing to continue his inspection work outside of court cases at $9 a day.
>
> * * * * * * *
>
> Mr. McCabe—Do you know whether or not there was such an agreement as that, that he was not to work to exceed 100 days?
>
> Dr. Wiley—Not to my knowledge; I did not know of it.
>
> Mr. McCabe—Or not to exceed 80 days for $1,600?
>
> Dr. Wiley—No, I did not know of any such agreement, that was not the thing which was in my mind. I would not have gone to the Secretary with any such agreement.

Department Advised of the Law.

The power to appoint Dr. Rusby as an employe engaged in scientific work depended upon the same statute as that under which the Attorney General advised the Secretary of Agriculture on April 14, 1909, the appointment of the so-called Referee Board was permitted. He was, in other words, a civil employe of the Bureau of Chemistry, Department of Agriculture, engaged in scientific work and paid out of the appropriation for that department under the head of "Bureau of Chemistry," and by force of the proviso to the act of March 4, 1907, (34 Stat. 1,280) his maximum salary was limited to not exceeding $3,500 per annum.

On May 24, 1909, the Attorney General advised the Secretary of Agriculture in reply to an inquiry supplementary to the opinion of April 14, 1909, above referred to (27 Op. 301) that, by force of Section 2,687 R. S., which was applicable to "all officers, agents, and employes of the United States whomsoever," no greater compensation could be paid to members of the so-called Referee Board than a pro rata of the maximum compensation of such employes respectively "for the time only which they actually serve as such * * * " (27 Op. 358.) Said statute further enacted that "no such officers, agents or employes" shall, in any case, receive for his services, "either as fees, salary, fines, penalties, forfeiture, or otherwise, for the time he may be in service, beyond the maximum pro rata rate provided by law."

Moreover, the act of Congress approved March 15, 1898, (30 Stat. 316) enacts:

> Hereafter it shall be the duty of the heads of the several executive departments, in the interest of the public service, to require of all clerks and other employes, of whatever grade or class in their respective departments, not less than seven hours of labor each day except Sundays and days declared public holidays by law or executive order. * * *

Condign Punishment Merited.

Apart, however, from any nice consideration of these statutes, it is difficult to believe that any officials of the Government could not have known that under an employment of a scientific investigator at a fixed annual salary, an agreement with him that he might do as little or as much work as he pleased, or that he might work a fixed number of days much less than the whole year, was unlawful.

The evidence submitted by the Committee on Personnel clearly demonstrates the fact that Dr. Kebler and Dr. Bigelow entered into a scheme, to which Dr. Wiley lent his countenance and assistance, to procure the appointment of Dr. Rusby at the rate of $1,600 per year under an express agreement with him that he was to do no more work under this appointment than would be paid for at the rate of $20 per day of 7½ hours when engaged in laboratory work, and $50 per day when engaged in court. The evidence clearly shows that these gentlemen resorted to a scheme to create an appearance of compliance with the law, while at the same time distinctly agreeing not to comply with it.

Such an agreement certainly merits condign punishment, and because of the facts set forth I recommend the approval by you of the recommendations of the Committee on Personnel.

Respectfully,
GEORGE W. WICKERSHAM,
Attorney General.

All the papers were then forwarded by Secretary Wilson at the President's direction to Dr. Rusby, and he wrote the following defense:

BUSBY DEFENDS ARRANGEMENT.

776 De Graw Avenue,
Newark, N. J., July 11, 1911.

The Hon. James Wilson, Secretary United States Department of Agriculture:

Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of July 7, in which you give me an opportunity to make a final answer to the charges formulated and passed on by the Attorney General and also of copies of the Attorney General's report, of the report of the Committee on Personnel, dated May 2, and of a letter to you from the same committee, dated May 3.

In reply to your invitation to make a final answer I desire to say, first, that there has been no hearing on these charges. There was a hearing, but I understand that Dr. Wiley was informed, in answer to an inquiry, that at that time there were no charges. I do not know that the law or the regulations demand such a hearing, but justice demands, in this case, that you should take this fact into consideration, and that you should treat this communication as standing in lieu of my testimony at such a hearing, had there been one. At such a hearing, as that which was held, with no charges preferred, there was no opportunity for the presentation of any evidence not elicited by the questions that were propounded, so that an opening was made for a one-sided presentation to the Attorney General, to constitute the basis of his opinion. As the matter now stands, it seems that the Attorney General has made the charges, based on this ex parte evidence, and has then pronounced a verdict in relation to them.

It is not my desire, in making these remarks, to advance technicalities, which I would prefer to avoid. There is, however a good broad fact, important in assisting you to a just decision, namely, that some facts necessary to an understanding of the action of myself and my associates have not been presented to you at all, and that others have reached you in such a form as to lead you to misunderstand the very essence of the question.

Contradicts Attorney General.

The first point to which I ask your attention is the statement that begins at the bottom of the second page of the Attorney General's report, as follows: "This reduction in salary was very objectionable to Dr. Rusby, who seemed to have complained about it, and finally to have advised Dr. Kebler, Chief of the Drug Laboratory in the Bureau of Chemistry that unless some better arrangement could be made he could not continue in his employment in the Bureau. I trust that you will give careful attention to my correction of this statement, because, as I see it, it throws upon me a responsibility that should rest wholly upon Solicitor McCabe.

It is not true that this arrangement was very objectionable to me, and that I complained about it. On the contrary, I was asked at the time that it was proposed whether it was satisfactory, and replied that it was. It is quite true that a reduction of more than one-half in salary was not agreeable, and I may have expressed dissatisfaction, rather with some of the conditions, which required the expenditure of a great deal of time in going and coming in order to get credit for a very short period of service. This is very different from saying that it was unsatisfactory, so as to lead to my saying that I must leave the department unless some better arrangement could be made. This did not relate to my employment as pharmacognosist at all, but as expert at trials.

The definite and specific cause was as follows: During a considerable part of October and November, I was called upon to leave my college work and attend trials. I explained to Dr. Bigelow and other officers of the bureau, and to the District Attorney, that I must employ a substitute at the college at a cost much in excess of my own per diem payment. I also pointed out to them that the giving of expert testimony was not included in the duties assigned me as pharmacognosist and that therefore I would not consent to go unless it was agreed to pay me fifty dollars a day as expert, which was one-half of my usual fee for such work. The distinct reply made to me was that this was done in the case of other per diem employes and would be done in my case.

When my bill was presented, I am informed, Solicitor McCabe refused to approve it, declaring that there was no precedent, notwithstanding the fact that there were such precedents and that he was the one who had proposed and carried them through. As a result of this decision, had I been paid my nine dollars a day, I should have incurred a net loss of forty-six dollars in the eight days. As I was informed that I should be sent to Chicago, Chattanooga, and elsewhere, requiring my absence from the college during a large part of the time, this meant my financial ruin.

Was Threatened with Humiliation.

It was this consideration, and this alone, that led—compelled me is a better word—to say that I must leave the department unless some arrangement could be made which would not transform a salary into a net loss nor humiliate and degrade me by placing me in the position of giving expert testimony for nine dollars a day.

These points are specifically and fully treated in my communications on the subject, and it is a gross and fatal error, so far as reaching the truth is concerned, to ignore them in considering the record. Moreover, this error on the part of the solicitor was the origin, as it was the beginning, of the whole difficulty regarding my salary. Still further, its continuation into and through the deliberations of your committee and of the Attorney General, has resulted in a totally false and baseless charge against me, as I think you will see from what follows. Incidentally, it is to be noted that I have never been paid the nine dollars a day for the expert service referred to. This refusal I take to constitute a tacit recognition by the solicitor of the fact that such a payment of money specifically appropriated for my services as pharmacognosist, for those of an expert, would be illegal.

The next thing to which I ask your kind attention is the two reasons assigned for proposing my dismissal. The first is "on account of irregularities in connection with his appointment." How is it possible for me to be held responsible for my own appointment unless it appears that I participated knowingly in the alleged irregularities? I was entirely unfamiliar with the law and the department regulations. As a scientific expert I was supposed to know only my professional work and to leave decisions regarding executive action to my administrative superiors. I did not suggest the arrangement that was made, and when it was suggested to me, I supposed, and had a right to suppose, that it was legal and proper. I knew that practically the same arrangement prevailed with the members of the referee board. Had I had any suspicion that it was not so, I would not have accepted it.

As a matter of fact, the arrangement was not acceptable to me. The arrangement that I desired and urged was that of continuing my $9 per day and paying me a separate fee when I testified as expert, and the basic error in this whole series of difficulties was the refuseal to allow me this equitable and established provision. Now, it seems to me an exceedingly harsh action, not to deprive me of my position, which is of minor importance, but to affix the stigma of a dismissal for something of which I was entirely ignorant, and with which I had nothing to do beyond accepting the action of my superiors.

Suggests a Revised Verdict.

The best that you could possibly do in taking such action would be a verdict substantially like the following, no matter it might be worded: "Dismissed for having accepted an appointment from the Secretary, not knowing that such appointment by the Secretary was illegal. Such ignorance of the law is a good defense for the Secretary, but not for the scientific employe who trusted to the correctness of the Secretary's actions." This I say is the best that you could do, but you would not have the opportunity of doing so well, because of the utter falsity of the charge itself, as a matter of fact.

I am charged with having accepted an appointment that would result in my getting the equivalent of twenty dollars a day for services as pharmacognosist, for which the law allowed a payment of only about nine dollars a day. This charge is absolutely false, and unless it is withdrawn, and all responsibility resting on me because of it removed and corrected, those making it cannot hope to escape the just penalty.

The whole understanding, fully and definitely discussed between me and Dr. Bigelow, with whom the arrangement was made, was that this twenty dollars was to be the sum, as nearly as it could be averaged, of my compensation both as pharmacognosist and as expert, the Solicitor having refused to allow me to get the two payments separately, as I had the right to do under the established procedure of the department. My position was not in any sense that of asking that my compensation as pharmacognosist be changed, nor did I desire to have it changed, but this apparent change was forced by my inability to get the pharmacongosist's and the expert's emoluments separated. It was always represented to me that the Solicitor firmly refused to have them separated, and so they were, perforce, united.

There was a full and expressed agreement that the compensation finally fixed on was to include compensation as pharmacognosist and as expert, and in my final acceptance I made it clear that this was the only consideration that induced me to consent to the arrangement, and it ought to have so appeared in my appointment. From the transcript of the hearing, from the report of the committee, and from the Attorney General's report, this most vital of all the facts concerned is, so far as I can see, entirely excluded.

You may say that such a union of payments was illegal, or "irregular," to use the term of the indictment. Very good! It was forced unwillingly upon us by the Solicitor. In any case, how was I to know that that which was approved by the experienced chiefs of the department, by its illegal division and by yourself, was wrong? Who could require an expert, under such circumstances, to oppose himself against you? I should be very grateful, if it is not asking too much of you, to have you advise me as to whether under these circumstances I should have waived compensation for my services as expert on the ground that the per diem payment was illegal for such service, have accepted the nine dollars per diem at a ruinous net loss to myself, or accepted an arrangement made by my superiors for uniting the two payments in one annual salary.

Was Tired of the Whole Affair.

Please note that I was not asking for a new arrangement of any kind whatever. I was tired of the whole affair, and preferred to retire from the position, but took the honorable course of notifying the department that I must leave unless some better arrangement could be made. Am I a conscript in your department, that I must continue to serve whether I wish to or not, under conditions which are ruinous and degrading? Or, having offered to resign, and having then accepted an arrangement proposed by proper authority, which seemed the best possible that could be devised, and which was the most satisfactory possible to all concerned, am I to be punished because of my innocent compliance, refused the privilege of resigning, and dismissed in disgrace?

I would like to say another word in relation to my reason for welcoming the increase. It was utterly impossible for me frequently to leave the college unless I were to have some one take my place, one who could do my work while I was absent. To this substitute I was to devote one-half of the two thousand dollars that I at first understood that I was to receive as my compensation. Inasmuch as I have not been officially notified of an allowance of nine hundred dollars for my salary as pharmacognosist for the fiscal year, with the accompanying statement that the appropriation was insufficient, it could probably be increased, it should be noted that it would be ten dollars net less than I was already receiving. At sixteen hundred dollars I should actually be a loser, if I were compelled to pay an outside expert as I had been doing. It is not true that my only object was to secure an arrangement that would make it possible for me to continue in my position.

In reading over the Attorney General's report it does not appear to me that this part of the subject has come to his attention at all, notwithstanding that it was fully gone into and understood at the hearing, and I ask that it now be taken into consideration.

Suggestion of an Assistant.

The second reason assigned for my dismissal is that I asked for the appointment of Dr. William Mansfield as an unskilled laborer. Although this subject has been somewhat discussed in the Attorney General's report, the page reference there given to the transcript of the hearing is insufficient, and the subject has been very wrongly construed. Statements which I made at the hearing ought to have rendered such a misconstruction impossible.

The object of having Mansfield appointed for a single month, during which, as had been represented to me, it would be necessary for me to be absent most of the time, was to prevent the important work which it was my duty to perform at the Appraiser's Stores from remaining undone. When a shipment of goods is held up for some time it causes a great deal of trouble at the laboratory. This trouble I wished to avoid, and I saw no other way of doing it than that which I suggested, the compensation asked for Mansfield being less than would have been paid me for the same work at my per diem rate. Some of this work Mansfield could not do, and it was arranged that he should send me the things with which he needed help. There being necessary work for two men, at points remotely separated, I considered it my duty to try and arrange for another to do part of it. I had understood that the only way in which a person could thus be hired for a limited period was as an "unskilled" laborer, and that such an arrangement was common. [illegible] and I answered that I naturally supposed that he would be willing to give my lectures [illegible]. The word [illegible] in the ninth line on Page 35 of the transcript [illegible] "supposed." [illegible]

But suppose that it had done so, what would have been its force? Am I to be expected to do my work at $9 a day, to employ another man to do part of the department work for me, and above all this to pay $10 apiece for my college lectures? Or am I to be dismissed for recommending [illegible] to employ some one to do my work [illegible] my own pocket?

H. H. RUSBY, Pharmacognosist.

TO FLY FROM CHICAGO, ATWOOD TELLS TAFT

Times Trophy Winner Announces New Cross-Country Flight in Call on President.

TO END WHITE HOUSE TRIP

Will Sail In from College Park When New Machine Reaches Him and Earn Washington Aero Club's Gold Medal.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Harry N. Atwood, the Boston aviator, who has nearly completed a trip by aeroplane from Boston to the White House, by way of New York and Atlantic City, called on President Taft this morning and talked with the Chief Executive for a few minutes on some of the trials of aeroplane operation. Incidentally he told the President that he was contemplating a trip by aeroplane from New York to Chicago, although if the trip is undertaken, Chicago is more likely to be the starting point than New York, on account of the prevailing winds, which at this season blow mostly from the west and southwest.

Atwood was taken to the White House by THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, who suggested, while presenting him to the President, that he might invite Mr. Taft out for a little practical experience with an aeroplane. The President laughed and retorted that he was afraid he would disturb the balance of the machine. Thereupon Atwood explained that he always seated passengers in the middle, so as to preserve the equilibrium.

The President referred to the arrangements that are pending for the presentation of a gold medal to Atwood on behalf of the Aero Club of Washington. The presentation will be at the White House as soon as Atwood is ready to fly in from College Park, where he landed yesterday morning on his arrival from Atlantic City. Atwood will endeavor to land in the White House grounds, between the big building and the fountain in front of the south entrance. The President will present the medal, which is to bear on one side a relief map of the route from Boston here, with the stopping points marked by small brilliants.

Atwood was much interested in looking at the White House grounds to see if a safe landing could be made. Grahame-White, when he flew in from Bennings, landed in Executive Avenue, just west of the White House. Atwood estimated the width of that street, and commented on the fact that his machine is seven feet wider than Grahame-White's, which would make a good deal of difference about landing.

Atwood told the President that he had ordered a new machine sent on from Marblehead, Mass., by special train, and that it ought to be here to-morrow evening. If it arrives in time the flight from College Park to the White House grounds may be attempted on Friday afternoon. Otherwise it will be delayed a little.

Atwood said to-day that if he had known College Park was not in the District of Columbia he would have kept on yesterday morning. But he had understood that it was the Washington aviation field just as Squantum, outside of Boston, is the Boston aviation field. He had not been here since he took up aviation, and did not understand the local situation. When he received a telegram telling him to stop at College Park he thought that was the end of his journey.

"I shall take a few joy rides around the capital," he said, "when my other machine comes. It is the one in which I made a number of records in the New England States."

Definite plans for the flight between Chicago and New York have not been mapped out by the young aviator as yet. He expects to be in Washington for several days, and then go to over to New York to receive the trophy to be presented to him by THE NEW YORK TIMES for the Boston-Washington journey. By that time he will have considered the long flight more in detail, and may be able to say something definite about plans for it.

ATWOOD MAY GET LICENSE.

Doesn't Have to Wait Six Months to Complete Tests.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

My attention was drawn to-day to a statement made in the fourth column of the third page of this morning's issue of your paper. It is here stated, "under the rules of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, an applicant for a license who has failed once may not make a second trial within six months."

I beg the hospitality of your columns to contradict this. There is no such clause in the federation rules, and an applicant who does not succeed in his tests one day can continue them on the next or on any other he cares to select.

For instance, in the specific case you refer to, that of Harry N. Atwood, one distance test and one altitude test have been successfully complied with and any time that Atwood cares to make the second distance test under official supervision the request for a license will be favorably considered. I don't see what good purpose a six months' restriction would serve in the present state of the art. The federation merely aims at enforcing the world over for the protection of other fliers, and especially of spectators, certain standard tests without which a flier cannot enter competitive events.

FLIES IN A THUNDER STORM.

Moisant Pupil, Caught in Air, Braves the Downpour.

Special to The New York Times.

NASSAU BOULEVARD, L. I., July 12.—With ex-Lieut. Gov. Woodruff presiding, the first meeting of the Board of Governors of the Aero Club of New York was held this afternoon under a large awning which ordinarily shelters the club's guests at aeroplane exhibitions. It was voted to build ten more hangars at this place and also to convert the Garden City Estates Clubhouse into the clubhouse for the new organization.

Later in the day Howard Gill of Baltimore won his pilot's license before Redmond Cross, acting Chairman of the Contest Committee of the Aero Club of America, and J. Campbell Wood.

At the Mineola Field this morning Ferdinand de Murias demonstrated that an aeroplane can fly in a thunderstorm. De Murias had been sent out with instructions to go only a certain distance. When the storm broke he was in the air. Still in the air, the pupil of the Moisant school turned the machine and came flying back to the sheds right in the face of the downpour.

Fitzsimmons in Curtiss Biplane Falls Into Esopus Creek.

KINGSTON, N. Y., July 12.—Frank J. Fitzsimmons of New York fell into Esopus Creek this morning with a Curtiss biplane and had it not been for the presence of campers near by he would have been drowned.

Fitzsimmons was about seventy feet in the air when the rudder broke and left him without steering apparatus. When the machine fell into the creek Fitzsimmons was caught beneath it, but the campers quickly got him out of the wreckage.

The girls said the scenery was enjoyable and New York was fine, especially the harbor, but after all, of course, Cobalt was quite a place.

BALLOON ST. LOUIS IV. WINS.

Distance 525 Miles, Altitude 22,000 Feet—Other Records.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 12.—While official returns of the race will not be available for several days, there is no doubt, according to officials of the Kansas City Aero Club, that first place will go to the St. Louis IV., which landed near Lapaz Junction, Ind., at 4:15 yesterday afternoon, and second to the Million Population Club, which came down at Lacrosse, Ind., at 2:45 P. M. yesterday.

As soon as each balloon landed its pilot forwarded all instruments and records of the flight to the headquarters of the National Aero Association in New York. The official winners will be announced when these records have been checked up.

The altitude record of the race as well as the distance record is believed to have been made by the St. Louis IV., whose instruments recorded a maximum altitude of 22,000 feet.

The balloons and their unofficial distances are: St. Louis IV., 525 miles; Million Population Club, 485 miles; Miss Sofia, 445 miles; Buckeye, 315 miles; Topeka II., 190 miles; New York, 158 miles; Kansas City, 150 miles.

NEW HAVEN DEATH LIST 14.

Identifications Completed and Officials Think All Bodies Have Been Found.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 12.—The body of Sylvester Bennett of Washington, D. C., was taken from the wreck of the Federal express just before dark to-night. The dead now number fourteen.

The identifications were of the bodies of Arthur Dunnigan, colored, of West Chester, Penn.; Stella G. Morley, address unknown; identification made by means of a ring and watch; A. Sciarra of 1,135 Pierce Street, Philadelphia. The body of Mrs. Virginia Palmer of Richmond, Va., was identified by her son, M. P. Waddy.

The other body found to-day was that of Edmund J. Goff, a freight conductor of New Haven.

The Pullmans and the day coach were hoisted and nothing further was found to indicate the presence of other victims.

In sorting the wreckage, both the local and railroad police found many small articles, purses, ties, stickpins, and the like. One pocketbook contained $12.55 in money and a rebate check on the Pennsylvania Railroad for a half fare and punched Jersey City and Philadelphia. The railroad police are reported to have a pocketbook containing $1,500.

In a coat belonging to William Saunders, one of the victims, were found a pair of eyeglasses wrapped in tissue paper unbroken and a pocket full of cigars without even the wrappers broken. In the Pullman which fell on the day coach was found an electric chandelier with the bulbs all in place and unbroken.

The Fish Commissioners who were riding in the Government fish car visited the scene of the wreck late to-day, after having been treated for minor injuries at the hospitals. They stated that of the 8,000 fish in the tanks of the car, all had died. Two Inter-State Commerce Commissioners, Belknap and Case, arrived this afternoon to look after Government property.

To-night there are forty injured in the city hospitals. In St. Vincent's eleven are considered serious, and seven will recover. In the Bridgeport Hospital five are serious, and seventeen will recover. Miss Estelle Dorsey of Washington, D. C., in the Bridgeport Hospital, will probably leave for her home to-morrow.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 12.—"The cause of the accident to the Federal express at Bridgeport yesterday morning," said H. J. Horn, assistant to President C. C. Mellen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, in a statement issued to-day, "was due to the absolute disregard by the engineer of both the home and the distant signals, which were thrown against him. The signals home and distant and the cross-over itself are in the same location as they have been for not less than ten years. The four tracks are all straight at point of cross-over, but the distant signal is on a light curve."

The statement then reviews the engineer's record of fourteen years' service on the road, showing that in the past three weeks he had pulled fourteen passenger trains in this same district, and on June 25 had handled the Federal express, both east and west bound.

GOVERNOR AND SENATOR, TOO

Hoke Smith to Hold On to State Job Until December.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 12.—Gov. Hoke Smith was elected United States Senator from Georgia on the first ballot taken by the House and Senate in joint session at noon to-day. He succeeds Joseph M. Terrell, who was appointed by Gov. Brown to fill the unexpired term of the late A. S. Clay.

Mr. Smith announced soon after being elected that he would continue as Governor until at least this legislative session was ended, and that he did not expect to go to Washington until December.

EDWARDS GRANTS VACATIONS

Street Cleaners Confer with Their Chief, Who Warns Agitators.

Street Cleaning Commissioner Edwards conferred yesterday with a committee of twenty-three of his drivers, who were accompanied by George W. Prescott, Business Agent of the Teamsters' Local, to which the drivers belong. Mr. Edwards told the men plainly that he wanted it understood that agitators or trouble makers would not be tolerated. The conference was held in order that the committee might present the complaints of the drivers against night work.

The committee said the drivers were complaining that they could not sleep in the day time, and that there were not enough horses and carts to do the work, so that the men were kept out longer than the eight hours a day the charter requires. Day work and a yearly vacation were asked for. There was no talk of a strike. Discussing the complaints with the men, the Commissioner said:

"I have tried my best to cut down the expenses of running the department during the last month, but found I could not do it without sacrificing the horses and men. I have therefore asked for an increase in my appropriation, as the Department of Street Cleaning budget for 1911 was cut down 10 per cent. from that for 1910. It has been impossible for me up to the present time to give any vacations in any way, shape, or manner. I am now ready to say to you men that vacation orders will go out and seven days will be given drivers, sweepers, &c. Those men who worked Fourth of July will get half a day extra."

The members of the committee said later that they were satisfied with what Commissioner Edwards said. A meeting of the drivers will be held at Murphy's Hall on Sunday evening, at which the committee will report.

DELAY OFFICERS' RETIREMENT

Senators Suspend Operation of State Militia Age Act Until Dec. 31.

ALBANY, July 12.—After having passed Assemblyman Brooks's bill providing for the retirement of National Guard officers after they have reached the age of 64 years, the Senate to-day reconsidered the vote and adopted an amendment which suspends the operation of the proposed law until Dec. 31. This change was made upon the statement of Senator Griffin, Chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs, that the committee had reported the bill only on the condition that the amendment would be made.

Tammany Senators opposed the amendment, but they finally permitted the change at the request of Senator Wagner, the majority leader. The existing law makes retirement at 64 optional with the Governor. The new law will make it mandatory, conforming with the rule which prevails in the regular army.

Among those who will be effected is Gen. Austen, Chief of Artillery, and it was to prevent his abrupt suspension that the Griffin amendment was proposed. Under the new law, Major Gen. Charles F. Roe, head of the National Guard, will retire next Summer.

Operation on George A. Viles.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM JUNCTION, N. H., July 12.—George A. Viles of the Profile House and New York was operated upon for appendicitis this morning by Dr. F. W. Pearl of New York. Hopes of his recovery are entertained. Mrs. Viles, who was Miss Corwin of Brooklyn, is with her husband.

ENSIGN DISAPPEARS FROM THE NAVY YARD

Speaks in Note He Left of Drowning Himself, but It Is Not Believed He Did It.

FELT HIMSELF DISGRACED

Because He Was Under Arrest for Overstaying Leave—Police Asked to Search—Note Mentions Woman.

Ensign Robert Simonton Young, Jr., of the destroyer Perkins, stationed at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, has disappeared from his ship, leaving behind him a note in which he announced his intention of committing suicide by drowning. The navy yard authorities have asked the police to search for him. Despite the note, it is the general opinion among officers at the yard that Young has not killed himself, and that the note was intended to prevent a search.

In this note, which the navy yard officials refuse to make public, it is known that there was some mention of a young woman, and it is largely because of this that the navy folk are disinclined to believe that Young has killed himself. The water of the navy yard basin has not been dragged for his body and will not be for several days at least. Before then the officials expect to get word from the Ensign.

Why the young man should have stolen away from his vessel cannot be accounted for by his superior officers, except on the ground that he was overcome with shame at what actually was nothing but his technical arrest for overstaying his leave. Had he remained to face an investigation his superiors have little doubt that he could have cleared himself.

About a week ago the young man reported on his ship after having overstayed his leave for five days. Capt. Pringle followed custom in technically putting him under arrest, which consisted only in ordering him to remain in quarters. The young officer seemed to take the order very much to heart and to appear to believe that he was a disgraced man. This feeling, his friends believe, may have caused him to desert. They have scarcely any fear that he actually carried out his threat to commit suicide. A fact which strengthens this disbelief is that Young's revolver was found in his cabin, fully loaded, but with one of the shells showing the mark of the firing pin, as if he had attempted to shoot himself and had failed because of a defective cartridge. This and the note, it is thought, were intended purposely to deceive.

Young is known to have been aboard the Perkins as late as 10 P. M. on Tuesday. After that he was not seen and yesterday morning when a brother officer went to his quarters, he found them tenantless. It was then that the note and the revolver were found. The note was addressed to Capt. Pringle.

It was only ten days ago that Lieut. Ozburn of the gunboat Tacoma shot and killed himself at the Navy Yard after having overstayed his leave as Young had done, and officials of the yard are hopeful that there may have been no second tragedy. Rear Admiral Leutze, Commandant of the Yard, was in consultation with Capt. Pringle yesterday morning and it was after this that the police were asked to look for Young. Both officers expressed the belief that Young had simply slipped away, believing himself in disgrace.

Young was born in Concord, N. C., and is twenty-five years old. He was appointed from that State to the Naval Academy on June 14, 1904, and received his present commission on June 6, 1910. He was assigned to the Perkins on June 6, 1908.

FISCHER-HANSEN IN TROUBLE

His French-American Stores Company Put in Bankruptcy.

Carl Fischer-Hansen, the disbarred lawyer, formerly son-in-law of Isaac V. Brokaw, is in financial difficulties. He is the President and Treasurer of the French-American Stores Company of 2,111 and 2,113 Seventh Avenue and 856 Westchester Avenue, the Bronx, and owns the control of it. A petition of bankruptcy was filed yesterday in the United States courts against the concern by the Franklin Company, a credior for $312; Gordon Brothers, $485, and the Lambert Dairy Company, $195.

The liabilities of the concern are set down at $12,000 and the assets at about $4,000. It is alleged that the company transferred a large part of its income, money, and other property to Mr. Hansen, although it was insolvent and had failed to pay a note of $1,000 upon which suit has been brought. It is also alleged that it could not meet its other obligations, and that even its electric light was cut off on account of its failure to pay the bill.

Another allegation is that for the personal advantage of Mr. Hansen the company contracted further debts and depleted its assets by opening a new store and mortgaging its property, with the result that the funds that might have been available for other creditors were used up. Consequently, it is declared the mortgage on some of its property is about to be foreclosed and it has so little money for current expenses that its bakers and other employes have threatened to quit work.

Other acts of alleged bankruptcy are preferential payments of $1,000, transfer of merchandise and accounts amounting to $1,000, and permitting creditors to get preferential payments by legal proceedings. On July 8, it is asserted, Mr. Hansen admitted his inability to pay his debts and his willingness to be adjudged a bankrupt.

The business was started last December by Mr. Hansen and another man, but last April Mr. Hansen, it is said, became sole owner. The company was incorporated on April 25.

Hansen was at one time known as a successful lawyer, who had married a daughter of Isaac V. Brokaw, and was willing to take the cases of needy clients for nothing. In June, 1908, he was indicted on the charge of blackmail in connection with James E. O'Brien of Philadelphia. He was acquitted, but afterward confessed to the bribery of witnesses. He was sentenced to a year on the island and was released on Dec. 31, 1909. Since then he has not appeared in the public eye.

Policeman Says Ambulance Surgeon Wouldn't Take Patient.

James Gruber, a baker, 58 years old, of 295 Woodbine Street, Brooklyn, is in serious condition in the Bushwick Hospital as the result of being prostrated by the heat at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. Policeman Grady of the Ralph Avenue Station found Gruber unconscious on the sidewalk at Lexington and Ralph Avenues, and his call for an ambulance brought Dr. Keyes of St. Mary's Hospital. The policeman says that after looking at Gruber, Dr. Keyes climbed back into his ambulance and drove off, remarking:

"This ambulance is no public hack."

Apparently, says Grady, Dr. Keyes thought Gruber was intoxicated. According to the physician, however, he gave Gruber what treatment he could on the street and then offered to carry him to his home, as the man refused to go to the hospital.

On Dr. Keyes's departure, a crowd which had gathered around took up a collection of $1.50 and a cab was called to send the baker home. The driver refused to take the man, however, telling Grady that Gruber appeared to be dying; and then the policeman called Dr. Walenta from the Bushwick Hospital.

Dr. Walenta found that Gruber's temperature was 108, and he rushed him to the hospital, where his temperature gradually reduced. So badly had he been overcome, however, that his condition late last night was said to be still dangerous.

Humidity Deadly in New Jersey.

In northern New Jersey the humidity yesterday was almost as deadly as in Manhattan. A break in the temperature came in the afternoon. In Newark there were seven deaths and twenty-four prostrations directly attributable to the heat. In Millville, N. J., Charles E. Merril, city editor of The Daily Republican, was found dead in bed. He was formerly editor of The Middletown (Conn.) Tribune. He was 55 years old, and a graduate of Wesleyan University.

END OF OLD HIGHWAY BOARD.

Dix Signs Bill Creating New One—Also Conservation Measure.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 12.—Gov. Dix to-night signed the Murtaugh bill abolishing the State Highway Commission and creating a new Commission and Senator Wagner's measure establishing a State Conservation Commission. These two measures were recommended by Gov. Dix, and they are among the most important bills of the session.

The Governor opposed the State Highway Commission on the ground of extravagance and inefficiency. While he had the appointment of one member, the majority would have remained in Republican control. The new law provides for the appointment of a State Superintendent of Highways, and he, with the State Engineer and the Superintendent of Public Works, will compose the new commission. Contracts are to be made and appointments made by the Superintendent of Highways, subject to the approval of the other members of the commission. W. H. Catling, White Plains, is a prominent candidate for the place of Highway Superintendent.

The new Department of Conservation consolidates the Forest, Fish and Game Commission; the State Water Supply Commission, and the Land Purchasing Board. Its work is to be supervised by three Commissioners, the salary of each being fixed at $10,000 a year. The new commission will have unusual powers, having control over water storage, the regulation of the flow of navigable streams, the purchase of land for the State Preserve, the leasing of surplus water power along the canal, the question of draining swamps and other lands, as well as the protection of the forest, fish and game. James W. Fleming, recently appointed Forest, Fish and Game Commissioner, is to be one of the Conservation Commissioners.

ELKS ELECT APPLEGATE.

Choose Grand Trustee of the Supreme Lodge After Three Ballots.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 12.—Carey S. Applegate, Past Exalted Ruler of Owensboro (Ky.) Lodge 144, now of Salt Lake City, was elected here to-day, after three ballots, Grand Trustee of the Supreme Lodge of Elks.

It was a battle of the "outs" against the "ins," and the former won. The office had been held for sixteen years by Thomas McNulty of Baltimore.

Arthur C. Moreland of New York Lodge, defeated yesterday by John P. Sullivan of New Orleans for Exalted Ruler, expressed his satisfaction to-day that the fight had been "on the square." "Notwithstanding my years," he said, "I am still young enough to serve in the ranks for the best interests of the order."

Past Exalted Ruler John Galvin submitted a resolution providing for the construction of a new National home. It provides also for a commission composed of Exalted Ruler Hermann, Exalted Ruler-elect Sullivan, the Board of Grand Trustees and three members to be appointed by the new Grand Exalted Ruler. They will proceed at once to execute plans for the new home on the site of the present home in Bedford City, Va., or such other place as the commission may select.

An assessment of twenty-five cents will be levied upon all members of the order in September, this year, and a like assessment Sept. 1, 1912. Past Exalted Ruler Allen suggested that tuberculosis camps should be established, but nothing definite was decided.

Long Acre Company Explains Plans.

Ex-Judge J. S. L'Amoreaux, counsel for the Long Acre Electric Light & Power Co., submitted to Public Service Commissioner Maltbie at a hearing yesterday the form of a mortgage on which the company proposes ultimately to issue $50,000,000 of bonds, but it is not proposed to apply at present for authority to issue more than $10,000,000.

MAYOR ASKS POLICE TO WATCH ICE TRUST

Hears of "Heartless Greed and Oppression," but Wishes to Make Sure.

CERTAIN THERE IS DISTRESS

Waldo to Begin Investigation To-day—Whitman Ready to Prosecute if He Gets the Evidence.

Mayor Gaynor wrote yesterday to Police Commissioner Waldo calling the Commissioner's attention to the report that the American Ice Company (now operating under its former name, the Knickerbocker Ice Company) has refused to sell and deliver ice to independent companies, and asking the Commissioner to assign men to make a thorough investigation and turn over their data to the District Attorney for possible prosecution. The case, as has been laid before him, the Mayor says, shows heartless greed and oppression. This is his letter:

> Office of the Mayor,
> July 12, 1911.
>
> Sir: I have received several complaints that the American Ice Company is refusing to sell and deliver ice to the so-called independent wagons engaged in the sale of ice, thereby depriving the congested districts of the Borough of Manhattan of ice to a large extent, the company not having delivery wagons enough of its own to distribute ice throughout the city.
>
> Very much discomfort and sickness is being caused thereby. This is a matter for the District Attorney of the County of New York to take cognizance of, but as he has not yet done so, please send out some of the most intelligent men of the force to ascertain the supply of ice which the said company has here in the city from day to day, and whether it is restricting the amount which it brings to the city in order to enhance prices, and the number of independent wagons which it is refusing to supply; and this information we can lay before the District Attorney.
>
> The case as it is laid before me seems to be one of heartless greed and oppression, and yet I do not wish to pre-judge, for sometimes such things are much exaggerated, as you know. I am certain, however, that the reports of distress for lack of ice in some quarters are not exaggerated. Please also see the President of the company personally and get his version. I am aware that this is extra work, the doing of which the law may not place upon you and your force at all, but I trust it will be well done nevertheless. Very truly yours,
>
> W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.
> Rhinelander Waldo, Esq., Commissioner of Police.

Commissioner Waldo, it was said, will begin a strict investigation to-day. If the police discover any evidence of oppression, the facts will be laid before District Attorney Whitman with a view to having a Grand Jury investigation.

District Attorney Whitman said yesterday that he has received no evidence of illegal methods of trading on the part of the so-called Ice Trust. Speaking of a proposed visit to him by the independent ice dealers of the east side, who say they cannot get ice on account of a shortage, he said:

"While I do not know that the law has been violated it does seem that the methods which the so-called trust is said to have been employing may be illegal. I can't, however, speak with authority until the matter has been submitted to me. I'll be glad to take up any evidence of a crime and prosecute vigorously at once."

The independent dealers say that drivers of trust wagons are telling customers of the independents that there is plenty of ice for them if they will sign contracts to take ice of the big company.

EXPLAINS HEAT WAVE.

Chief Moore Adds That Shift of Barometric Pressure Indicates Relief.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Chief Willis L. Moore of the Government Weather Bureau to-day personally issued a signed statement explaining the cause for the hot wave of the past ten days, and telling why he believes more or less permanent relief is at hand.

"For a prolonged period," says Mr. Moore, "the barometric pressure has been above normal over the Atlantic Ocean and low over the northwestern portion of the American continent. The international weather map of Wednesday showed a reversal in this pressure distribution—an extensive area of high barometric pressure appearing over Alaska, while the pressure over the middle latitudes of the Atlantic Ocean has fallen to below normal. This changed pressure distribution is strongly indicative of the dissipation of the warm weather over the Eastern States and Middle West in the immediate future, and a period of moderate temperature in these districts lasting through the remainder of this week and contiuuing into next week."

Lower temperatures are reported from almost all points to-day.

Meantime Senators still marooned in the heated Capitol by reciprocity, when they sought to consult the official temperature machine kept in a glass case back of the Senate chamber, found on the stand where the machine had for days marked the progress of the hot wave this announcement:

"The temperature has gone so high that the self-recording thermometer refuses to register, and the machine has been put into cold storage for a few days to reduce its temperature and regain its normal condition."

102 Degrees in Berlin.

BERLIN, July 12.—Berlin is suffering from a heat wave. The thermometers in the downtown section registered a maximum temperature of 102 degrees to-day.

tracks of the New York Central and urged him to desist. In answer Caroll threw him to the ground. It took two other policemen and three bystanders to get the crazed man under control. He was put in a straitjacket and taken to the Lincoln Hospital.

In reply to the charges that he was hampering the efforts of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to provide sufficient drinking water for horses, Commissioner Thompson of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity spoke freely yesterday, also giving a few facts as to the relation of the heat wave to the water supply.

"I have heard it asserted that work horses are dropping dead in the street because there isn't sufficient drinking water for them," he said. "This is not so. Despite the fact that the city is experiencing one of the severest water shortages in many years, there are no less water troughs for the horses than there are under normal conditions. We have 185 such troughs in Manhattan alone, and 156 of these are running to-day. The rest are out of order.

"Everyone should be careful not to allow his humanitarian enthusiasm to cloud his conception of the seriousness of the present water shortage. Our supply is sinking rapidly. In the last week alone the reservoirs were lowered by nearly 2,000,000,000 gallons of water. Unless rain comes soon it will be absolutely necessary to take radical steps for the conservation of our supply."

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals issued a denial of the statement that the Commissioner was hampering its efforts to provide sufficient water to keep horses alive during the hot days.

Reports of prostrations continued to come in until late last night. Six deaths were reported after 9 o'clock at night.

CUBAN STORM GROWS; MORE GRAFT CHARGES

Gen. Nodarse, Close Friend of Gomez, Resigns Directorship of National Lottery.

DUEL WITH EDITOR LIKELY

El Dia Charged Nodarse with Frauds Amounting to $80,000 a Month—Said President Got a Share.

HAVANA, July 12.—Gen. Orencio Nodarse, Director of the National Lottery, has resigned on the ground of ill-health. President Gomez accepted his resignation this afternoon.

Gen. Nodarse was recently the object of bitter attacks on the part of the new anti-administration paper El Dia, which charged him with frauds amounting to $80,000 monthly by the collection of illegal commissions on lottery tickets. This money, El Dia asserted, was divided among the members of the administration, including President Gomez.

The resignation of Gen. Nodarse is generally believed to be a preliminary to a challenge to a duel with Major André, editor of the paper, the President having especially prohibited duelling by members of his official family.

The evening paper Cuba, which is opposed to the administration, deplores as humiliating to this republic the coming visit of American Secretary of War Stimson and Col. Crowder for the purpose of investigating alleged improvident concessions to foreign corporations. The paper declares that the blame rests with the President for authorizing concessions of such a character for the sake of personal profit, which, it alleges, aggregates a huge amount.

On account of Gen. Nodarse being more closely allied with President Gomez, personally and politically, than any other member of the Administration, his resignation is regarded as of great importance. It has served to cause a recrudescence of the feeling of unrest, which recently appeared to be subsiding.

La Discusion prints an interview with the President in which he declares that the Administration does not fear an uprising, but is fully prepared to deal with it severely if an emergency arises.

LORIMER HEARING RESUMES.

Taft May Submit Denial of Charge That He Was for Senator.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The Senate Lorimer Investigating Committee will resume its hearings here to-morrow with Gov. Deneen of Illinois on the stand. The Governor has figured prominently in the testimony of other Illinois politicians, and while he is not expected to throw much light directly on the Lorimer election, he is expected to tell interesting things about the situation leading up to the Democrats going over to the support of Mr. Lorimer, a Republican.

The committee will not be surprised if the President submits a formal statement repudiating that part of Edward Hines's testimony charging that he (Hines) bore to Illinois from Washington a message telling the Illinois leaders that Mr. Taft wanted Mr. Lorimer elected. Senator Penrose and Senator Aldrich will soon testify on the same point, supporting the denials already made by the President.

Before long the committee will begin the cross-questioning of the bribed members of the Illinois Legislature. Already the committee has heard more testimony than was taken in the previous investigation or in that conducted by the Illinois State Legislature. No hope is felt now that the committee will be anywhere nearly ready to report at this session, and the hearings alone are expected to drag on for many weeks to come.

A Sale of Auto Apparel at Saks'
Thursday, Friday and Saturday

¶ A tour through our Auto Department a day or two ago revealed the fact that we have a number of garments which ought to have been in your employ before this. That they have failed of purchase, is, of course, largely due to the fact that styles frequently overtake distribution. We do not believe in equivocating, however, and so we want to inform you beforehand that this merchandise is not, strictly speaking, representative of the latest auto styles. On the other hand, the quality is there, and such differences of style as are here and there apparent are comparatively inconsequential. Still, the inconsequentialities of life carry a penalty, and so the prices on these auto garments have fallen like July quotations for coal! Let us suggest that you step in for a few minutes and ascertain whether this offering contains anything that you would rather have before the other fellow gets it. There are auto things for man and chauffeur, but by far the greater number are for women.

A MUNICIPAL BULLETIN

Oct. 10, 1910, we scheduled the fifty-two million pounds of steel on the new Municipal Building to be erected by July 7, 1911.

July 6, 1911, the Stars and Stripes floated from the Municipal steel tower—the very summit of this great structure.

But to have anticipated the schedule date by a single day is a trifle at most.

The merit of the performance consists in our not having exceeded such a rigorous schedule by a considerable margin.

SAYS POLITICIANS HIRE THE CAMORRA

Capt. Fabroni Declares Nobody Can Be Elected in Naples Without Its Aid.

WHY CUOCOLO WAS KILLED

He Interfered with Alfano's Domination—Erricone Shakes Bars of Cage Like a Madman.

VITERBO, July 12.—Capt. Fabroni of the Carbineers, who, if not the star witness for the Crown, has at least made the accused Camorrists more uncomfortable than they have been made by any earlier occupant of the stand, to-day went deep into the political influence of the Camorra, and mentioned names with a boldness that caused the presiding Judge to caution him to be moderate in his statements. The witness replied:

"I must say all and give an exact picture of the prevailing atmosphere in order to strike a deadly blow at this criminal association."

Fabroni, in the guise of a clerk from the Ministry of Justice, devoted years to learning the alleged connection between the Camorra and the Neapolitan Judiciary. Along this line he said in substance:

"The Camorrist has no political ideals. He exploits the elections and the elected for gain. The leaders distribute bands throughout the town, and they have recourse to violence to obtain the vote of the electors for the candidates whom they have determined to support. Those who refuse to vote as instructed are beaten, slashed with knives, or kidnapped. All this is done with assurance of impunity, as the Camorrists will have the protection of successful politicians, who realize that they cannot be chosen to office without paying toll to the Camorra."

Asked to be more specific, Capt. Fabroni said he had especially in mind ex-Deputies Gargiulo and Count Ravaschieri. "The latter," he continued, "in 1904 hired the Camorra, which at that time surpassed all precedents in corruption, abuses, and crime. During the election of Ravaschieri Enrico Alfano, (Erricone,) Ciro Vitozzi, the priest, and Giovanni Rapi promenaded the streets of Naples wearing large tri-color rosettes, and, as masters of the town, ordered all kinds of lawlessness to obtain their object."

It was at this point that the President cautioned the witness, who, however, would not qualify his statement. He went on:

"The Camorra was then at the zenith of its power, but within two factions were fighting secretly, but ferociously, for control of the criminal body. Alfano, because of recent electoral successes, was in the ascendancy, and the influence of Gennaro Cuocolo, who had been the king receiver of stolen goods, was waning. Alfano wished to establish an undisputed empire, with Rapi, Vitozzi, and Ferdinando di Matteo as his lieutenants. The murder of Cuocolo was necessary, as he interfered with the gains of the others, who were in a hurry to make a fortune. Alfano trusted in his immunity from arrest."

The Captain described special branches of the Camorra among the harbor workers in the towns near Naples. There was a branch, he said, at Castellamare, of which the leaders were Giuseppe Chirico, Alberto Fraumeno, Pasquale Gargiulo and Ferdinando di Matteo. All these are among the prisoners. Chirico, Fabroni said, received $60 a month as a tax on the Camorra, which was still paid to him although he was a prisoner. The sisters of Vitozzi made monthly collections of dues from the Camorrists for Chirico and the other prisoners.

The lawyers for the defense attempted to create an incident that would result in interrupting the witness, but when the prisoners began a disturbance the President stopped it, threatening Rapi, the most turbulent, with removal from the court room as was the case yesterday.

Later another stormy incident between Capt. Fabroni and the lawyers for the defense caused Alfano in a rage to shake the bars like a madman. He pointed at Fabroni and shouted, "Murderer, you were the cause of my brother's death in prison!"

One of the other prisoners seized "Erricone" and clapped a hand over his mouth, but Alfano shook him off and struck him. The President finally restored order.

In the course of his testimony Fabroni gave great praise to Marshal Capizzuti of the Carbineers, who also took part in the investigation of the Camorrist organization. He described minutely the methods followed in this investigation, and said that the newspapers had been of great assistance, especially a Rome publication which was then edited by Alessandro Lioy, one of the lawyers for the defense, which showed a wonderful knowledge of what was going on among the Camorrists.

Later, when the Camorrists were arrested, this paper asserted that the Carabineers had manufactured a case against them, whereas the Carbineers had acted after a denunciation of the Camorra had appeared in the paper in question.

LISBON FORTRESS ATTACKED.

Attempt to Capture St. George Castle Fails—The Rebels Escape.

LISBON, July 11, (by way of Badajoz, Spain, July 12.)—A mysterious and daring, though unsuccessful attempt was made to-night to pentrate and capture the Castle of St. George, a strongly fortified fortress on the top of a hill in the centre of this city.

The sentinels at the castle were surprised by a large body of men, who fired volleys. The whole garrison quickly turned out and charged with fixed bayonets. The invaders disappeared in the darkness.

The attack has caused a sensation, and the garrison of the city has been reinforced.

The Government is informed that while the Portuguese Monarchist plotters are actively at work in Galicia and other parts of Spain, many of them are ready to abandon the cause in exchange for pardon and cash compensation, ranging from $500 to $2,500.

RECORD SHARP EARTHQUAKE.

Seismographs Register Shocks of Remarkably Long Duration.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—An earthquake of some violence and remarkable for its duration was recorded last night at the seismological observatory of Georgtown University.

The tremors began at 11:27 P. M. and contiued until 1:18 A. M., being most severe at 12:20.

The indications were that the disturbance was remote from Washington, certainly not within the United States.

CLEVELAND, July 12.—Severe earthquake shocks, which, according to Father Odenbach, the curator, probably originated in the far distant Southeast, were recorded last night by the seismograph at St. Ignatius College.

They began at 10:28 P. M., and ended at 12:16 A. M.

DUCHESS'S JEWELS SOLD.

$165,700 Obtained for Gems of the Late Lily, Duchess of Marlborough.

LONDON, July 12.—The jewels of the late Lily, Duchess of Marlborough, (née Price of New York,) were sold by auction at Christie's to-day and brought a total of $165,700 within fifteen minutes after they were put up.

Among the pieces sold and prices paid were a necklace of forty-six pearls, $80,500; a pearl and brilliant necklace, $35,000, and a pearl and brilliant tiara, $37,500.

HUNDREDS DEAD IN FOREST FIRES

Many miners lost their lives in efforts to save others and some were drowned.

A train containing 600 women and children was rushed out of Cochrane this morning for the south, as the wall of flames advanced toward the village. The town of 2,500 inhabitants was soon a mass of fire and is entirely destroyed.

Part of Tisdale has been wiped out, the fire only being controlled by dynamiting a dozen houses in the middle of the town.

Two special trains have been sent to bring the 4,000 persons who are facing starvation or death by fire in the Tisdale district.

The laborers employed on the Ontario Government's new railroad line from Golden City west reached the city after a desperate fight with the flames in which many were badly burned. They lost everything but the clothes they wore.

The town of Kelso was abandoned to-day after a fight lasting since Sunday.

The Toronto Board of Trade to-day subscribed $1,000, the City of Toronto, $5,000, and individuals in this city as much more to assist the suffering people in the fire-swept area.

A relief train is on the way up with supplies. There have been calls along the railroad lines for nurses and doctors, and many towns are responding nobly. Telephone and telegraphic communication with numerous points has failed.

ST. JEROME, Quebec, July 12.—Twenty-seven families were made homeless and the entire business section, covering an area of several acres, was burned here to-day. Following the long spell of hot weather, the buildings and the trees about town were as dry as tinder, and the blaze swept almost at will. The damage is estimated at over $150,000.

FIRE LOSS IN MICHIGAN.

Three Dead in Oscoda—Congressman Loud's Home Destroyed.

DETROIT, Mich., July 12.—With food at their disposal and tents provided for their shelter, the thousand or more homeless survivors of the fire-swept villages of Au Sable and Oscoda breathed easier to-night than at any time since the flames destroyed their homes yesterday afternoon. The known dead remain three in number, with Samuel Rosenthal, a tailor, the only one yet identified. The bodies of the others are charred beyond recognition.

Late reports from other counties in the fire zone are generally encouraging. The little town of Waters in Otsego County, however, is still fighting the flames, and to-night it appealed to Bay City, a hundred miles south, for help.

The Stephenson Lumber Company mills and lumber yards, valued at about $400,000, are reported to have been destroyed. The village has about 200 permanent residents and a large floating population of "lumber jacks."

It is believed that loss of life will result from the outbreak of flames, as there are many lumbermen in the woods. Reports come from camps near by that the men fled for their lives and little is known to-night of what became of many of them.

An engine, hose cart, and two companies of firemen were sent to Waters from Bay City at 8 o'clock to-night, but it is not believed the train can approach very close to Waters.

Reports received to-night from Traverse City and Lewiston indicate that the forest fires near those towns are under control and that no further damage is feared.

Rogers City, Prescott County, was saved from probable destruction by a change in the wind, but the woods throughout the county are said to be on fire.

The wind has subsided almost entirely and it would need only a little rain to smother the smoldering fires through Otsego, Cheboygan, and Presque Isle Counties. The rain, however, is not likely, and State Fire Warden Oates has summoned every available man to check the progress of the flames.

His reports to-night indicate that small forest fires are burning in every county north of the counties bounded on the west by Mason and on the east by Arenac. In the western section of the State, Antrim and Charlevoix Counties report threatening fires, and every trespass agent and land-looker employed by the State has been pressed into service to fight the fires.

Every survivor of yesterday's disaster brings a new story of narrow escapes. Mrs. Jennie Mead, 65 years old, one of the first of the refugees to reach Detroit from Au Sable, in speaking to-night of her experience, said:

"I was home alone when the fire reached our town. It kept getting nearer and nearer home, and finally when I had just about given up hope of being taken care of, the neighbors were so excited, my son rushed in and carried me out to a safe place on the sand. We spent several hours there alongside Congressman George Loud's family. They lost their beautiful home and were driven to the sand just like the rest of us."

Au Sable and Oscoda to-night present a desolate picture. Those not sheltered by tents have gathered at the railroad station, and every train takes many away. Here and there a few bricks and melted iron are all that remain of the buildings. There is no talk of rebuilding at present. The people are thankful that they escaped with their lives, and the future will be thought of later.

Relief measures throughout the State are progressing rapidly. Late to-day a special train from Bay City carried food and clothing to the stricken towns. Cash contributions for the sufferers are also being sent from many cities.

The fire started in a slab-yard in Oscoda and in half an hour the entire town was in flames. The fire quickly jumped the Au Sable River and soon Au Sable also was in the grip of a blaze that reached the town limits on every side.

Men and women fled from their houses, dropping such bundles of valuables and clothing as they had started to pack. Many persons living on the shore side of the towns started for safety along the banks of the Au Sable River, but within ten minutes the heat was so intense that they were driven into the water and continued their way wading along the shore.

The heaviest loser is H. M. Loud Sons Company, of which Congressman George A. Loud of the Tenth Michigan District is the head. The company's loss is nearly three-quarters of a million dollars. Its property consisted of two saw mills, planing mill, shingle mill, bolt mill, lumber yard, cedar yard, pump houses, stores, and residences. The total losses are probably in excess of $1,500,000.

A passenger train on the Detroit & Mackinac Railway got around the towns by running on an old lumber spur and arrived here at midnight. Flames were then running a hundred feet in the air, declared the passengers, and the intense heat scorched the sides of the train and cracked the windows.

A special train carrying fire apparatus from Bay City to Alpena in response to a call for help from that city jumped the track in trying to pass around the two towns and was held until nearly midnight before the track was repaired. It then proceeded, as the fire at Alpena was said to be still dangerous. The loss in Alpena alone was $500,000.

Reports concerning the village of La Rocque are conflicting. From Bay City comes the statement that La Rocque escaped the flames, while from Cheboygan comes a report that two lives were lost there.

At Millersburg the Gardner Peterman mill and thirty-one houses were destroyed. At Onaway the section of the village known as Frenchtown was razed. At Tower the Detroit & Mackinaw freight house, twenty residences, and thirty freight cars were burned. At Richmond forty-eight Michigan Central cars and a bridge were destroyed, and at Haakwood a bridge was burned.

Cheboygan is also in danger. A mound of sawdust, the accumulation of thirty years' sawing, has been burning for a week, and Monday the rising wind fanned it into a stiff blaze. In the district around the mound residents have been forced to leave their homes, and steamers cannot land.

In Beaver Township, Crawford County, several farmhouses and the Town Hall have been burned. The Boyne City Lumber Company, Camp 6, near Boyne City, is reported surrounded. In Montmorency County extensive forest fires are damaging standing timber, and several camps are reported in extreme danger.

There is much anxiety in Bay City regarding the fire conditions north of there. Last reports from Grayling, West Branch, Roscommon, Wolverine, and Gaylord by telephone are to the effect that forest fires are burning in every direction, but that none of these towns was in immediate danger.

PORT HURON, Mich., July 12.—Two hundred and eighty fire victims from Oscoda, principally women and children, arrived in Port Huron to-day on the steam barge Niko, Capt. Ralph D. Myers of Tonawanda, N. Y. They left Oscoda last night, some just managing to get on board the vessel when it cut loose, both bow and stern being on fire. Many slept on the decks. Residents of Port Huron are caring for the refugees, as few have money.

CADILLAC, Mich., July 12.—Forest and grass fires threatened Cadillac last night, but were checked by a complete change in the direction of the wind, which caused the fire to burn back over the same area it had previously swept.

MAINE VILLAGE WIPED OUT.

Fire Sweeps On from South Waterloo Into the Nearby Forests.

BIDDEFORD, Me., July 12.—Fire practically wiped out the village of South Waterborough late to-day. The hotel, railroad station, all of the stores in the village, and more than two-score dwelling houses are in ruins, and the fire, which has spread to the woods, is still raging.

Goodwin's Mills, a village a few miles from South Waterborough, was in the direct path of the flames late to-night, and residents were preparing to leave their homes and flee to places of safety. Several farm buildings along the highway leading to Goodwin's Mills have been destroyed.

A hurried estimate of the loss on the buildings destroyed in South Waterborough, with their contents, places the figure at upward of $100,000, while the timber loss already sustained is many thousands more.

Thirty families, nearly half the population of the village, were driven from their homes and are being cared for by more fortunate neighbors.

The fire started from an unknown cause in the barn of Clyde F. McKenney. The village was without fire protection of any kind, and the hurriedly formed bucket brigades were of little avail. Calls for help were sent out, and Portland sent a fire engine which, however, did not arrive until the fire had run through the village.

PORTLAND, Me., July 12.—Forest fires in the Maine wilderness and New Hampshire Mountains continued to burn unchecked to-day, consuming thousands of acres of valuable timber land. In the Moose Lake districts hundreds of men have been batling for days with half a dozen big fires, but it is believed that only a heavy rain can put an end to the destruction of timber growth.

Thus far no houses have been burned, but to-night a woods fire was within six miles of the town of Hackman in Kennebec County, and the little village of South Windsor in Kennebec County and Cape Neddick in York County were imperiled also by forest fires.

LAUNCH FOLK CAMPAIGN.

To Urge Missourian's Presidential Claims on States with Direct Primaries.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 12.—The campaign to nominate ex-Gov. Joseph W. Folk for President at the Democratic National Convention in 1912 was started to-day with the opening of headquarters by the Missouri Democratic League in the Central National Bank Building. Lon Sanders, President, and W. J. Cochran, Secretary, of the league, will have charge of the movement, aided by Nelson W. McLeod, Chairman of the Executive Committee.

The efforts of the league officers for the time being will be centred on arousing sentiment for Mr. Folk in those States where the delegates to the National Convention will be selected for the first time in the history of National politics at direct primaries. These States include North Dakota, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Oregon, and New Jersey.

No attempt is to be made to garner the New Jersey delegation, which is conceded to Gov. Wilson. The Folk campaign, however, according to Mr. Sanders, will be extended throughout the West and Northwest, after which attention will be paid to New England.

"We hope to have delegations instructed for Gov. Folk in all of the States where the people will have the right to choose the delegates," said Mr. Sanders, "excepting only New Jersey. We are not worrying about Missouri, we feel it is safe."

PASTOR ADMITS SWINDLING.

Court Suspends Sentence on the Rev. C. M. Severance and Others.

The Rev. Claude M. Severance and four associates in the El Progreso Banana Company pleaded guilty yesterday to using the mails to defraud, in the Criminal Branch of the United Circuit Court. At the instance of Assistant United States District Attorney Goldthwaite H. Dorr, Judge Archbald suspended sentence in the case of four, and the other, Oliver W. Simmons, was freed. Dorr told the court he was merely a clerk.

In asking for the suspended sentence for the four, Mr. Dorr said the Government regarded E. M. Stuart the guilty one in the case, and the men at the bar his dupes. Stuart has not been within the jurisdiction of the courts since the Government began investigating the company.

The five men were arrested last November at the company's office in Nassau Street. Frank G. Watrous, the Vice President, believed Stuart when he said he had acquired a large banana plantation in Honduras and got his own mother to mortgage her home in Denver to get the money needed to start the company. He arranged with the International Finance Company to sell shares at 50 cents each, the banana company to receive 10 cents and the fiscal agency 40 cents.

Watrous sold $12,000 worth of the stock to J. J. Foltz of Tacoma, Wash. It later proved that all the company possessed was a grant of several acres of land in Honduras given them conditionally by the Government. The Rev. Mr. Severance sold stock in Massachusetts, Vermont, and in Washington.

SUBWAY DECISION OFF TILL NEXT WEEK

City Officials Can't Agree as to Guarantee That the Interborough Should Get.

ASKS $11,250,000 A YEAR NOW

Half the Votes in the Board of Estimate Against This Demand—It Might Mean Granting More to B. R. T.

After another day of conferences it became known yesterday that a decision in the subway matter would not be reached before next week. The Interborough Rapid Transit Company, through its representatives, has raised its guarantee demand from the $10,000,000 a year, representing 8 per cent. on $125,000,000, to $11,250,000 a year, representing 9 per cent. on the same amount. In addition, the Interborough required as a condition of accepting the lines apportioned to it in the McAneny report that if the earnings on the new subway and its present subway system should be insufficient to realize this amount, the company should either receive the deficit from the city or be allowed to issue bonds to make the deficit good.

On this proposal the Board of Estimate split wide open, with President McAneny, Controller Prendergast and President Mitchel of the Aldermen opposed to the Interborough demands, with Mayor Gaynor and Borough Presidents Miller, Gresser and Cromwell prepared to grant them and with President Steers of Brooklyn on the fence. In the course of an hour's secret session of the Board in the Mayor's office yesterday morning, Mr. Steers, when the subject of delay was broached, declared in favor of taking final action to-day. Mayor Gaynor turned on him with the direct question if he would vote for the rejection of the Interborough offer unless the company acceded to the city's present terms, and Mr. Steers said that he would have to have time to think the matter over.

The members of the Board who opposed the granting of the Interborough's demands cast eight votes out of the sixteen in the Board. Mayor Gaynor and the Borough Presidents who are standing with him cast six votes, and Mr. Steers casts the other two. Messrs. McAneny, Prendergast and Mitchel are all opposing the Interborough's' demands because, as they figure, the 8 per cent. or 9 per cent. on $125,000,000 which the Interborough is asking is equivalent to a substantial guarantee by the city of a dividend on the preferred stock of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company. The 8 per cent. guarantee would yield approximately 2.8 per cent. on this stock and the 9 per cent. guarantee on $125,000,000 would yield 4.9 per cent., and, figuring the subway and the elevated profits together, would give approximately 16.3 per cent. returned on the stock of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, as they estimated it. Mr. Mitchel and Mr. Prendergast declared emphatically yesterday that they would oppose any arrangement which made the city guarantee a return on the preferred stock of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company, which represents the stock of the old Metropolitan Street Railway.

That the later subway negotiations have made the proposal to have the city guarantee out of the income from its subway system a return applicable to the Inter.-Met. preferred stock, before even taking out the interest on its own bonds issued for the extension of the Interborough subway lines, the central issue in the entire situation, appeared certain yesterday. There are five different plans under consideration relating to the proposed arrangement with the Interborough.

The first of these is the 8 per cent. proposal, applied as a guarantee on the basis of $125,000,000 estimated Interborough subway investment. The second plan is the so-called 9 per cent. basis. This applies, like the 8 per cent. plan, to $125,000,000, which is assumed to represent a present investment by the Interborough of $48,000,000 and a proposed investment of approximately $75,000,000. The 9 per cent. is itself made up as follows:

6% interest and sinking fund on $125,000,000		$7,500,000
3% profits on $125,000,000		3,750,000
		$11,250,000
Charges against this interest and sinking fund on new and old Interborough bonds:
6½% on $75,000,000	$4,875,000
		6,800,000
Return applicable to $35,000,000 Interborough stock		$4,450,000
Add present profits on elevated lease, guaranteed to Interborough under McAneny report		1,400,000
Total return on the Interborough stock, (16.7%)		$5,850,000
Dividend on Interborough stock, 9%, (pays 4½% interest on $70,000,000 Inter.-Met. bonds)		3,145,000
Surplus applicable to Inter.-Met. dividends, (equals 4.9% on $55,000,000 Inter.-Met. preferred stock)		$2,705,000

This is the way the Interborough's latest figures look to the members of the Board of Estimate, who are opposed to granting a demand which they declare amounts to a guarantee by the city of a dividend on the stock of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company. Borough President McAneny, as alternatives, has two proposals, both of which the Interborough, up to this time, has declined to grant.

One is that on the basis indicated above the Interborough should receive its 9 per cent. on $125,000,000 only for a limited period to be determined, and that thereafter the city and the Interborough should share and share alike in everything above 6 per cent. The other is based on the idea that the city should put up the entire construction cost of $109,600,000 involved in the extensions laid out for the Interborough, and should then, out of the receipts of the extended system, guarantee to the company 9 per cent. on both its new capital invested in equipment and the present investment of the company in subway equipment. This would involve a guarantee by the city as follows:

9 per cent. guarantee on $48,000,000		$4,320,000
9 per cent. guarantee on $21,000,000, (Interborough's investment in new equipment)		1,890,000
		$6,210,000
Charge against this interest and sinking fund on new and old Interborough bonds—
6.5 per cent. on $21,000,000	$1,365,000
5.5 per cent. on $35,000,000	1,925,000
		3,290,000
Return applicable to $35,000,000, Interborough stock		2,290,000
Add present profits on elevated lease, guaranteed to Interborough by McAneny report		1,400,000
Total return on Interborough stock, (12.3 per cent.)		4,320,000
Dividend on Interborough stock		3,145,000
Balance applicable to Interborough-Metropolitan dividends, (equals 2.1 per cent. on $55,000,000 Interborough-Metropolitan preferred stock)		1,175,000

President Mitchel of the Board of Aldermen had still a third proposal for the Interborough yesterday, which, however, like those suggested by Mr. McAneny, the Interborough's representatives declined to grant. This was that the city should guarantee the company out of the receipts of the entire system the carrying charges only on the new capital and a sum equivalent to 10 per cent. on the Interborough's present Subway investment, which the company figures at $48,000,000. This plan works out as follows:

10 per cent. on $48,000,000, present investment	$4,800,000
Charge against this interest on and sinking fund $35,000,000 existing Interborough funded debt at 5½ per cent	1,925,000
Subway return applicable to $35,000,000 Interborough stock	$2,875,000
Add present profit on elevated lease	1,400,000
Total return Interborough stock, (12.2 per cent.)	$4,275,000
Dividend 9 per cent. on Interborough stock	3,145,000
Surplus applicable to Interborough-Metropolitan preferred stock, (2 per cent.)	$1,135,000

Over these various plans the Board of Estimate members struggled for an hour yesterday without getting anywhere. It was urged that the Interborough's own proposal would leave the city saddled with approximately $3,000,000 of interest and sinking fund charges a year for the benefit of those who held the preferred Interborough-Metropolitan stock, for, taking out of the Subway earnings a guarantee of $11,250,000, it was considered a virtual certainty that little or nothing would be left applicable to interest on the city's investment, and this interest, the opponents of the Interborough added, had to be raised by taxation.

In addition, the argument was made by members opposed to the Interborough plan that even the basis suggested by Mr. McAneny operated as a discrimination against the B. R. T. in favor of the Interborough, and laid the way open for the Brooklyn company to come in again and ask that it get terms equally favorable with the Interborough. This, in its case, would represent, in addition to the prior lien, of its present net earnings and the carrying charges on its new securities, that from the earnings of the extended system the Brooklyn company would be entitled to take out 3 per cent. additional on its new capital.

The answer was made—and this is the argument particularly emphasized by ex-Mayor Low, who has been working vigorously to obtain the acceptance of the Interborough's terms—that the Interborough was entitled to the additional consideration because of the leveling of its present leases. So many figures went into yesterday's meeting of the Estimate Board that after an hour of discussion it was decided to ask the Public Service Commission to have all the different income bases figured out to be reported to the Board of Estimate to-day. The board will meet at 10:30 o'clock this morning to consider the net results of these various plans, and that meeting, like yesterday's, will probably be secret. An adjournment will be taken from to-day until Monday, when, according to the hope which Mr. McAneny expressed yesterday, a final decision may be reached.

There was much speculation yesterday as to whether the joint subway conference, composed of the McAneny committee and the Public Service Commission, would be able again to come into agreement on the negotiations with the Interborough. Mr. McAneny, it is understood, is unalterably opposed to the guarantee which the Interborough suggests, and Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission thus far has acceded to that demand. According to the line-up of the commission in the earlier negotiations, Commissioners Eustis, McCarroll, and Cram are likely to stand with Chairman Willcox.

President Shonts of the Interborough had this to say yesterday:

"As I think every one will now appreciate the terms last offered the Interborough made it impossible to secure private capital for construction, but as many public-spirited citizens, as well as the city authorities, seem to feel that Interborough extensions, with the assistance of private capital, are desirable in the transit situation, we have all been working together to see if some way could not be found whereby terms could be offered the Interborough which would be fair to the city, and which would make it financially possible for the Interborough to come back into the situation with private capital, and this work we are still engaged in.

"While a conclusion may be reached any moment, I cannot say definitely that a conclusion will be reached at all, or when."

SETH LOW'S ARGUMENT.

Points Out How City Would Gain by Agreeing with Interborough.

Seth Low, who has been active in the later phases of the subway negotiations as Chairman of the Joint Committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' Association, sent to the Board of Estimate yesterday this communication:

July 12, 1911.

To the Honorable the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

Gentlemen—As I have been earnest in advocating an agreement on the part of the city with the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, and as terms that seem to me fair are now in sight, it is becoming that I should accept publicly the responsibility for the advice which I have given and state my reasons therefor. I am under the impression that an agreement can be made with the Interborough Company substantially on the following terms: That the Interborough Company shall agree to furnish $75,000,000 of new capital, more or less, for the construction and equipment of that part of the McAneny plan assigned to it, if the city in any way that may be found legal will permit it to earn 3 per cent. above interest and amortization charges on its old and new private capital.

Believing as I do that the fundamental interests of the city in its rapid transit development is in bringing about the best possible distribution of population, I think that it is of the utmost consequence to the city to carry out in its entirety the programme of construction outlined in the McAneny report. Without the co-operation of the Interborough Company, as well as of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, this is impracticable.

With the co-operation of both companies the city will secure a comprehensive, unified system of rapid transit development which will be worth to the city very much more than any development which includes only parts of the great whole. It is often the case that a piece of property consisting of five city lots is worth more than the aggregate value of the five lots held separately. Some such actual increase of value, I think, will attach to the city's rapid transit system, if developed through the co-operation of both the transit companies along the lines of the McAneny report which no possible number of unrelated systems can have. The city would then, first of all, secure this increased value of a comprehensive system, as compared with separate systems of more or less unrelated parts.

Provision for the Future.

But the city would acquire through the proposed arrangement with the Interborough Company advantages capable of still more concrete statement. The great defect of the original rapid transit contract was in its failure to provide a method by which additions to the system could be made from time to time as desired by the city. The absence of such a provision has resulted in the absolute cessation of rapid transit development for six or seven years. The arrangement now proposed with both the rapid transit companies contains such a provision, so that, by this agreement with the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, the city will not only get the immediate result at which it aims but also it will avoid all danger of the cessation of rapid transit deevlopment in the future.

At the present time the Interborough Company controls the first Subway contract for forty-three years, with a period of renewal of twenty-five years; it controls the Brooklyn extension for thirty-one years, with a period of renewal of twenty-five years. It is reasonable to suppose that each renewal will involve a higher payment to the city for the renewal period, but the point which I wish to emphasize is that the city cannot secure complete control, on any terms, of the Interborough's present system without its consent inside of sixty-eight years.

The proposed arrangement with the Interborough Company will give to the city complete control of the entire system at the end of forty-nine years from the completion of the proposed extensions. It is true that in shortening the time by thus "leveling the leases," as it is called, the city agrees that the Interborough Company may enjoy both leases on existing terms up to the time when they are surrendered to the city—that is to say, in about fifty-four years from now. No doubt the advantage to the company under this arrangement is considered by it a fair offset to its concession to the city, but it is a very great advantage to the city to shorten by fourteen years the period during which these roads remain outside of its control.

Leaves Mastery with City.

By entering into the proposed relations with both the rapid transit companies the city becomes absolute master of the rapid transit system of the city and its development. If the Interborough Company remains outside of the present development it is impossible for the city to make an ideal system of rapid transit, no matter how much it may spend in rapid transit development. The city is justified also in remembering that the rapid transit system controlled by the Interborough Company, under its leases, belongs to the city itself; and it is in every way good judgment, when the city is spending money for rapid transit development, to spend it in such a way as to add to the value of its own property and not to detract therefrom.

These are some of the advantages which the city will secure by the arrangement with the Interborough Company. Let us now look at the other side of the picture. Probably every one will admit that the advantages for the city which I have pointed out are real. If any one at all questions the arrangement, it will be upon the ground that the allowance to the Interborough Company is too large. Under the arrangement suggested that allowance is to be 3 per cent. above interest and amortization charges on the total amount of private capital involved in the enterprize represented by bonds, which it is estimated will be about $125,000,000; that is to say, the Interborough Company will receive $3,750,000 a year in excess of its interest and amortization charges.

I should have been glad, as every one else would be glad, if it had been possible to make the arrangement with the Interborough Company on more favorable terms, but I do not hesitate to say that I think the terms agreed upon are fair, and it is altogether in the city's interest to have agreed to them. The Interborough's present stock capital is $35,000,000, and its investment in the Subway, covered by bonds, is about $48,000,000 above this capital. Upon this stock last year it earned over $4,000,000 after providing for the amorization on its bonds.

Would Cut Present Earnings.

Under the arrangement proposed the Interborough Company will furnish $75,000,000 of new capital for construction and operation; will put in at $3,000,000 the Steinway tunnel, which cost it $8,000,000, and it will receive for operating the enlarged system $3,750,000 a year instead of $4,000,000, which it is earning to-day for operating the smaller system.

It is true that the Interborough Company is earning to-day more than it should, because it is carrying passengers under conditions of crowding that are abnormal. On the other hand, when the extent of the system to be operated is more than doubled, as it will be under the new arrangement, I submit that it is not unreasonable to permit the operators to receive for this service the sum of $3,750,000 a year for the term of the lease.

If it be assumed that the company's working capital will remain at $35,000,000, as it is to-day, notwithstanding the enlarged system to be operated, the allowance to the company upon its capital is about 10¾ per cent. The public must bear in mind that this is the entire reward which the company will receive for operating this great system during the term of the lease, for the company does not own the Subway, and all of the increased value of the Subway passes to the city automatically when the lease expires.

In ordinary investments the stockholders own the property and benefit by increase of value in that direction as well as from current earnings, but in this instance the proceeds of $125,000,000 of private capital furnished by the Interborough Company for the construction of this Subway system becomes automatically the property of the city at the termination of the lease. This, of course, is covered by the amortization, so called, of the bonds. But the point to be emphasized is that the stockholders have absolutely no way of receiving a return for the labor and risks attending the operation of the road except from this allowance of $3,750,000, which is 3 per cent. in excess of the cost of amortization on the private capital involved.

Other Advantages to City.

There are other features in the proposed agreement with the Interborough Company that have more or less value. If the law permits, or can be made to permit, the city will acquire the right of recapturing a completed line at the end of ten years; it will acquire the right to recapture the entire system, old as well as new, on terms agreed upon at the end of thirty-five years. In a word, substantially everything which the city has desired would be conceded. To my mind the advantages attained by the city fully justify the payment to be made to the Interborough Company.

If such an agreement be not made the city must forego entirely the use of private capital in Subway construction and it must be content to leave unsettled indefinitely the future development of rapid transit as between the old and the new systems. I think a prolongation of such uncertainty would cost the city, indirectly, much more than the equivalent of what it allows the Interborough Company in connection with this arrangement. On the other hand, the prompt decision of this question will make private capital active in the development of every borough of the city, so that the city will quickly regain through an increase of taxable values what it agrees to allow for the sake of gaining control of these outstanding leases.

That, in fact, is precisely what the city would be doing—the Interborough would contribute to the enlarged system, first the value of its existing leases; and, second, any new money that it may put in. The city contributes only such new money as it may now put in; for the obligation of the Interborough Company on the old money embarked by the city would be taken into consideration in valuing the Interborough leases.

There are many who regret that the original leases run for so long a term; but it is easy to be wise after the fact. At the time, the opinion was general, not to say universal, that the city had been most fortunate in being able to conclude such leases. Probably everybody will be glad that, through this arrangement, the leases would fall into the city fourteen or fifteen years earlier than otherwise; but this result is obtainable only by agreement with the Interborough Company and no agreement can be made at the present time on better terms than are herein suggested.

No one can certainly say that better terms can be had at any time within the near future; but everybody knows that by settling the question now, once for all, the city will immensely strengthen its position and lay the foundation for a broad city development which can not be laid in any other way. No one accustomed to look at matters in a large way can doubt for a moment, I believe, that the city will act wisely in authorizing the arrangement proposed with the Interborough Company.

The proposal to use city money only, for construction, is to deprive many parts of the city of the development which they would have under the McAneny plan as a whole, and it is besides to create a demand for public improvement on a large scale, while depriving the city at the same time of the power to make them.

I earnestly hope that your Honorable Board will see its way to take prompt and favorable action along the lines which I have the honor to suggest.

Respectfully,
SETH LOW.

BIG BRONX TRANSFER STATION.

Plan for Connecting Subway and New Westchester Road Changed.

Changes in the plans to connect the lines of the New York, Westchester & Boston Railroad Company with the subway and elevated lines of the Interborough were announced yesterday by the former company. The Public Service Commission having acted favorably upon the application of the Westchester road for permission to use the tracks of the Harlem River & Port Chester Railroad Company from 174th Street to the Harlem River, they now plan the construction of a transfer station at 180th Street and promise at an early date a connection with the Second and Third Avenue elevated lines at the Harlem River.

"The line of the Westchester & Boston Company as originally planned," says the statement, "would have connected with the subway at 177th Street and Boston Post Road, and the plan was to run shuttle trains between the two stations. The management of the Westchester & Boston road came to the conclusion a year ago that this was undesirable, and that with the developments of rapid transit facilities in the Bronx there should be a grand transfer station. Consequently the line connecting their road with the subway will, under the authority just granted, extend from its transfer station at 180th Street and Morris Park Avenue to 179th Street and Boston Post Road.

"The plan is more extensive than this, for the new transfer station erected on land owned by the Westchester & Boston Company will be large enough not only to accommodate its own trains and those of the subway, but provisions will be made for trains of the White Plains Road extension provided for in the rapid transit plans now being considered by the city, also for trains of the Harlem River branch of New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and for trains of the projected Lexington Avenue subway.

"The transfer station will be 550 feet in length and 250 feet in depth and contain five platforms from which nine tracks may be reached. The entrances and exits will be on the street level and the platforms may be either by direct stair cases or by more easy ascent by means of ramps and short flights of stairs."

PUP IN TARIFF AMENDMENT.

Fitzgerald Blames One for Change in Payne Act Affecting Cattle.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—"The howl raised over a poor Pomeranian pup taken abroad for its health," upon which the "unholy hand of the customs collector was laid when the dog was brought back," was declared by Representative Fitzgerald of New York to be the cause of an amendment to the Payne-Aldrich tariff law passed by the House to-day. The amendment allows horses, cattle, and other animals taken out of and brought back into the country within six months to be readmitted free.

Mr. Payne of New York declared the amendment was largely for the benefit of cattle raisers along the border in Texas who often drive their cattle into Mexico to pasture. It also would facilitate transportation arrangements in border cities.

HILL OUSTED FOR HAMMOND?

Representative Henry Thus Explains Resignation of Berlin Envoy.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Representative Henry of Texas, in replying to-day in the House to a speech of Representative Kahn of California, who attacked a former speech of Mr. Henry's, assailing "dollar diplomacy" and the marriages of American heiresses to needy foreign noblemen, said it was the "vulgar extravagance" in diplomatic affairs and not the "polite formality," of which he complained. He declared that Ambassador Reid's "vice regal state in London was not typical of the American Government."

The Democratic party, he said, would go before the American people at the next election "to see whether they want our big foreign diplomatic posts to go to multi-millionaires or to the Thomas Francis Bayards and men of that sort."

Mr. Henry referred sarcastically to reports that John Hays Hammond "nudged the King" and had asked the King if he was not pleased that the coronation ceremonies had gone off so well.

"If we send him abroad to another coronation," said Mr. Henry, "I suppose he would nudge the Queen."

"Do you know why Dr. Hill is to leave Berlin?" asked Mr. Henry. "It's to make way for John Hays Hammond, because Dr. Hill is a poor man and cannot live in great splendor."

Representative Kahn urged that a heavy tax be imposed on the dowries of American brides in international marriages, "so that the penurious but titled fortune hunters might secure but a small moiety of the price the bride pays him for a name which he himself dishonors by thus putting it up at auction to the highest bidder," and as a means to stop alliances between American heiresses and "broken-down foreign noblemen."

Mr. Kahn came warmly to the defense of "dollar diplomacy," and declared that at no time in the history of the Republic "have the American Ambassadors or Ministers to foreign courts been less obsequious, dressed in simpler clothes and resorted to less finesse and chicane" than now.

SAYS ROADS STILL REBATE.

Small Concerns Suffer by Favors to Big Ones, Says Sugar Witness.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Railroads give, or are still forced to give, rebates to big corporations to the detriment of small concerns, said Frank C. Lowry of New York, general salesman for the Federal Sugar Refining Company, before the "Sugar Trust" Investigating Committee to-day. In explanation of his charge Mr. Lowry declared that his company did not receive an allowance for lighterage in New York Harbor, as the "Sugar Trust" does.

Frank L. Neale, a Philadelphia shipping agent, testified that while uniform rates are in operation, big concerns with "inside information" about intended changes in rates, or which received advantages in the shape of drayage, put smaller dealers under a handicap.

"Rates are so complicated," he declared, "that a big concern like the American Sugar Refining Company must employ a rate expert at $25,000 a year to "work out" rates or all of its Directos would go to jail for violating the inter-State commerce laws."

Representative Fordney of Michigan expressed an opinion that any wideawake man would know about proposed changes in rates.

"Yes," added Representative Raker of California, "the same kind of wideawake fellows have been cheating the public for twenty or twenty-five years."

SAVED VIXEN, ASK $2,000.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, July 12.—John R. Burke, owner, and the Captain and crew of the tug William E. Cleary have brought a libel for $2,000 against the steam yacht Vixen, owned by John D. Archbold of New York, for salvage.

The libel, which was filed in the United States District Court to-day, was for the services of the tug and crew in standing by and pumping out the Vixen at Cuttyhunk Harbor on Sept. 4, 1910. She arrived in a sinking condition, with her engines submerged. The value of the yacht is placed at about $75,000.

DIX FOR EQUALIZING TAX ON FRANCHISES

Present Methods Confusing, He Says in Special Message, and Delays Collections.

FAVORS A STOCK ISSUE BASIS

Urges Legislature to Pass the Goldberg and Harte Bills Providing for These Reforms.

ALBANY, July 12.—Gov. Dix sent a special message to the Legislature to-day dealing with special franchise equalization and franchise taxes on corporations. He recommends the passage of Assemblyman Goldberg's bill providing that the State Board of Tax Commissioners may equalize special franchise assessments before certifying them to the local authorities, and Senator Harte's bill proposing a minimum tax of three quarters of a mill on each dollar of issued capital stock employed within the State. Provision is made for increasing the tax when dividends higher than 8 per cent. are declared.

The message follows:

To the Legislature:

The special franchise tax has been a source of litigation ever since its enactment in 1899. Many of the points litigated have now been settled finally, but some still remain open. One of the vexed questions has been the right of those assessed for special franchises to have these valuations equalized to the same percentage of full value to which ordinary real estate in the tax district was assessed by the local assessors. Although the courts have decided that such equalization must be made as a matter of right, the law on the subject remains so defective that it is necessary in each case for a writ of certiorari to be issued and decided before such equalization can be entered on the local tax roll. Thousands of such writs are issued annually, thus putting a wholly unnecessary burden upon the courts, upon our State and local offficals, the Attorney General's office and on those who pay these taxes. Such a condition in our administrative system should not be allowed to continue.

The assessment for taxation of the value of a special franchise under authority of the tax law is made by the State Board of Tax Commissioners, and the valuation upon which this board finally determines is certified by them to the assessors of the proper district, to be placed by them on the local tax roll. The courts have held that the assessment made by the State Board must be regarded under the existing statute as a full valuation, and that neither the State Board nor the local officals have any statutory authority to reduce such assessments to a percentage basis. The courts have also held, however, that the owners of such special franchises are entitled to have such assessment reduced to the same basis at which other real estate in the district is assessed by the local officials.

Collection Delayed.

We thus have the curious situation of the State Board being compelled to make an assessment which neither it nor the local officials can correct, but which must be corrected before any taxes upon it can be collected. Such correction can only be made after the local tax rate is fixed, and by court proceedings, so that not only is the collection of the tax delayed, but local finances are deranged, because the tax rate is calculated upon the basis of an assessment roll, part of which the courts afterward reduce.

The Court of Appeals in the case of the Jamaica Water Supply Company has said that the Legislature should empower the State Board of Tax Commissioners to make an equalized assessment. The lower courts in settling these special franchise cases accept the equalization table of the State Board. The State Board of Tax Commissioners in their annual reports have discussed this subject extensively, and have recommended the change in the statute so that the Board may equalize these assessments in the first instance before certifying them to the local authorites. Such a change in the law would greatly simplify the administration of this statute, which involves assessments of more than $600,000,000 annually, remove a useless burden from the courts and facilitate the local collection of taxes upon this class of property.

A bill is before you, Assembly Bill 1,835, Introductory 494, by Mr. Goldberg, which will accomplish these desired ends. It does not affect the rights of persons or corporations assessed as to their remedies at law, but will remove the present necessity for most of this class of litigation. The provisions of this bill are in exact conformity with one of the resolutions of the Utica tax conference, composed of tax officials from all parts of the State, who have to deal constantly with the vexations arising from the existing statute.

Franchise Taxes on Corporations.

Section 182 of the tax law, under which corporations are taxed for the privilege of doing business in a corporate capacity, has been a constant source of litigation. It is so complicated and involved that no ordinary business man can understand its provisions, and even the Court of Appeals has complained that the Legislature seems to have tried to express a very simple idea in very complicated language. Yet over 40,000 business corporations are assessed annually under this statute and are compelled to make reports in regard to which their officers are in a hopeless confusion, and even their atorneys are frequently bewildered in their efforts to comply with its provisions.

This statute was amended in 1906 with the general intention of providing a minimum tax based upon the par value of issued capital stock, determined to be employed in business in this State, with a reasonable increase based upon the amount of dividends declared. The purpose of this change was to overcome the effect of a decision of the Court of Appeals, and this purpose was subsequently recognized in a dissenting opinion in which three members of the court concurred. But owing chiefly to an amendment the following year to another section of the law, a majority of the court held that this intention of the Legislature had not been expressed with sufficient clearness to justify the court in changing its former interpretation of the law.

As a result of this last decision the State is losing over $400,000 annually, as nearly as can be determined, for the reason that in certain cases the tax must be computed upon the actual value of the assets of the corporation, and not upon its capitalization.

The State Controller has, for several years, recommended a simplification of this law, for the purpose of making a fairer distribution of the tax burden, correcting the loss of revenue incident to the court decision referred to, and also to avoid the necessity for the annual appraisal of corporate assets.

For a Tax on Stock Issued.

If this franchise tax upon corporations is computed upon the par value of issued stock, its collection will require only a simple mathematical calculation, which any taxpayer can understand, and which will avoid the necessity for the exercise of judgment on the part of the assessing official, which frequently, and of necessity, must be arbitrary.

A business tax upon a business corporation should be so simple in its terms that any officer of the corporation can understand the law, compute the tax and make a payment without the aid of an attorney and a lewsuit.

Senate Bill 1,577, by Mr. Harte, proposes a simple mathematical rule for the assessment of this tax, following as closely as possible the general theory of the existing statute and conforming to the recommendations of the Controller's office.

The bill will make the law easy to understand and administer, it will prevent litigation and it will result in a considerable increase of revenue to the State, collected upon a fair and reasonable basis.

This bill proposes a minimum tax of three quarters of a mill on each dollar of issued capital stock employed within the State. This amounts to a charge of $75 on a capitalization of $100,000 for the privilege of using a corporate name and exercising corporate powers. When dividends higher than three per cent. are declared, the tax is increased one-quarter of a mill for each one per cent. of dividends, thus being equivalent to an income tax of two and one-half per cent. On corporations paying six per cent. of dividends or over, the rate and amount of tax would be exactly the same as under the existing law. All necessity for appraisal and all possibility of dispute and litigation in regard to corporations paying less than six per cent. dividends will be eliminated.

I recommend the passage of each of these bills. JOHN A. DIX.

STATE'S DEFICIT $1,500,000.

Dix and Osborn to Consider Plans to Meet It by Oct. 1.

ALBANY, July 12.—The question of the State's finances is to be considered by Gov. Dix and his counsel, William Church Osborn, to-day and to-morrow, with a view to devising plans to meet a deficit of $1,500,000 that is expected to accrue by Oct. 1, the end of the fiscal year.

The Governor said to-day that this deficit has resulted from the fact that the revenues of the State have not come up to the expectations of the estimates made by the Republican administration of last year, when appropriations aggregating over $42,000,000 were made.

The question of returning to a small direct tax is still under consideration, but no definite conclusion has been reached.

BAILEY AMENDMENT TO RECIPROCITY LOST

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—At the end of a seven hours' session this afternoon a vote was reached on the Free List bill offered by Senator Bailey of Texas, early yesterday as an amendment to the reciprocity measure. Mr. Bailey himself asked that the time of the Senate be not wasted by a roll call, and the amendment was lost on a viva voce vote.

There were no set speeches to-day. Mr. McCumber of North Dakota, Mr. Dixon of Montana, Mr. Heyburn of Idaho, and Mr. Smoot of Utah—all opponents of reciprocity—spoke extemporaneously against the reduction in duties on wool which will be proposed shortly as an amendment, and Mr. Williams of Mississippi protracted the discussion by constant interruptions, while Bailey offered his version of what the woolen schedule should be. Mr. Bailey is almost alone on his side of the aisle in his stand on this question, as on most other schedules. He favors good protection on raw wool to justify his claim to be considered a low tariff Democrat by reducing the duties on manufactured wools below the point selected by the Democratic House for reasons of revenue.

Senator La Follette has at last completed his draft of the insurgent bills revising the woolen and cotton schedules, and they will be introduced to-morrow as amendments to the reciprocity measure. It is understood that as amendments they will be defeated, but his woolen bill will play an important part once reciprocity is out of the way and the question of further tariff legislation is under discussion.

Like Mr. Bailey, Mr. La Follette seeks favor from the farmers by leaving the present duty on raw wool untouched. He makes material reductions on the manufactured product, but explains that, without the expert advice of the Tariff Board he leaves the duties higher than he thinks really necessary, so as to be sure not to leave the American industry unprotected.

Mr. La Follette's woolen amendment provides a duty on clothing wools of 40 per cent. ad valorem; on carpet wools, 10 per cent. ad valorem; on tops, 45 per cent.; on yarn, 50 per cent.; on carpets, 40 per cent.; on cloths and all other manufactures composed entirely of wool or having wool as the component material of chief value, 60 per cent.

"The proposed amendment of duties on manufactures of wool would result in a reduction from 89.58 per cent. ad valorem, under the present law to 56.02 per cent. ad valorem, or a reduction of more than 33⅓ per cent. ad valorem, and more than 37 per cent. below the present rate. The change for the woolen schedule as a whole would represent a reduction from an average ad valorem of 61.74 per cent. under the present law, to 38.24 per cent., or a reduction of 23½ per cent. ad valorem, and over 38 per cent. below the present rate."

In the cotton schedule Mr. La Follette proposes the following duties:

"On yarns and thread 20 per cent. ad valorem; on cloth, unbleached, 20 per cent.; on cloth, bleached, 25 per cent.; on cloth, dyed, printed, or stained, 30 per cent.; on all manufactures of cotton cloth, 25 per cent.; on cotton laces, embroideries and ornamental trimmings, 35 per cent.; on hosiery, 30 and 35 per cent.

"The present average rate on cotton yarns and thread," said Mr. La Follette, "is a fraction over 32 per cent. The average duty under the present law on cotton cloth is 42 per cent. The adoption of the proposed amendment would eliminate the complex cotton schedule and would simplify and expedite the collection of cotton duties.

"Summing up the proposed changes, the average ad valorem rate on cotton goods, including artificial silk, is to be reduced under the proposed amendments from 55.59 per cent. under the present act to 29.45 per cent., representing a reduction of over 26 per cent. ad valorem and over 47 per cent. below the present rate."

"Semi-Democrats," "borrowed Democrats," and like terms were applied to the Republican Senators supporting the bill by Senator Heyburn of Idaho in his speech against the measure. He declared that when the vote on the bill was taken all real Republicans in the Senate would be opposed to it, while the "Semi-Democrats" would vote for it, along with the "fee-simple Democrats."

Mr. Heyburn declared that the Reciprocity bill came to Congress "wrapped in the flag of the pirate," and that "every amendment is a splinter off the Republican flagstaff of protective policy."

"That can't be," interjected Senator Clapp; "the flagstaff has been broken and the flag pulled down."

"I'll bet you 7,000,000 Republican votes that is not true," said Heyburn. He added that he believed the Republicans would ultimately come together again on protective principles.

"Reciprocity will be passed next week," was the statement made by Senator Penrose to-day after he had held a conference with the insurgent leaders and learned that Senator La Follette who had intended speaking from four to five days, had condensed his spech to such an extent as to be able to deliver it in one day if not interrupted, while Senator Bristow bowing to the desire of the country that reciprocity be passed, would speak only three hours.

This change of programme by the insurgents, it is believed, was brought about by the impression gaining through the country that the insurgents were holding up legislation. Senator Bristow will speak to-morrow if Senator La Follette is not ready.

"My prediction that Congress will adjourn by Aug. 1 seems reasonably sure of fruition," said Senator Penrose. "There will be no tariff bills passed, although the wool and free list measure will be voted upon."

ENCOURAGES TURBINE TYPE.

Utah Burns Less Coal at Low Speeds Than Earlier Models.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The performance of the new battleship Utah on her recent trial trips has gone far to strengthen the cause of turbine engines. It may result in a revision of the decision of the designers hereafter to install only reciprocating engines on the Utah class of ships. There has never been any question as to the efficiency of the turbine at high speed, but some of the naval vessels equipped with these engines have shown an alarming lack of economy when driven at medium or cruising speeds—meaning speeds between 10 and 15 knots an hour.

Now the Utah has been tried out at the ten-knot gait and has shown that she can get along well on a coal consumption of 128 tons per day. That is a good deal of coal compared with the performance of quadruple expansion reciprocating engines of like power, but it is actually much less than the consumption of other turbine battleships in the navy, allowing for the far greater tonnage of the Utah, and is very satisfactory to the designers.

TAFT DEFERS KENTUCKY TRIP.

Date Fixed for Lincoln Dedication Too Close to Election, Said Watterson.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Acting upon the advice of Henry Watterson, President Taft has asked Gov. Willson of Kentucky to change the date of the dedication of the Lincoln memorial at Hodgensville, Ky., from Oct. 26 until after the November election.

Mr. Watterson suggested that a Presidential trip to Kentucky so close to State election time, even to dedicate a monument to Lincoln, might be misconstrued. The President agreed with Mr. Watterson and informed Gov. Willson that any date between Nov. 15 and 25 would be agreeable to him.

FISHER FOR LIGHT ON DICK-TO-DICK LETTER

But Fails to Get Miss Abbott Called in Controller Bay Inquiry.

WANTS TO FIND CULPRITS

Chairman Graham Says Miss Abbott Is Not the Wife of Willis J. Abbott, as Reported.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—When the Graham Committee met this morning to continue the investigation of the Controller Bay case, Secretary Walter Fisher appeared to ask that the inquiry be directed to ascertaining the truth about the "Dick-to-Dick" letter. He assured the committee that no public interest had suffered by the filing of claims to the waterfront on Controller Bay by R. S. Ryan. However, none of the claims had passed beyond the possibility of cancellation by the Government, and if anything wrong was disclosed by the investigation or in any other way, it could be corrected. Mr. Fisher said that he felt a deep interest in the investigation, and would assist in every way he could. All the files and documents of his department were at the service of the committee to aid in determining the truth of the charges made. He further desired to assist the committee for the purpose of taking steps to prevent any jeopardizing of the public interests if there was such a danger.

Mr. Fisher then took up the story of Miss Abbott about the mysterious Dick-to-Dick letter, which she said she saw in the department files, but which is not there now. Mr. Fisher said that if the letter had been abstracted from the files of his department he wanted to know all he could about its disappearance, and if there were men in the department who had anything to do with it steps would at once be taken to fit responsibility.

"Some people who had access to papers and files are not now in the department," said the Secretary.

Secretary Fisher wanted Miss Abbott called now in order to throw light on the charge about the "Dick-to-Dick" letter. The opponents of the Administration, who have been pushing the publicity of Miss Abbott's story, and who affect to be especially well-informed as to the intentions of the committee regarding the investigation, have been saying the last day or two that Miss Abbott would not be examined until considerably later, despite the fact that it is her story which forms the basis of the investigation. It is a palpable effort to put the Administration in a hole by trying to make it answer a case which has not been developed, and by endeavoring to force it to make a defense before the prosecution has been put in.

The accuracy of this prophecy of the anti-Administration men was demonstraeed to-day when Chairman Graham refused to place Miss Abbott, who was in the room, on the witness stand, and insisted that the logical and orderly way to develop the case did not require the testimony of the lady at this time.

"The logical development," said Mr. Graham, "is to learn the conditions about Controller Bay. To call Miss Abbott at this time would be like building a house by commencing with the chimney."

Mr. Graham then made an explanation to correct an injustice that has been done Miss Abbott and another lady in the statement published that she is the wife of Willis J. Abbott, a newspaper correspondent in Washington, who has confidential relations with W. J. Bryan.

"It has been reported," he said, "that Miss Abbott is the wife of Willis J. Abbott, press agent of the Democratic National Committee. This is not the fact. Miss Abbott is not a married lady, and I assume has a case for damages, it being a substantial injury to an unmarried woman to be charged with having a husband. Miss Abbott is related to Dr. Lyman Abbott of The Outlook. She is not related to Willis J. Abbott, who incidentally has a most exceilet wife already."

Mr. Fisher made a second attempt to induce the committee to place Miss Abbott on the stand. He said that the efficiency of his department had bene involved and he desired to learn if there were unreliable people in the department. To this Mr. Graham made a peremptory refusal to be swerved from the plan of investigation decided on by the committee. He said with emphasis that he did not propose to rearrange his plans in order that the Administration could learn early just how much to deny.

Miss Abbott sat during the hearing, which was for the purpose of receiving the testmony of H. S. Graves of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, in regard to the coast line of Controller Bay, the depth of water, the passes through the mountains through which access to the coal fields could be had; the nature of the tides, and similar facts of the physical geography of the region.

The committee adjourned until Friday.

CONGRESSMAN AFIRE.

Matches in Willis's Pocket Set His Clothes Alight in House.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The House had an exciting scene to-day when Representative Willis of Ohio rushed from his desk with his clothing afire and several members came to his aid and extinguished the flames. He was uninjured.

A box of matches in Mr. Willis's coat pocket had caught fire from spontaneous combustion.

Senate Passes Resolution Abolishing Position Held by Negro Bodyguard.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—"Jim" Jones, a negro who was bodyguard of Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy, and said to be the only man who knows the secret hiding place of the Confederate great seal, is among those whose positions are abolished under the Lodge resolution, passed by the Senate to-day without debate. Later the Senate reconsidered the vote, so that Senator Williams of Mississippi might speak on the resolution.

Jones has been absent on sick leave for two years.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—George W. Perkins, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the United States Steel Corporation, and acting head of the company while Judge E. H. Gary is abroad, came to Washington to-day to confer with various Government officials.

Mr. Perkins spent an hour with Attorney General Wickersham, but refused to say whether they discussed the affairs of the Steel Corporation or the International Harvester Company, both of which concerns are under Government observation.

A Doubly Important Shirt Sale
12,000 Savoy SHIRTS
Regularly priced 1.50, 2.00, 2.50 and 3.00
95c

This is about one-half of the average usual end-of-the-season price.

First in importance are the shirts themselves. Savoy Shirts are the peer of any ready-for-service shirts. They are custom made shirts ready-for-service, made in a custom shirt shop by expert custom shirt operators, designed by custom shirt makers whose names are famous the country over, tailored from exclusive custom fabrics—few, if any, custom shirts are their equals—certainly none are their superiors.

Second in importance are the values—every shirt is of the regular 1.50 to 3.00 grade. The regular end-of-the-season selling prices of shirts of similar quality are 1.15 to 2.15. This price of 95c is quoted because Smith Gray & Co. and the makers of Savoy Shirts are mutually anxious that more shall know the worthiness and general superiority of Savoy Shirts, experience having proven that once a wearer remains always a wearer.

You may choose from—

4,500 plain negligee bosoms—laundered stiff cuffs attached, in an assortment of imported and highest quality domestic madras, printed percales of high count and Summer gauze chambrays.

4,500 plain negligee bosoms—soft double cuffs attached—tailored from silky mercerized cottons, imported and domestic madras and the finest quality of percales.

3,000 plaited negligee bosoms—laundered stiff cuffs attached—included are madras of imported and domestic weaves and light weight percales, the patterns being selected with utmost care to present plaited bosoms of notedly harmonious effect.

Since, in all probability, these tremendous values will be snapped within a day or two at the most, we urge that you come early.

Was Your Horse One of the 1,200?

There were 140,000 horses hauling loads in New York daily until the hot spell settled upon the city.

Twelve hundred of these horses died in harness from the heat.

Almost one out of every ten. And thousands more wind broken or ruined for hard service.

It's hard to-day to buy a good horse for $250.

Yet if these horses each were worth $250 the total loss in horseflesh would have been $300,000.

But this was not the most important loss. Think of the delayed deliveries, the lost business, the chaos in the transportation systems.

$300,000 is a lot of money. It would purchase 100 mighty good motor trucks. These trucks would last twice as long as the horses. According to figures in the Department of Agriculture the average life of a truck horse is in the neighborhood of only four years.

Motor trucks never die.

Sometimes parts of them give out just like parts of any machinery. If a motor ceases to show life after long service a new one can be installed. Or new brakes, a new transmission, new wheels, new axles, new tires, or any part.

A motor truck, in fact, really has perpetual life.

Motor trucks never succumb to heat. They travel as far and as fast on a sizzling day as on a cool day. They never tire. They travel as rapidly at the end of the day as at the beginning. They can work extra hours without effort.

These statements are made with particular reference to the motor truck.

An Alco truck has run six days and nights without stopping—1,009 miles. It holds the world's record.

The Alco is built by an organization that dates back to 1835 as movers of the world's goods. It is built by an organization with a capital of $50,000,000.

It is built in four sizes—a 2 ton, 3½ ton, 5 ton and 6½ ton.

Let us haul your goods for you on any hot day. You'll appreciate the difference in time, money and efficiency.

BINGHAM DID NOTHING M'ANENY DECLARES

General's Report on the Streets Lacked Ideas of Constructive Value, He Says.

TRIED "TO STEAL THUNDER"

City Asphalt Plant He Favored Was Asked For in the Last Budget, the Borough President Asserts.

Borough President George McAneny flatly contradicted yesterday Gen. Theodore Bingham's assertion that he could get no action from his superiors when he was chief engineer of the Bureau of Highways, which office he resigned suddenly on Monday to accept a position as consulting engineer of the Bridge Department.

Mr. McAneny was plainly put out because Mr. Bingham made public his report concerning the condition of the city streets. Mr. McAneny had refused to give it out. In a statement he said:

> Quotation from the report bears out my statement that it contained no suggestions of constructive value. The quotations do not contain a single suggestion or idea that had not actually been carried out before Gen. Bingham came into the department. When I put Gen. Bingham in charge of the Bureau of Highways, early in May, I suggested that he use the first month in acquainting himself with his work. I explained to him what had been done in the way of effecting improvements over the conditions we inherited, as well as the plans for further improvement then under development. I added that his particular task would be to get the force itself into a better state of discipline and to key up the method of inspection. I told him that when he had gone far enough to submit his suggestions along these lines to let me hear from him. I was obliged to explain to him, when he did report, that the sort of thing he submitted was not what was wanted, as he had for the most part merely rehearsed matters with which we were thoroughly familiar and which were well in hand; and that the suggestions for structural reorganization, for which I actually looked, were entirely lacking.
>
> I suggested that he take a little more time and present a plan for the organization upon which I could actually do something. He presented something of this sort on July 1, with a sketch of the rearrangement of the divisions and gangs; though even in this he added that his suggestions for the "actual assignments of the Inspectors, engineers, and other employes of the bureau," which was essential to the final consideration of what he had to propose, "would be forwarded in a few days." The interruption of the General's plan at this point must have come suddenly, for he had submitted nothing further at the time his resignation was handed in.
>
> As a fair instance of his disposition to steal thunder in submitting his earlier paper I might mention his advocacy of an asphalt repair plant. As everybody who had any interest in the matter at all knows provision for such a plant, at a cost of $200,000, was included in the corporate stock budget estimates of the department in December last, upon plans elaborately worked out at the time by the Consulting Engineer for the borough, Mr. Goodrich.
>
> In referring to the need of more adequate provision for replacement of poor pavement, the General repeated in toto recommendations that he explains had already been made by the Commissioner of Public Works; recommendations that have been before the Board of Estimate for some months, in pursuance of which some increased appropriations have already been made. To this discussion the General adds nothing.
> With relation to his own office, the General wrote "the general organization of the Bureau of Highways is defective. Nearly every one is running around as he chooses, receiving friends, holding corridor conversations, &c." I was obliged to remind him that if such laxity of discipline existed upon his own floor and under his own eye, he, as chief, could alone be held responsible, and that my advice was that he act accordingly.

Mr. McAneny said that the General's suggestion that the inspecting force be increased by fifty men, "without regard to the places these men were to take in a carefully worked out organization, and that these positions be exempt from civil service examinations," proved to be the only new point the General had to submit. Mr. McAneny continued:

> He had been very emphatic upon this request, adding, "I say to you frankly that all else is useless unless you get for your department these exempt positions. Nor can the number be shaved down if you want success."
>
> I felt obliged to inform the General that his suggestion that fifty positions of this character be turned into possible patronage, for use either before or after his departure from office, did not appeal to me, and that I had very strong conviction that it would not appeal to the civil service authorities. I also informed him that I should not be disposed to ask for an appropriation of money for fifty additional employes, either exempt or non-exempt, until I had received his explanation as to how the new men were to be used, and how they were to be distributed throughout the general force. I assured him that I should at least ask for the necessary number of new men from the civil service lists when his further report on this subject had been received; but, as I have said, nothing of the sort had been submitted when the General resigned.
> The General's statement that certain streets are badly paved adds nothing to the sum total of the city's knowledge.

Mr. McAneny said that "despite certain loose statements to the contrary," the pavements of Manhattan are in better condition to-day than they have been for many years, and added:

"Whether the General is responsible for any of the unfair discussion of this phase of the bureau's work I do not know, although some of the statements of his report were colored in a manner that might suggest that. I do not desire to say an unkindly word about Gen. Bingham. I have been amazed, however, by some of his actions in this matter, and feel obliged to speak frankly."

PASSED HOME-MADE MONEY.

Prisoner Got $50 for Two Imitation Confederate Bills Pasted Together.

Magistrate Butts in Essex Market Court held John Jakowitz of 308 Stanton Street for trial yesterday on a charge of petty larceny. Philip Lidletzky said that Jakowitz entered his saloon at 19 Essex Street last Saturday evening, and to pay for a fifteen cent drink gave him a $50 bill. Lidletzky had only $25, so it was arranged that Jakowitz should call later for the remainder of his change.

The same evening Lidletzky gave the bill to an Italian, who took it on Monday to a bank for deposit. Then it was discovered that the bill was made of two patent medicine advertisements of an imitation Confederate bill pasted together.

Jakowitz admitted passing the bill, but said he got it from a contractor. He was arrested by Detective Bush when he returned to Lidletzky's saloon for the $24.85.

OCEANIC PASSES THE FLEET.

Reports Seeing Our Warships, Bound Here, 1,130 Miles from Port.

The White Star liner Oceanic, which arrived yesterday, reported sighting last Monday the homeward-bound American warships Kansas, New Hampshire, South Carolina, and Louisiana. The fleet was then 1,130 miles east of Ambrose Channel Lightship and steaming easily.

The Baron and Baroness Rosenkrantz of Denmark arrived in the Oceanic. The Baroness is an American, and she and her husband are going to her former home in Virginia.

Medill McCormick of Chicago was another passenger. He spent three months in France and England. He said he was much impressed with the growing prosperity of Ireland.

NEW RECTOR FOR ST. MARK'S.

Dr. Guthrie, Who Succeeds Dr. Batten, Is an Author of Note.

The Rev. William Norman Guthrie has accepted the call to succeed the Rev. Dr. L. W. Batten as rector of St. Mark's Protestant Episcopal Church at Second Avenue and St. Mark's Place. He will begin his duties in the Autumn. Since 1908 he has been professor of general literature and director of the University Extension Movement in the University of the South.

He was born in Dundee, Scotland, 43 years ago, and after coming to this country at an early age, was graduated from the University of the South in 1889 at the age of 21.

Among the books he has written are "Love Conquereth," "Modern Poet Prophets," "To Kindle the Log Yule," "Songs of American Destiny," "The Old Hemlock," "The Christ of the Ages in Words of Holy Writ," "Orpheus To-day," "St. Francis of the Trees and Other Verses," and "The Vital Study of Literature." Dr. Batten, whom the Rev. Mr. Guthrie succeeds, has accepted an invitation to become professor of the Semitic language at the General Theological Seminary. Mr. Guthrie's compensation will be $6,000 a year and the rectory.

PLOT FOR MAINE MEMORIAL.

Ground Broken for Monument in Central Park at 59th St., West Side.

Ground was broken yesterday at Columbus Circle for the Battleship Maine Memorial. It will stand within the entrance of Central Park and will run for about 200 feet back on the plot of grass between the roadways running parallel to Fifty-ninth Street and to Central Park West. On either side will be thrown ornamental wings in the form of marble seats and balustrades terminating in small pergolas.

To erect the monument several trees had to be sacrificed. Yesterday two Norway maples and one small elm were cut down, as they would not bear removal. It was hoped that another elm further back in the plot could be transported to another site, but Commissioner Stover said yesterday that as he had found it would cost $1,000, and there was no certainty that the tree would survive the move, it did not seem to him wise to attempt it. A large elm just at the border of the roadway is, however, to be preserved, although it will encroach on the semi-circle formed by the monument on account of its size and beauty.

The Maine Memorial will be ready, it is hoped, for a public opening next Summer, perhaps on July 4.

RESTING UP IN STOKES CASE.

Charge Against Young Women May Be Changed to Felonious Assault.

Everybody connected with the Stokes case took a brief rest yesterday. It was announced at the District Attorney's office that the case would go before the Grand Jury probably Monday morning. It was also indicated that in all probability the charge would be changed from attempted murder to felonious assault.

Clark L. Jordan, one of the counsel for the defense, is strongly opposed to Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad testifying before the Grand Jury.

"I don't see any good of it," he said, "the Grand Jury cannot liberate these girls. They can be re-arrested within a few hours if the Grand Jury does not find a true bill against them. And on the other hand the defense is likely to leak out. If the matter were entirely in Judge Whitman's hands it would be different. I would just as soon as not tell him the entire defense."

Robert B. Moore, also attorney for Miss Graham and Miss Conrad, is in favor of the girls giving their testimony before the Grand Jury. District Attorney Whitman has already signified his willingness to advise the Grand Jury to hear their testimony if the girls' lawyers decide that it is advisable for them to give it.

The hearing of the charges against the four policemen, growing out of the missing letters will be held to-day at Police Headquarters. District Attorney Whitman said that he should try to attend the hearing in person, as he is extremely interested in the case of the letters. At any rate Assistant District Attorney Buckner will represent him there.

NELLIE BLY SAVES ONE OF HER PLANTS

Court Refuses Finally to Put Her Steel Barrel Concern Into Bankruptcy.

RECEIVER NOT YET OUSTED

Motion to Turn Ironclad Co. Over to a Practical Manufacturer Goes Over—Hard Problem for Judge.

Before Judge Veeder in the United States District Court in Brooklyn yesterday Mrs. Elizabeth Cochrane Seaman (Nellie Bly) won her first substantial victory in her efforts to maintain herself in business in spite of the financial crash which overtook her Ironclad Manufacturing Company three months ago, following the discovery that certain of her employes had stolen large sums of money by means of forged bills of lading, forged and raised checks and the theft of material in process of manufacture.

Judge Veeder decided that the jurisdiction of Receiver Appleton L. Clark, who was appointed as the result of a petition in bankruptcy filed against the Ironclad Company, should not be extended to include the American Steel Barrel Company, across the street.

Mrs. Seaman is now able to go ahead manufacturing steel barrels, although her Ironclad Company is closed down, except for the power plant, which furnishes electric energy to the Barrel Company. Her business in steel barrels amounted to more than $1,000,000 a year when it was not impaired by the difficulties brought on by the receivership. The Standard Oil Company was one of her large customers, and the patents under which the barrels are made were either taken out by Mrs. Seaman herself or by employes who experimented under her direction and then assigned their patents to her.

The question Judge Veeder had to decide was close. Mrs. Seaman, it seemed, after inheriting the Ironclad Company from her husband twelve years ago, had become interested in steel barrels on her own initiative and had worked up the new business, organizing a separate corporation for that purpose about six years ago.

But the two business ventures had been conducted very much under the same roof and through the same force of people. The delivery wagons carried the names of both companies and delivered equally for both, while material was often bought through the Ironclad Company for the use of the Barrel Company, and payment made to the Ironclad instead of direct to the company supplying the goods.

In addition, Mrs. Seaman had spoken of the Steel Barrel Company as a "subsidiary" of the Ironclad in a document filed with the Government regarding the Federal corporation tax, and persons who had extended credit to the Ironclad Company insisted that they had considered the Barrel Company as only a department of the other concern.

She insisted, however, that before making out the corporation tax report she had talked the matter over with the officials concerned and told them of the tangle of the books, purposely made by those who were later discovered to have forged her checks, and of her inability to get from them two separate statements.

She had made the one statement for both companies, she insisted, because the time was up for filing the document, and the Government agents had assured her that the Government would deal very liberally with such questions until the matter of the corporation tax was better understood and had had time to adjust itself.

She pointed out further that the outstanding indebtedness to Brown Brothers & Co., bankers, was for tin used exclusively by the Ironclad, and that the bills of the Seaboard Coal Company, another large creditor, were for coal used by the Ironclad, and that she had persistently refused to accept proposals made to her, as conditions for obtaining credit, that she pledge both companies as security for material furnished to one. Her constant aim, she held, had been to build them up as separate concerns, getting each on an independent basis.

Some of Mrs. Seaman's creditors took the ground that her attitude in attempting to free the Barrel Company was hardly fair to them, and was an insurmountable difficulty in the path of co-operation of all concerned toward a final adjustment.

Mrs. Seaman insisted that certain men it had become very necessary to prosecute stood much more chance of being aggressively followed up if she had some control over her affairs than if a receiver, who knew only slightly the conditions and facts about the forgeries, should be charged with this duty. The final rock upon which she and certain creditors, led by the Western National Bank, had split in a programme of coming to an agreement before the bankruptcy proceedings, she said, was the plan of some of these creditors to keep C. W. Caccia, now under indictment for forgery, as bookkeeper, and to put in as General Manager Harold Davidson, a financial counselor of the Wall Street district, who had drawn $5,000 from the Ironclad Company in connection with loans made from a Philadelphia bank.

Judge Veeder's decision, after considering the briefs submitted by both sides, was that the previous decision made by Judge Chatfield refusing temporarily to extend the receivership should be made permanent. A motion to remove Receiver Clark and put in his place some practical manufacturer was ordered postponed until Monday, when arguments will be heard upon it. Another motion, made by Edwin L. Price, representing Brown Brothers & Co., to have Mrs. Seaman punished for refusing to answer questions during her examination as a bankrupt was not entertained, but instructions were given that it could be renewed in an altered form on Monday.

JENKINS ESTATE LOSES SUIT.

Judgment in Favor of Brooklyn First National Bank for $222,077.

Supreme Court Justice Blackmar in Brooklyn gave judgment yesterday for $222,077, with interest, in favor of the First National Bank of Brooklyn against John G. Jenkins, Jr., Frank Jenkins, and Edward T. Jenkins, as executors of the will of their father, John G. Jenkins. The late John G. Jenkins was for years President of the First National Bank of Brooklyn. The suit was an outcome of transactions by John G. Jenkins, the father, as President and a Director of the bank by which the institution suffered a loss. It was alleged that there was a violation of duty on the part of John G. Jenkins.

The First National Bank owned more than 3,000 shares of the capital stock of various railroads, banking and industrial corporations, which it was alleged had been bought at various times for the bank by President Jenkins. This stock cost $466,643. In June, 1907, the market price of the stock showed an apparent loss of $262,953. Jenkins and his son, John G. Jenkins, Jr., delivered to the bank a bond for $536,000, which was to be void if the bank sold the stock within two years and realized the amount paid for it. The stock was sold at a loss to the bank of $222,077. Action was brought on the bond to recover the amount of this loss, with interest.

Ambassador Dudley Seriously Ill.

RIO JANEIRO, July 12.—Irving B. Dudley, the American Ambassador to Brazil, is seriously ill. He is suffering from heart disease.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The news of the serious illness of Ambassador Dudley came as a complete surprise to officials of the State Department. It had been known that Mrs. Dudley was not in good health, and for that reason her husband desired to be transferred from his present post, but no hint had reached here that the Ambassador was ill.

AERO INVENTOR SENTENCED.

Bretton, Old Offender, Who Jumped Bail, Sent to Sing Sing.

Harry S. Bretton, civil engineer and ex-convict, who invented a safety aero car while imprisoned in the Queens County Jail, pending an appeal from a life sentence as an habitual criminal, and who disappeared last April after being released on $5,000 bail, returned voluntarily and was sentenced to four years and five months in Sing Sing by County Judge Burt J. Humphrey in the Queens County Court yesterday. He was dejected, and his usual neat appearance bore traces of his hot journey from Chicago, where he was found several days ago by William F. Van Buren, son of Mrs. Maude Van Buren Holm of Edgemere, L. I., who went on his bond at the time he was released on bail.

Bretton is 50 years old, and he said that it didn't make much difference now how things went with him. It was evident that he had hoped to remain in seclusion until his airship was tried out, when he was confident that if it proved the success anticipated he would probably obtain clemency.

RACING CLUB HOUSE SOLD.

Mortgage Overdue, Sheepshead Bay Property Brings $20,000.

The Sheepshead Bay Club, in Ocean Avenue, near Voorhees Avenue, a relic of the racing days at Sheepshead Bay, was sold for $20,000 yesterday in foreclosure proceedings in Brooklyn. The property included the house and grounds.

The club was near the Sheepshead Bay race track, and when racing was at its height its membership included a large number of racing men. Richard C. Doggett, plaintiff in the foreclosure proceedings was the only bidder. He said the mortgage was due three years ago.

FOR GOVERNOR OF KENTUCKY

Republicans Nominate Judge O'Rear—Bristow His Running Mate.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 12.—Judge E. C. O'Rear was nominated for Governor by acclamation in the State Republican convention here to-day.

Judge L. L. Bristow of Scott County was nominated for Lieutenant Governor.

FOR ROCKAWAY PARK SITE.

Aldermanic Committee Urges City to Buy 200-Acre Tract.

Alderman Alexander S. Drescher, Chairman of the Aldermanic Committee on Public Parks, after a comparative examination of the seaside park sites offered to the city, reported yesterday in favor of the city buying the site at Rockaway Park.

"I am convinced," said the Alderman, "that it would be a better investment for the city to buy the Rockaway tract of 250 acres for $1,600,000, or $325 a lot, than 24 acres at Coney Island for $5,000,000, or $10,000 a lot, which is the least it will cost if parts of the Coney Island site have to be acquired by condemnation.

"Of course, if the Coney Island owners will sell their land at a fair and reasonable value as determined by impartial experts, the city should buy both, since a city with a population of 5,000,000 and constantly increasing should not be behind its sister cities, Boston and Chicago, which cities set aside a sum annually for the enlarging of their parks and playgrounds system. The future needs of the city should be given serious attention, and unfortunately in the past officials have neglected this matter. Let us hope the present Board of Estimate and Apportionment will be more progressive."

At its meeting to-day the Board of Estimate will take up the matter of buying a site.

'TWAS ORANGEMEN'S DAY.

Parade, Picnic, and Speeches to Mark Anniversary of the Boyne.

The Orangemen celebrated yesterday the three hundred and twenty-first anniversary of the battle of the Boyne, with a parade and a picnic in Manhattan Casino Park, 155th Street and Eighth Avenue. The parade assembled at 110th Street and Seventh Avenue at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, with John Kennedy, the Grand Master, in command. Seven divisions were in line, one of them being composed of Boy Scouts.

Among those who rode in carriages at the head of the column were the Rev. John Hutchinson, Thomas A. Silcock, the Rev. H. Arlington of New Jersey, the Rev. John F. Steen, Alexander Wilson, State Grand Master; Andrew Weir, and R. Stewart, Past Grand Masters of the City of New York.

About 5,000 persons attended the picnic at the Manhattan Casino Park. A meeting was held at which the Orangemen pledged themselves to loyalty to the United States and the principles of their order. Several speakers referred to the deep-seated corruption in Governmental matters and urged the Orangemen to use their utmost efforts at the elections next November to eradicate from public life those who were guilty of such practices.

Bank Changing its Name.

Supreme Court Justice Lehman signed an order yesterday granting permission to the Directors of the Fourteenth Street Bank to change its name to the Security Bank of New York. In the petition the Directors set forth that more business could be obtained by having a general name instead of a local name. The change will take effect on Aug. 15.

BOARD OF INEBRIETY COMES INTO BEING

Mayor Appoints Two Doctors, Two Clergymen, and Thomas J. Colton, as President.

TREATMENT FOR DRUNKARDS

New Law Authorizes Establishment of Hospital and Industrial Colony for Inveterate Drinkers.

Mayor Gaynor appointed a Board of Inebriety yesterday in compliance with the law passed by the Legislature of 1910. As it required that he appoint two physicians he named Dr. William Browning of 54 Lefferts Place, Brooklyn, and Dr. John Dorning of 124 West Eighty-first Street, Manhattan. Dr. Browning was recommended by Alfred T. White, President of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities. Dr. Dorning is the physician in chief of St. Francis's Hospital. The Mayor also named two clergymen, the Rev. Dr. William Morrison, rector of All Saints' Protestant Episcopal Church, Brooklyn, and the Very Rev. John J. Hughes, Superior of the Paulist Fathers in Manhattan, and appointed Thomas J. Colton President of the board. Mr. Colton is a retired merchant of means, who is interested in charity work. The Commissioner of Charities and the Commissioner of Correction are ex-officio members of the board.

The Board of Inebriety was provided for in an act passed by the Legislature of 1910. The act makes possible the establishment by the board of a hospital and industrial colony to receive as inmates persons suffering from habitual inebriety. The board must appoint a Secretary, who is to be its chief executive officer, and it will also employ as many field officers, clerks, &c., as its work may require and as the Board of Estimate may authorize. The board is required to have central offices in Manhattan, the Bronx, Richmond, Brooklyn, and Queens. These offices must be open Sundays and holidays as well as other days. A bureau of records of men arrested for public intoxication must be kept.

The board is authorized, with the approval of the Board of Estimate, to acquire a site for a hospital and an industrial colony for the care and treatment of inebriates. This colony may be within or without the city. Whenever any male person is arrested for public intoxication the board must be notified by telephone and the name and address of the person arrested noted. A field officer will then investigate the case and find out whether the prisoner has any person dependent upon him for support and all other pertinent facts concerning him. If it is found that he has not been arrested before he may, after recovering from his intoxication, sign a request for his immediate release. In this request he must state his name and address, what persons are dependent upon him for support, and his place of employment, if any, and before he can be released must certify that he has not been arrested for public intoxication within the twelve preceding months. The act also provides:

> That any male person who is a resident of the City of New York, and who is adjudged by a court of record to be an inebriate, may, upon his own application or upon the petition of a relative or of the Commissioner of Public Charities or of the Board of Trustees of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals, and upon the certificate of two medical examiners in lunacy, be committed by such court to the board for a period of not less than one year nor more than three years.

The definition of an intoxicated person, given by the act, follows:

"A person who is incapable of properly conducting himself or his affairs, or is dangerous to himself or others, by reason of habits of periodical, frequent or constant drunkenness, induced either by the use of alcoholic or other liquors, or of opium, morphine, or other narcotic or intoxicating or stupefying substance."

The board has the power to parole inmates when their condition warrants it. If any person committed to the hospital or industrial colony is financially able to pay his way the board can require him to pay for his maintenance and the care given him.

Drowned Off Iron Steamboat Cygnus.

While asleep on the iron steamboat Cygnus, docked at West 129th Street and the North River, early yesterday morning, E. Soummary, a deck hand, rolled into the water and was drowned. The boat was tied up for the night and Soummary had finished his work. In his fall it is believed that his head struck the boat, stunning him. Several employes were near by at the time, but his body failed to come to the surface. Grappling irons used by the police of Harbor A, and employes have failed to recover the body.

DOG TERRORIZED CONEY.

A smooth-haired white dog as large as a mastiff appeared in the west end of Coney Island early yesterday evening, and after wandering up and down several streets suddenly sprang on 14-year-old Joseph De Ambrose, who was playing outside of his home at 2,837 West Seventeenth Street. The animal tore the screaming boy's left arm, his leg, and thigh and, then dropping him, loped off up the street.

Neighbors picked the boy up and called Dr. Graboff, who took him to the Coney Island Hospital. The police were informed of the occurrence. It was the first report of many similar ones. Time and again the telephone rang in the station house to report the appearance of the big white dog, which bit more children, but chewed up several dogs owned by Coney Island residents.

Messages of distress came most frequently from the bungalow colony in West Twenty-seventh Street, where residents telephoned that they were besieged in their homes and dared not face the big animal, which was prowling up and down the street. So many were the complaints that at last the police reserves were ordered out. With Sergt. Cook at their head a dozen men left the station.

They found West Twenty-seventh Street deserted. There was no sign of the dog, but from nearly every window peered a head and the policemen were greeted with shouts of:

"He's under that house! Over there!"

Beneath the house which was pointed out all was darkness and there was no sign of the big dog. The owners of the bungalow had already fled and sought refuge with neighbors. The policemen surrounded the house and poked beneath it with their clubs. They elicited not even a growl.

"We'll have to shoot to get him out," declared Cook.

The residents, gazing from their windows, were warned to keep out of range of bullets, and then from all sides of the house shots were sent flying beneath the verandas. A dozen shots had been fired before the big dog made a sign.

Then, with what seemed a volley of growls, the beast sprang into the open, every hair on its back on end. It plunged directly at the line of policemen, its jaws open. As it sprang at them, however, Policemen Howard, Euler, and Calvin all fired at the same time. Three bullets struck the dog, which fell snarling to the ground. Half a dozen more shots were poured into it before it rose and then fell over dead.

The body was taken to the Coney Island Police Station, and will be sent to the health authorities for examination. It is feared that the dog had rabies. There was no collar on it, and no one remembered having seen it in the neighborhood before its appearance late yesterday afternoon.

OFF PALISADES ON BICYCLE.

Boy Falls 145 Feet, but Is Expected to Recover from His Hurts.

Several men walking at the foot of the Palisades at Edgewater, N. J., yesterday morning, found seventeen-year-old William Klemm of 55 Thirteenth Street, West New York, N. J., lying beside the wreck of his bicycle. The boy, though terribly cut and bruised and with his clothing almost torn from his body, was still alive. Dr. Good of North Hudson Hospital was called and revived the boy.

The lad said that he had fallen from the top of the Palisades, 145 feet above. He was riding his bicycle to his work in the Edgewater Sugar Refinery, when the chain snapped as he was coming down the hill in Edgewater Avenue, and, though he tried to steer into the side of the road, the bicyle got beyond his control and plunged over the cliff.

It was found that the boy's nose, the right side of his jaw, and his right leg were broken, and his body was a mass of cuts and bruises. He was not injured internally, however, and it is believed that he will be all right in a few days.

Seeks Her Watch Lost in the Subway.

Miss Katheryne E. Carroll of Mount Vernon lost a gold watch in the Subway in the rush hours yesterday morning. She boarded a train at the Grand Central and left it at Spring Street. She missed the watch soon afterward. Miss Carroll is very desirous of recovering the watch, which was presented to her on her last birthday by her father. She has advertised it in the Lost Column of THE TIMES to-day, and offers a suitable reward for its return.

JOHN WANAMAKER RETURNS.

Was Presented to King and Queen—Says English Favor Reciprocity.

After three months' rest abroad John Wanamaker returned yesterday on the White Star liner Oceanic. Mr. Wanamaker was presented to King George and Queen Mary, and brings back with him many happy recollections of weeks he spent in England. On Tuesday, as the Oceanic was nearing port, Mr. Wanamaker celebrated his seventy-third birthday, and his fellow-passengers, through a committee, extended congratulations. Mr. Wanamaker is in fine health.

"I have been abroad three months and the trip ended in London. There I was the guest of the Lord Mayor of London. I had the honor of being presented to the King and Queen on July 1 at the Crystal Palace. The Lord Mayor presented me. I was much impressed with the personality of the King, his virility, and his common sense. The Queen impresses you with her womanhood. She is a splendid helpmeet to the King in his work for his people."

In the main, Mr. Wanamaker believes the people of England are in favor of reciprocity. The difference seems to be, he said, over certain articles of agreement. While in England Mr. Wanamaker met the Duke of Connaught, who, it is expected, will succeed Earl Grey as Governor General of Canada. "There seems to be a desire," said Mr. Wanamaker, "for a provision that would make it possible to dissolve the agreement at the end of a year, provided it is unsatisfactory."

Regarding the plan for arbitration, and President Taft's advocacy of it, Mr. Wanamaker said that the people of England were most happily impressed with the sincerity of the President, and they felt themselves to be running mates of the Americans in progress of that nature.

Mr. Wanamaker is greatly impressed with Canada. He said it is a great country and a fine field for young America.

Mr. Wanamaker will remain in New York several days.

New Offerings Daily in the July CLEARANCE SALE

An Event on a Scale Previously Unknown to New York

Enthusiasm is catching. The extraordinary public response to the announcement of the First July Clearance of the New Gimbel Store, in spite of the hottest weather in a dozen years, has put every section of the Store on its mettle. Today hundreds of brand-new items swing into the Sale—making, with those already told of, a wonderful gathering of desirable Summer goods at the lowest prices of the year. Wherever you go, in this fine, cool building, you will find the July Clearance cards that tell their story of great savings.

Men's Hot-Weather Suits Of Cool Priestley Mohairs At $13.50—Regularly $20

The Editor of the New York "World" says:

"In hot weather the woolen coat is an abomination. Swathed in its folds, man suffers and swelters.

"Let us throw down the bars against cool Summer attire (for men). Off with the woolen coat."

The editor very sensibly urges men to adopt shirtwaist apparel; but, perhaps, you are not ready for that step; but you CAN change your hot cloth suit for a crisp, sensible MOHAIR—light as a pocket handkerchief. And here are exactly the suits that particular men want, at little more than half price.

Coat and trousers made from the celebrated Priestley cravenetted mohair. Light as a feather in weight; porous and comfortable. Quite a variety of dignified patterns to select from. Sizes to fit men of all builds, from 34 to 46 chest measure. Suits such as have been priced at $20, for the coat and trousers, earlier in the season, now $13.50.

But, maybe, you're going away, or looking toward cooler days; then here are these

Men's and Young Men's High-grade Suits at $16.50

Every one taken from our own regular stocks, and made up after the very careful specifications demanded for all Gimbel Clothing.

HOPE IN NEGOTIATION.

We are not among those who are impatient with the processes of subway negotiation. The only thing which for ten years kept the city out of more subways was the legislation designed to prevent the repetition of such "outrages" as contract number one. The amendment of that legislation, and the abandonment of its principle, was the first step toward progress, which has advanced under the McAneny committee's guidance as fast as could be expected in matters of such importance. THE TIMES stood alone at first for the award to the Brooklyn company of what it was for the interest of the entire city that it should have. We now stand alone and as firmly for the award to the Interborough of what it is also to the interest of the city that it should receive, because it alone is in position to give the city what the city needs for its development.

No delay is excessive which prevents the city from committing itself to the execution of the Triborough route by the Brooklyn company. Anything is better than that. If necessary it would be better to proceed with the execution of the Brooklyn award, and for an interval allow opinion to ripen regarding the Interborough portion. Every day's progress with the Brooklyn's invasion of Manhattan would improve the Interborough's appetite for similar activities, and Mr. MCANENY would find his task daily more practicable.

To-day the positions of Mr. MCANENY and the Interborough are about equally difficult. The strength which the unmutilated McAneny plan commanded is drifting away with its dismemberment, and there is danger of a reversion to the Triborough plan, the execution of which by the city was demanded precisely for the reason that it ought to be withheld, namely, that it afforded no hope of solvent execution, not to mention profit. To-day the sticking point is "the safeguarding of the private capital" needed for the execution of the Interborough portion of the McAneny plan. Private capital took all the risk under contract number one, but the city must take all the risk under any plans now under consideration. How considerable those risks are appears from the discovery of an unexpected risk of considerable dimensions, and most disconcerting to those who thought it better to guarantee 6 per cent. to the Brooklyn company than 17 per cent. to the Interborough. That risk would not be involved in the 17 per cent. guarantee, and it may consume some years' profits of the city's share of the Brooklyn contract. The raising of this point, of such doubtful validity, illustrates how much better progress will be made with two satisfied contractors than with one jealous contractor dogging the steps of another. So long as negotiations continue there is hope of escaping a deadlock. It is better to have work progressing on both lines than on either alone. Every effort should be addressed to this end, if only to escape the infliction of the Triborough route.

AID TO INJURED MINERS.

The preparations to hold in Pittsburg next Fall a National "first aid to the injured" field day, with an attendance of 30,000 miners, are creditable to the coal companies to be represented at the meeting. President TAFT will be there, and Dr. HOLMES, Director of the Bureau of Mines, and his chief, Secretary FISHER, will address the miners and their employers after the mimic explosive gallery has performed its part by way of illustration.

In an amphitheatre, looking down upon the improvised colliery, thousands of spectators will witness the test explosions; the "entombment" of the miners; the trained action of the Government's rescue corps, equipped with oxygen helmets; the bringing back of the "wounded and dead," and the binding of feigned wounds and fractures. To many who will behold this spectacle of relief there will be recollections of more horrible things.

In the work of rescue and prevention of mining accidents only the crudest measures have thus far been taken. Last year upward of 10,000 miners were killed, the majority of them in Pennsylvania, chiefly because of lack of foresight and efficient preparation against disaster; in addition, 250,000,000 tons of coal, Dr. HOLMES says, were wasted because of this lax conduct of the mines that results in a yearly and increasing waste of human life. The Nation at large will have an interest in the Pittsburg exhibition next Fall.

RECORDS FOR POSTERITY.

We have received from Mr. ALEXANDER KONTA a letter proposing the foundation in New York of the first municipal Modern Historic Records Association. Mr. KONTA'S proposal is remarkable in that it would include for the first time provision, not only for the preservation of written records, but of the means of seeing and hearing historical personages for the benefit of future generations.

By means of the kinetoscope and the phonograph, had they been invented in his time, we might now see BISMARCK, that intellectual and physical giant of abounding energy, and hear his thin, piping voice as he uttered the words that shaped the destinies of European Governments. LINCOLN'S speech at Gettysburg would be delivered by himself before countless thousands of the children of to-day, and those yet unborn. Thus the majestic figures of prophets and poets may in future rise from the oblivion of printed documents into the visual and auditory world.

But Mr. KONTA'S plan is more comprehensive than this. There has never been an association formed to systematize the gathering and preservation of contemporary records for posterity. THE TIMES has shown how the most precious historical documents of this Nation are housed in buildings at Washington subjected to the mercies of the casual cigarette and the flung-away sulphur match. Our newspapers are not capable of preservation through the centuries like the rolls of Egyptian papyrus; of them special and less perishable imprints should be preserved. The best photographs of the past generation may not be found in the original plates; Mr. KONTA would gather the photographic plates, which should be preserved as records.

We have methods of fireproofing such as have never been equaled. We have inventions that catch, retain, and reproduce vividly the very lineaments and voices of our times. We can transfer our written records to imperishable fabrics. It is in the ripeness of time, as Mr. KONTA says, that we may now provide "a systematic extension of the historic records which the present may bequeath to posterity."

EASY TAX MONEY.

One Albany Senator was bold enough to vote against the bill amending the inheritance tax law, and the proposed tax on secured debts was laid aside because of a deficiency of votes to pass it. One fact is as surprising as the other. The Senator who opposed the reduction of the inheritance tax did so because the rates were too low in his opinion, although the reason for reducing the rates was that the previous rates were so high that the tax could not be collected. The rates are reduced because the previous increase had reduced the revenue by two million dollars last year, and had expelled capital and capitalists from the State.

Yet one Senator voted nay. The argument for the secured debt tax is equally strong. It is an optional tax, not a compulsory tax. Nobody need pay it unless he finds payment advisable. The inducement to pay this State tax is that it relieves the subject of taxation from liability to the vagaries and extortion of local taxing officers. Everybody knows how well this principle has worked in application to mortgages upon real estate. Millions of dollars in mortgages which fled from what the Governor calls the "arbitrary, unjust, and ineffective personal property assessment" welcomed the opportunity to pay a moderate specific State tax, and came out of hiding. Such tax-paid mortgages are better to hold than mortgages on which the tax has not been paid, and similarly any securities on which this proposed tax has been paid will enjoy a better market than others of the same class, but tax unpaid. It is estimated that $750,000,000 of such securities are sold here yearly, and it is expected that from four to six millions of dollars of revenue can be had from willing payers. The State needs the money, for the party symbolized by the elephant has flattened the State's pocketbook as though a real elephant had stepped on it. Instead of a surplus exceeding a dozen million dollars, which has been the accustomed condition of the State finances, there is expectation of a deficit almost realized which will necessitate the reimposition of a direct State tax, unless these two bills afford an escape.

The Governor must have been surprised to find how easily he won approval by indorsing these bills. The reduction of the inheritance tax will redound to his credit as unmistakably as the savage and extortionate rates of the preceding law redounded to the discredit of those who imposed it in deference to the idea that it is popular to be unjust to wealth. The contrary idea of hospitality to capital is embodied in the secured debt tax bill. The local tax on such securities is from one-third to one-half the average rate of income from them. This being practically confiscatory, nobody holds such securities unless he knows how to escape the tax, generally by irregular methods. By providing a regularized method of escape from a confiscatory method the State Treasury will profit largely by those who will besiege the tax office to get their securities on the tax-paid list. In challenging the inheritance tax the Governor deserves the support of all who think that taxes should be laid fairly instead of by main strength and a club wielded on every dollar in sight. The secured debt tax is aimed at the hundreds of millions not in sight, but which are invited to come where it will be safe for them to dwell cheaply. There is no political bargain about these bills that we know of. They are embodied in no platform except that of the Tax Reform Association. The credit which has come to Gov. DIX from such measures as these should go far to convince him that he will find his advantage in being a business Governor.

ELLIS ISLAND.

Commissioner of Immigration WILLIAMS, if he is innocent of the more or less interested accusations preferred against him, should welcome an investigation by a special committee of Congress. The resolution introduced by Congressman SULZER tells of crowding, filthy conditions, improper treatment, and general maladministration at Ellis Island. If Commissioner WILLIAMS can show, as he says, that "Congress usually has given me from one-third to one-half" of the money needed to administer the arrival of aliens properly, he will have cleared himself of most of the charges and will have forcibly called the attention of Congress, through the report of its Investigating Committee, to the results of its own negligence.

We say he will have cleared himself of most of the charges. There is another and a serious charge, if it can be supported by facts, that Commissioner WILLIAMS has practiced a "studied programme of exclusion" contrary to the statutes and outside the discretion with which he is vested. Secretary NAGEL stoutly defends him against this accusation. If he is guilty he should be dismissed, but, if innocent, an investigation will help him. From any point of view Ellis Island would profit by a Congressional inquiry.

THE ROYAL COMMISSION'S REPORT ON TUBERCULOSIS.

The Royal Commission of London, appointed to inquire into the relations of human and animal tuberculosis, has submitted a report to Parliament which will have its effect upon the inspection of the milk and dairy supplies not only of Great Britain but of all Europe and of the United States. It finds that the bovine bacillus can and does infect human beings directly, producing consumption and tuberculosis of the digestive tract and throat. Incidentally, the report shows that the battle fought by the advocates of pasteurization of all milk not competently certified to be pure has been won.

Dr. KOCH, who isolated the human form of tubercle, declared in 1901, and until his recent death, that the bacilli of bovine tuberculosis could not infect human beings, and that human tuberculosis could not be transmitted to cattle. The Royal Commission found in 1904 that cattle could catch the disease from human beings. Its present report, based upon experiments with human beings, cattle, rabbits, guinea pigs, pigs, goats, chimpanzees, monkeys, horses, rats, mice, dogs, cats, and birds, these experiments extending over long periods and involving exhaustive study and investigation, shows that the human type of tuberculosis is not the only one found in man. The kind found in birds is suspected. Other germs, having a special character and not yet exactly classified, have been found. And the bovine type in its most virulent form, and reproducing itself in the human organism, was found, sometimes alone, sometimes mixed with the human type.

Of 28 persons suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis, in 2 cases the presence of bovine bacilli was revealed as the actuating cause. These, after propagation on artificial media, gave rise to fatal cases of tuberculosis in both calves and rabbits. Further examination of the germs, obtained after intervals of 76, 117, and 118 days succeeding the first culture, removed any doubt of their character. Of 29 cases of primary peritoneal tuberculosis, 14 revealed the bovine bacillus and 2 more a mixture of the human and bovine types. All these cases were of children from 1 to 15 years old. Of those infected with the bovine germs, all died of tuberculosis save one who was stricken with pneumonia.

The Royal Commission finds that ingested milk and butter, cheese, and other foods prepared with milk, may contain great quantities of the tubercles from cows suffering not only from local infections of the udder, but of internal organs removed from the site of lacteal secretion. It says:

> We are convinced that measures for securing the prevention of ingestion of living bovine tubercle bacilli with milk would greatly reduce the number of cases of abdominal and cervical gland tuberculosis in children, and that such measures should include the exclusion from the food supply of the milk of the recognizably tuberculous cow, irrespective of the site of the disease, whether in the udder or in the internal organs.

The findings of the report are directly applicable to conditions in New York City. Into its markets millions of gallons of milk are poured weekly from uninspected sources, the amount of milk that is certified to be pure being but a few drops in the lacteal tide. In some States cows whose udders are affected are condemned, but animals which reveal tuberculosis in other organs are permitted to remain among the herds that supply the milk for this city's population. There is a conflict of laws in the half dozen or more States which supply New York; the public inspection of the supplies is lax, and the agents of this city's Health Department are few and possessed of too few powers to enforce adequately its rules in the dairies of these widely scattered areas. The efforts of the Health Department to remove contamination from the sources of supply should never be relaxed. But milk which bears on its containers no label of medical certification as to its purity should be pasteurized before it is put upon the market for the feeding of families and young children. The butter supplies should be rigorously inspected, and all butter found contaminated with the germs should be sterilized.

Yale and Harvard have some reason to rejoice in defeat in the field games with the athletes of Oxford and Cambridge, upheld as they were by the American Rhodes scholar, PUTNAM of Kansas. The Englishmen, probably, mourn their victory. What right had this Western Yankee to "butt in" and win for them the contest they couldn't win for themselves?

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Cause and Effect Transposed.

Having excited so much animosity by attacking the cherished belief that white clothes are cooler than those of dark colors, perhaps not enough more to really count will be produced by an assault on another delusion, equally wide-spread and equally dear—the delusion that thunderstorms break hot waves and cool the air.

In hot weather almost everybody yearns for the relief of showers, and after they come, comments gratefully on their beneficent effects. Even the Weather Bureau observers and forecasters, who are supposed to speak with scientific accuracy, are so often quoted as talking in this same way that it is fair to assume that at least now and then they do so—which is a pity. Not only is it an unquestionable, because an easily demonstrable, truth that thunderstorms are an effect of atmospheric coolings, not the cause of them, but almost anybody who will give a little thought to the matter will see that this must be the case.

Air's capacity for absorbing and holding aqueous vapor is directly proportioned to its temperature, and as long as the air remains hot nothing happens—nothing electrical, that is. But when a hot and heavily laden body of air comes in contact with one cold enough to condense the moisture of the former rapidly, then electricity is set free in large amounts and lightning flashes, thunder rolls, and rain falls. That is all there is to the "cooling shower" of which we have heard so much of late and seen so little in this ill-treated part of the world.

That the facts in the case are almost invariably ignored does no great harm, of course, but it is just as easy, after the habit has once been formed, to talk sense as to talk nonsense, and the "cooling shower" talk is mostly nonsense. It is altogether that, so far as the confounding of cause and effect goes, for the cold wave makes the shower, not the shower the cold wave, but the rain that falls on heated pavements and buildings does cool them more or less by its prompt evaporation, and in both city and country gives a sensation of freshness and cleanness especially delightful to sufferers from long-continued high temperature. So the "cooling shower" is not entirely a humbug, but the larger cyclonic storms of which thunderstorms are only petty incidents and accidents, confer the same and greater favors without making such a fuss about it.

A Regiment of Negro Guardsmen.

A bill authorizing the formation in this city of a National Guard regiment composed wholly of negroes has passed the Senate and Assembly and now awaits the Governor's action. Opponents of the bill in the Legislature declare it so loosely and badly drawn that the high hopes entertained by the colored men whose political influence won votes for it are sure to be disappointed, but the real question at issue is not whether the bill is well or ill drawn—it is whether a negro regiment would or would not be a useful and desirable addition to the State militia.

The proposed innovation is obviously not indefensible. There is, indeed, much to be said in its favor. That negroes make good soldiers has been proved in the field again and again, in this country as in others. They lack neither courage nor strength, and when in active service they have invariably met all the demands of good leadership. This gives them a right to the joys as well as the toils and dangers of military organization, and it is highly creditable to them that they have turned deaf ears to certain evil preachings of the day and are eager to be a part of society's protective and defensive forces. Their moral and legal right as American citizens to join the National Guard is therefore perfect, but there are sometimes practical considerations that make injudicious the exercise of rights, and in this case the negro's right to join any militia regiment is a little clearer than his right to have a regiment made specially for him. We already have, indeed, regiments composed almost exclusively of men of one or another racial origin, but the law does not recognize them as such, and the peculiarity is tolerated rather than approved. The Federal Army, too, has long had negro regiments, and not infrequently has had occasion to be proud of them. Yet they have caused so many embarrassments and inconveniences of one sort and another that the wisdom of perpetuating them has been often doubted and sometimes denied, not because of race prejudices, but from realization of racial incompatibilities.

Probably it is not now the moment for saying either that we should or that we should not have a negro regiment in the National Guard. The problem is large and complex, and it has received no expert or disinterested discussion; the questions involved are social, not political, and consideration of the "negro vote" should not influence its settlement in the slightest degree. Apparently none other has, as yet.

Disproved His Own Argument.

In his last report as Chief Engineer of Highways, Gen. BINGHAM urgently advised the addition of fifty men to his force of Paving Inspectors, but he was equally urgent that President MCANENY should somehow or other get this position exempted from the requirement of civil service examination for its candidates. The reason offered for this second demand was that a majority of those who had passed the examinations were incompetent, and that good men could not be thus secured.

The General may have been right, but it is to be noted with interest, and perhaps with a trace of amusement, that in the same report he said that he had himself "by examination" discovered that only about a dozen of his hundred Inspectors knew their business and earned their salaries. If he be not prepared to declare himself the only competent examiner, he can hardly avoid admitting the possibility of an effective examination of aspirants for these places.

Was not, as a mater of fact, his discontent with his subordinates in the Bureau of Highways less the result of a bad system than of a bad application of the system? If the examiners were not asking the right questions or enforcing the right tests, he should have told them better ones—the questions he asked and the tests he enforced with such good and prompt discrimination between men useful and men useless for his purposes. His mistake is one that has been made a thousand times by the foes of civil service reform.

THE BEST YOUNG MEN.

They Are Not in High Favor with Mothers and Daughters.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a recent communication to THE TIMES "Pater" touches upon the estimates of matrons on the qualities desirable in marriage mates for their daughters. Perhaps there is no subject that a woman more thoroughly misunderstands than that of mere man, although having all her life the observation of her father, brother, or husband; these, of course, from natural conduct in familiar intercourse are underestimated in contrast with other males, who in society wear the varnished veneerings of artificialities.

As one of years beyond expectation of winning favor of the female sex, or ever suffering from its invidious distinctions, the unprejudiced observation of the writer establishes the belief that young men most promising of development into mental, moral, and material qualities contributing to life's success are not those in highest favor with mothers and daughters. Although it should be recognized that the "loud laugh bespeaks the vacant mind," the young fellow of chronic gayety is generally preferred to another who mingles gravity with occasional effervescence. The latter finds it as difficult gracefully to pay an undeserved compliment as to pay the National debt, and his abstinence from such exercise is construed into absence of appreciation of the girl's self-estimated excellence, instead of his presence on a higher plane of nice discernment.

Even in "stock" or conventional society a topic of serious interest may unwontedly stray in its circle, and if he, being of a higher grade of intelligence than the others, is tempted to set aright distorted considerations and by the expression of rational views, uncommon to the circumscribed, he is seen to be a bore, a nuisance, and pedantic. If the subject is uninteresting to him, and by silence he declines participation, he is considered dull. If he shows himself to be possessed of a fair fund of general information he is feared or disliked. If he is suspected of being reasonably prudent in monetary expenditure, he is utterly condemned. Many young women do not consider any outlay in their behalf as an extravagance, but merely a deserved tribute to their charms.

The ones preferred, at least before marriage, are of butterfly hues and as flitting, particularly light on toes and heels in dance, tennis, and other pedal movements, with corresponding lightness in the "attic," alternating with doughy consistency when thought is required. Then after marriage— WHAT?

PRICES AND PROSPERITY.

Believes Some Items of Cost Besides Labor Are Too High.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial in to-day's issue on "Prices and Prosperity" presents an extremely interesting analysis of the industrial situation of the present day. Allow me, however, to differ from you in part of your conclusion. You may be right in thinking that all possible resources of modern efficiency have been exhausted, and that it is "up to" labor to reduce the cost of production. But some people are not quite sure that all the other items of cost are already at their lowest possible minimum. You take it for granted that rent, for example, is at its lowest. The manufacturer in trying to keep down his cost of production cannot reduce the cost of that item, because it is beyond his power. He must obey the mandate of the landed monopoly, which raises the rent so soon as he realizes any profit above cost.

Again, the banks might improve the situation by adopting a more liberal policy in the matter of credit. It is an open secret that the manufacturer has to pay large bonuses to the bank, in addition to the nominal legal interest, if he is to obtain any capital at all.

Furthermore, the matter of express charges is one that ought to be looked into. Not long ago an express company declared a dividend of 100 per cent. A bank in New York City handed out an extra dividend of $10,000,000 to its stockholders.

The manufacturer takes certain items of cost at their face value, and it evidently does not occur to him that these might perhaps be profitably subjected to a searching review. When our express companies and our banks and our rent takers are hailed before efficient investigating committees, they disclose secrets which make our manufacturers open their eyes and think.

If the present state of affairs is unsatisfactory, the remedy is to be sought not so much in a reduction of wages of labor, but in a reduction of the items of cost of which I enumerated a few. It might be worth while to inquire where banks get the 40 per cent. dividends and express companies the 100 per cent. dividends, &c. It is quite possible that the profits which our manufacturers see glide out of their hands will be found in the coffers of those very dividend receivers. Don't kill the goose that lays the golden eggs but apprehend the robber that snatches them away.

Rich and Poor in Customs Cases.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Rosenberg, doing the customs out of hundreds of thousands, is fined $25,000, and escapes prison, while a poor devil, doing precisely the same thing in principle, to wit, swindling the customs, gets a prison sentence. You see neither corruption nor injustice in this, for you say, although there is a "widespread impression that once more it has been demonstrated that there is in this country one law for the rich and another for the poor," this is not so, because "in court, as out of it, the rich man can avail himself of advantages and opportunities which are beyond the poor man's reach." You admit that "this is not ideal justice, to be sure, any more than is the fact that the butcher gives one man porterhouse steak and another, perhaps his superior, only 'chuck,' but it is not corruption and it is not even injustice." Now, the illustration does not illustrate, for the butcher does not "give;" he sells to each what he is willing and able to pay for, and he sells as willingly to the poor man as to the rich man what that man is able and willing to pay for. Do you want to be understood as saying or intimating that justice is dealt out in similar fashion? Q. E. D.

Noises of Cars at Crossings.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

People living at the corner of Lexington Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street, this city, will surely indorse the note of "Forty Years a TIMES Reader," in THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning, as to the unbearable noises caused by the passing of hundreds of cars hourly, day and night, across tracks running east and north. It is impossible for sensitive persons to rest. The question as to whose duty it is to prevent these noises is not more pertinent than the fact that they should be considered unnecessary and unlawful and be speedily abated. DWELLER.

OPPOSE LEVY ELECTION BILL.

Would Prevent Fusion, Dix Is Told—Elkus Defends It.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 12.—Asserting that independent voters would be deprived of their rights if the Wagner-Levy Election bill should be signed, representatives of the Citizens' Union and the City Club at a hearing to-day urged Gov. Dix not to sign the measure. By the arguments of the opponents it was shown that the effect of the proposed law would be to give Tammany Hall a stronger hold on the municipal government.

That this is one of the chief purposes of the bill is shown by the provisions relating to the placing of names on the ballot. It is provided that a candidate's name may appear only once, virtually shutting off fusion, and independent tickets are discouraged by provisions which will make it difficult to observe.

Although a large number of persons appeared to oppose the bill, Gov. Dix limited the time to one hour. Arthur Ludington of the Citizens' Union made a plea for the independent voters.

He said that the bill in requiring that the signers of independent petitions must be registered voters made the time too short in which to obtain petitions and file independent nominations.

Objection to the provision which transfers from the Mayor to the Board of Aldermen the power to appoint members of the Board of Elections was made by Robert S. Binkerd, Secretary of the City Club.

The principal defender of the election law amendments was Abram I. Elkus, of New York, who was elected a member of the State Board of Regents by the present Legislature. He admitted that the bill was not perfect, but as a whole he said it was an improvement over existing conditions. The duplication of names on the ballot he said led to confusion.

In response to a question asked by Gov. Dix, Mr. Elkus said that he had been informed that the additional expense imposed by the bill would be $290,000 a year. Various provisions of the bill were supported by William Temple Emmett and George D. Williams, of New York. The Governor has two more days in which to consider the bill.

SUFFRAGISTS DEFEATED.

Senate Blocks Bill Giving Votes to Women by 17 to 16.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 12.—Senator Stilwell's bill providing for women suffrage was defeated in the Senate to-day. A motion to advance the bill to final passage was defeated by a rising vote, the count being 16 to 17. When the report of the Committee of the Whole was made Senator Stilwell moved to disagree, and this was defeated by a vote of 15 to 19, the affirmative vote showing all of the votes in favor of woman suffrage except one. The vote in detail was as follows:

Yeas—Senators Bayne, Burd, Cronin, Duhamel, Fiero, Griffin, Harte, Heacock, Long, Loomis, Newcomb, Platt, Pollock, Stilwell, and T. D. Sullivan—15.

Nays—Senators Black, Brackett, Coates, Cullen, Ferris, Gittins, Hamilton, Harden, Hinman, McClelland, Murtaugh, Omrod, Sage, Sanner, Thomas, Travis, Wainwright, Wagner, and White—19.

The chief opponent of suffrage, Senator Grady, was absent, and the principal speech against the measure was made by Senator Hinman of Broome.

Senator Timothy D. Sullivan made a characteristic speech in favor of woman's suffrage.

"I want to tell you that woman suffrage is bound to come," he said. "It is not a matter of the next fifty years. It will be given in the next year or two."

Senators Stilwell, Bayne, and Newcomb also spoke in support of the women's cause, and Senator Ferris opposed the bill.

During the debate Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, Mrs. W. W. Penfield, and several other suffrage leaders occupied seats in the Senate gallery. Their campaign at the Capitol during this session of the Legislature closed with the vote taken to-day.

WOULD KILL RUSSIAN TREATY

Assembly Favors Its Abrogation by the American Congress.

ALBANY, July 12.—Assemblyman A. J. Levy's resolution advocating the passage by Congress of the pending legislation abrogating the Russo-American treaty of 1832, which provides for the joint protection of the citizens of the United States and Russia, was adopted by the Assembly to-day without a negative vote.

Mr. Shlivek (Republican) took the floor and charged that the Democrats were trying to absorb all the glory there was in the Legislature, as he had asked the leaders' permission to introduce such a resolution and had not been allowed to do so.

The Utah's Mormon Silver Service.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have been informed that neither the President of the United States nor the Secretary of the Navy has it in his jurisdiction to prevent the likeness of Brigham Young being engraved on the silver service of the battleship Utah.

The latter represents that the matter rests with the officers who will be appointed to this battleship, and that they may refuse it if they wish.

Have these officers been appointed, and what is their attitude regarding a service so engraved?

When in foreign ports what answer can the men of our navy give to questions as to the history of him whose acts resulted in the degradation of woman, and who defied the laws of the United States to perpetuate his doctrines?

It cannot be that these officers approve of the views of Brigham Young; then why hurt the respect and self-esteem of patriotic women of not only Utah but all the United States by parading the likeness of such a man? A PATRIOT.

Wet the Ears for Relief.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Extraordinary relief may be had from the intolerable heat by the simplest possible expedient. Moistening the ears with wet fingers gives a sensation of immediate, delightful coolness. It is remarkable that so simple a method at no cost whatever should not have been discovered before.

If after the ears are wet a fan is used or even a folded newspaper as a fan, greater comfort results. When people toss restlessly all night, the simple wetting of the ears may afford sleep where it is otherwise impossible. IRVING W. FAY.

Cool Pillows.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Regarding cool pillows and mattresses.

If more people knew the comfort to be derived in Summer from new, clean, light, white curled hair pillows more people would use them rather than the heavy feather or down pillows. COMFORT.

PETRONIUS.

A dog there was, Petronius by name—
A cur of no degree, yet which the same
Rejoiced him: because so worthless he
That in his worthlessness remarkably
He shone, th' example de luxe of how a cur
May be the very limit of a slur
Upon the honored name of dog; a joke.
He was, a satire blasphemous; he broke
The records all for sheer insulting "bunk";
No dog had ever breath'd who was so punk!

And yet that cur, Petronius by name,
Enkindl'd in his master's heart a flame
Of love, affection, reverence, so rare
That had he been an angel bright and fair
The homage paid him had been less; you see
The red-haired boy who owned him had a bee—
There was no other dog on land or sea.
Petronius was solid; he just was
The dog, the only dog on earth, because—
Because, a red-haired boy who likes his dog,
He likes that dog so much no other dog
Exists, and that, my friends, is loyalty—
Than which there is no grander ecstasy.

WE GUARD AGAINST TUBERCULOUS COWS

Findings of British Commission That Bovine Affection Is Fatal No Surprise Here.

DOESN'T MEAN CONSUMPTION

But Tuberculosis of Glands, Bones, or Intestines Chiefly in Children—All Milk to be Pasteurized.

No surprise was aroused here yesterday by the findings of the British Royal Commission that tuberculosis in cows is a peril to man. Most of the medical authorities here had come to the same conclusion, and the Health Department, fully aware of results now ascertained on the other side of the Atlantic, had already taken steps, through the compulsory pasteurization of all milk, not certified, to protect this city from the evils which the British commission describes.

According to Dr. Charles Krumwiede, Jr., collaborator with Dr. W. H. Park in the Health Department's Research Laboratory, at the foot of East Sixteenth Street, and in Dr. Park's absence acting director, more than four times as many cases of tuberculosis have been examined in that laboratory in a similar inquiry as the British commission had seen, and considerably more than half as many as had been examined in all the laboratories of the world.

The total number of cases which came under the eye of the British Royal Commission was 108. Dr. Park, Dr. Krumwiede and their associates here have had before them 487 cases, not selected, but taken as they presented themselves, from the big hospitals of the city. Up to the present time the whole number of cases, outside of this city, which have been investigated is 746, making a total for the world of 1,233.

Dr. Krumwiede declared that the results reached on both sides of the Atlantic were practically the same, only that the percentage of persons infected with bovine tuberculosis, that is, infected with tubercle bacilli from cows, was found by the British investigators to be slightly higher than was the case here. Dr. Krumwiede believes that this is due chiefly to the fact that the British inquirers made a point of selecting suspicious cases for examination. Dr. Krumwiede sought to make it very plain that it is rarely if ever that pulmonary tuberculosis or consumption, as it is usually called, is caused by the bovine bacilli, but tuberculosis of the glands, bones or intestines, and children are the chief sufferers.

The percentage of prevalence of bovine tuberculosis is generally larger in very young children, gradually decreasing in older children, and almost wholly disappearing among adults. The explanation, Dr. Krumwiede says, is found largely in the fact that very young children depend almost exclusively on milk for food.

"Not only have we examined 478 unselected cases of all ages," said Dr. Krumwiede yesterday, "but we kept records of all the cases appearing in medical journals, and our conclusions are therefore based on nearly three times the number of cases we personally examined. We find that pulmonary tuberculosis in adults, the general form of the disease, is rarely if ever due to the bovine form of the tubercle bacillus. On the other hand, out of eighty-eight children taken from the city at large, all under 5 years of age, who died of tuberculosis, eleven cases, or 12½ per cent. showed a bovine origin.

"But it is in glandular tuberculosis of children that the ravages of the bovine form of the disease appears most clearly. In infections of the lymphatic glands of the neck, the percentage of cases having a bovine origin in children under sixteen will range from 36 to 58. This form of the disease, however, is not generally fatal, but leads to disfigurement and the necessity of operative interference. In tuberculosis of the organs of the abdominal cavity, bovine infection is frequent in cases of children, and these cases, unlike those of the glandular variety, are frequently fatal. Bovine tuberculosis, in fact, causes about 10 per cent. of all deaths of children from all forms of tuberculosis."

Dr. Krumwiede prepared this table from the results of his and Dr. Park's investigations, which shows at a glance the prevalence of bovine tuberculosis in children, and its conspicuous absence in adults, H standing for the human form, B for the bovine form:

Diagnosis of Cases Examined.	Adults. H.	Adults. B.	Children 5 to 6. H.	Children 5 to 6. B.	Children Under 5. H.	Children Under 5. B.
Pulmonary	281	0	8	0	5	..
Tuberculosis adenitis, cervical	9	0	19	8	6	13
Abdominal or generalized	3	0	2	1	22	9
Tuberculosis meningitis	2	0	2	0	51	3
Total of 487 cases	305	11	46	9	91	25

"Of all the milk ordinarily offered for sale in the city markets," said Dr. Krumwiede, "a certain proportion will be found to contain tubercle bacilli. It must be remembered that one cow may contaminate the entire herd's milk, because of the common practice of mixing the milk.

"All milk intended, therefore, for consumption by children should be subject to special precaution. All cows providing it should be frequently tested with tuberculin. A physical examination of the cattle is not sufficient. Such milk now for sale is labeled 'certified,' or 'guaranteed.' But this forms only a small portion of the total supply."

Dr. Krumwiede came out strongly for the pasteurization of milk by the Straus and other methods which have met with the approval of the Health Board, that is to heating of the milk to 150 degrees or 160 degrees Fahrenheit for three minutes.

"Such treatment," said Dr. Krumwiede, "will kill all bovine tubercle bacilli in the milk, rendering it entirely healthy in this respect for children."

Health Commissioner Lederle said that the Board of Health had come months ago not only to the same conclusion as that reached by the British commission, but had discounted its warnings to the British public ordering that after Dec. 31, this year, no milk not pasteurized after the manner prescribed by the Board of Health, except the "certified" milk, can be sold in this city. Since the "certified" or "guaranteed" milk is considerably more expensive than other classes of milk, being taken from cows frequently subjected to the tuberculin test, it forms but a small percentage of the millions of gallons consumed here annually. The effect of the Health Board's order, therefore, will be to cause practically all the milk used in the city to be pasteurized.

Dr. Lederle remarked yesterday that it was simply impossible for the present force of 56 country inspectors or even a much larger force to cover thoroughly the thousands of square miles of territory from which the city gets its milk, and now that it was clearly shown by the Health Department's own investigations that a large per cent. of all tuberculosis in children comes from the milk they drink, pasteurization had become imperative.

LOAN TO CATHEDRAL BOARD.

Mortgage on 12th St. Property to Pay for Land on Long Island.

Justice Gavegan, in the Supreme Court, yesterday signed an order allowing the Board of Trustees of St. Patrick's Cathedral to place a mortgage of $170,000 on the property in their charge at Twelfth Street, near First Avenue. The Mutual Life Insurance Company is to be the mortgagee.

This is the second mortgage on this property. A first mortgage now outstanding is for $150,000 and is held by the Lawyers Title Insurance and Trust Company. The new mortgage is to run until 1913 at 5 per cent., and the money received is to be used to purchase land in Suffolk County, N. Y., for burial purposes.

The petition to the Court states that the Trustees have property valued at $4,340,560 and $264,270 in cash, and that their debts and obligations as Trustees amount to $83,000.

MME. EAMES WEDS EMILIO DE GOGORZA

Prima Donna and Baritone Married After Long Romance and Much Litigation.

EACH OBTAINED A DIVORCE

Former Wife of Julian Story, the Painter, Said to Have Paid Mrs. De Gogorza $100,000 to Free Husband.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 12.—The civil marriage of Mme. Emma Eames and Emilio de Gogorza was celebrated this morning at the mairie of the Eighth Arrondissement in the Rue Anjou. The ceremony was conducted in the strictest privacy. None were present except the witnesses, who were for Mme. Eames, the artist, William Warden, and the composer, Fairchild Blair, and for De Gogorza the banker, George Armstrong, and the lawyer, Ernest Arnal.

The marriage was celebrated by Deputy Mayor Sansboeuf, who at the conclusion of the ceremony spoke a few words on behalf of the Council of the Eighth Arrondissement, congratulating the couple, and expressing his best wishes for their happiness and prosperity.

On leaving the mairie, the couple drove to their house in the Rue Jean Goujon and kept their door closed to all interviewers. They refused to see any one without exception.

The religious ceremony takes place to-morrow at the Church St. Pierre du Chaillot.

The marriage of the prima donna to the baritone is without a trace of the unexpected. It furnishes a happy ending to a long romance that was made turbulent with much notoriety and quite as much litigation on both sides of the Atlantic. Each had been released from previous matrimonial entanglement by the decree of a court.

Mme. Eames was the wife of Julian Story, the painter of portraits, and a little more than four years ago, she obtained a divorce. The decree was granted at White Plains, and its handing down was shrouded in secrecy. The co-respondent's name was not made public. By the terms of the judgment, the singer received free rein to marry whom and when she pleased, but "it shall not be lawful for the said Julian Story to marry until the said Emma Story shall be actually dead." said the decree, to the intense indignation of the painter, who was quoted as saying:

"I will marry if I choose, marry whom I choose, and marry when or where I choose, the high court of New York and Mme. Eames to the contrary notwithstanding, and that is all there is to it." The point of the story lies in the fact that he did, for in June, two years ago, he wedded Mrs. Elaine Bohlen in London. Mrs. Bohlen was a daughter of Victor Sartori, some time American Consul at Leghorn, and she had not long before divorced D. Murray Bohlen of Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia.

"I have married a lovely young woman who has no connection whatever with the stage," said Mr. Story, with great satisfaction.

Before the prima donna's first husband had thus paired off again the papers were full of the matrimonial woes of Mrs. Elsa de Gogorza, many of which she loudly laid at the door of Mme. Eames. The path by which the baritone finally became free to marry again was a painfully thorny one. Mrs. de Gogorza started her campaign against the singer by initiating a suit for the alienation of her husband's affections, in which she asked for $100,000. She followed this litigation at short intervals with one for separation, and another for divorce, naming Mme. Eames as the "psychic co-respondent."

"We lived happily together until he went on a concert tour with one Emma Eames," observed the offended wife of the baritone.

The whole story is partly told in affidavits. One that was sworn to by Mrs. Neumoegen, the mother-in-law of the baritone, contained this commentary:

"I have known Emilio de Gogorza for nineteen years. Twelve years of his married life were happy. When my daughter was married to him he was penniless. She aided and encouraged him in his career. When my son-in-law returned from his first trip with Mme. Eames in December, 1905, he was a changed man. He began to stay away from home nights. In the Summer of 1906 he went to Europe, and when he returned he met me in my apartment and said:

"'You were angry with me when I left, but now my eyes are opened. I was crazy then, but I am sane now.' I told him he would be crazy as ever the moment Mme. Eames returned. My statement proved true, for when Mme. Eames came back to this country in November of that year, De Gogorza resumed his old conduct."

The baritone finally obtain his divorce in Paris, whereupon the papers in the separation suit in this country were marked "settled." It was widely rumored that Mme. Eames paid down $100,000 to the first wife to set free the man she married yesterday in Paris.

When, last February, it became generally known that this marriage would take place in July, De Gogorza was asked about this rumored settlement. He was in Chicago at the time, and he promptly flew into a towering rage and locked himself in his room at the hotel. After dinner he felt better and consented to talk. However, he knew nothing of the rumored $100,000. He explained that he was an artist and that he did not "bother with mercenary affairs."

Mme. Eames was born in Shanghai, China, in 1868. She made her debut at the Opéra Comique when she was twenty, singing Juliette, in Gounod's "Romeo et Juliette." It was just twenty years ago that she was married to Julian Story. De Gogorza is of a Cuban family. He has never appeared in opera. He has done much concert work both here and abroad. For several seasons he was associated in concert work with Mme. Eames.

WILL MARRY BLACQUE BEY.

Miss Josephine Kalman of St. Paul Engaged to Turkish Diplomat.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 12.—The engagement is announced of Miss Josephine Kalman of St. Paul, Minn., a society girl, to Blacque Bey, a prominent Turkish diplomat, who is now serving as Chancellor of the Turkish Embassy in Berlin. Miss Kalman met the bey two years ago when visiting Berlin as the guest of Secretary and Mrs. Scholle of the American Embassy. She was presented at the Kaiser's Court and created considerable of a sensation among the military and aristocratic set on account of her Gibson girl style. The Crown Prince was one of her particular admirers.

Blacque Bey, who was born in the United States while his father was serving as Turkish Ambassador in Washington, belongs to a distinguished Ottoman noble family and is regarded as one of the coming men of the Sultan's diplomatic service. He goes to America in August for the wedding, which will take place in the bride's home in St. Paul in September.

ERLANGERS AFTER SHUBERTS

Because of a Review Article—Retort with a Telegraph Complaint.

Supreme Court Justice Mitchell L. Erlanger and his brother, Abraham L. Erlanger, the theatrical producer, went before the Grand Jury yesterday and testified in regard to a charge of criminal libel made by the Justice against the Shuberts, as proprietors of The Review, a weekly theatrical paper they control, because of an article printed last Saturday. The article, in an attack on Klaw & Erlanger, mentions "high jinks" at the home of Abraham Erlanger at Lawrence, L. I. As a matter of fact, Abraham Erlanger has no Summer home at that place, but Justice Erlanger has.

William S. Bennet represented the Erlangers and Abraham Gruber the Shuberts. The Shuberts are to appear before the Grand Jury to-day and complain about recent publications in The Morning Telegraph which they charge is favorable to the Klaw & Erlanger syndicate.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. Rawson Underhill and family are occupying their new Summer home at Spring Lake, N. J.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Leale of 604 Madison Avenue have taken a house at Ridgefield, Conn., for the Summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Mott Warner have been spending several days at the Meadow Club at Southampton.

Mrs. E. Renshaw Jones has been the guest at Monmouth Beach of her daughter, Mrs. Henry Burr Barnes, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Whitfield, who sailed several days ago, are en route to Scotland to visit the latter's sister, Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, at Skibo Castle.

Mrs. William C. Gulliver is at Wickapogue, near Southampton, for the Summer.

Mrs. Collis P. Huntington is sailing for Europe to-day on the George Washington, and will join her daughter, Princess Hatzfeld, remaining abroad until late in the Fall.

Among those who sailed on the Olympic yesterday for New York were Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. August Belmont, Charles Lanier, and Commodore F. G. Bourne.

WEDDED AT SHERRY'S.

Miss Ida E. Burton Married to Walter Quaise of Jersey City.

The wedding of Miss Ida E. Burton, daughter of Mrs. Catherine A. Burton and the late Dr. Reuben B. Burton of 223 East Forty-eighth Street, to Walter Quaise of Jersey City took place at 8 o'clock last evening at Sherry's. The Rev. Hoagland of Jersey City officiated.

The bride wore a white satin gown with a court train and a lace veil fastened with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses. Her only attendant was Miss Ida E. Sargood, who wore a trailing gown of pink satin with touches of amber and carried pink roses. Reuben B. Burton gave his sister in marriage. Jesse Ingling waited upon the bridegroom as best man.

A small reception for relatives and a few intimate friends followed the ceremony, after which dinner was served in the tapestry room, which was decorated with pink and white roses and palms. Later the couple left on their bridal trip. They will reside in Jersey City upon their return.

MISS CORNELIA ROBB TO WED.

Daughter of Late Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Robb Engaged to D. F. Downs, Jr.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Cornelia Van Rensselaer Robb, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Hampden Robb, to Daniel F. Downs, Jr., of Brooklyn.

Miss Robb's mother died in 1903 and her father died last January. Nathaniel Thayer Robb is her brother. Miss Robb is now at her country place in Southampton, L. I. Her city home is at 23 Park Avenue.

Mr. Downs is a son of Daniel F. Downs of Brooklyn, and is a graduate of Harvard, class of '06. The wedding will take place in October.

EDWARD MURPHY, JR., BETTER

Former Senator Recovering at Long Branch from a Serious Operation.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 12.—Ex-United States Senator Edward Murphy, Jr., of New York, who was operated upon at his Summer home on the Ocean Drive yesterday, was resting comfortably to-night with every indication of complete recovery

An enlarged gland of the abdomen, from which he had suffered much since his arrival here last month, was removed by Dr. Edwin Sternberger of New York and Dr. J. B. Harvie of Troy, Mr. Murphy's home. Senator Murphy's general health is excellent despite his 76 years, and he is in a cheerful frame of mind. Dr. Sternberger said to-night that notwithstanding the seriousness of the operation the chances were all favorable to the Senator's early recovery.

STAGE NOTES.

The second of the special Thursday night Wagner programmes will be given by the Elliott Schenck Orchestra on the roof of the Century Theatre to-night. The selections are the "Kaiser Marsch," "Dreams," Elizabeth's Aria from "Tannhauser," Siegmund's Love Song from "Die Walkuere," and the Prelude to "Lohengrin." The soloist will be Miss Lillian Concord Jonasen.

Liebler & Co. yesterday engaged Henry Stanford, and he will probably be assigned to the company of Viola Allen, who will have a new play this season. The same firm has re-engaged Edmund Elton for his original part of Bill Avery in "Alias Jimmy Valentine."

Frank Mills, leading man for Henrietta Crosman in "The Real Thing," which is to open the Maxine Elliott Theatre, arrived from Europe yesterday on the steamer Oceanic.

A cablegram received yesterday at the offices of Charles Dillingham in the Globe Theatre conveyed the news that Fred Stone, of Montgomery & Stone, and his party sailed yesterday from Tromsoe, Norway, on a whaling steamer bound for Greenland. Mr. Stone is due in New York August 29, to resume his tour in "The Old Town."

Wallace McCutcheon, who has been singing the role of Dick, the artist, in Miss Valeska Suratt's production of "The Red Rose," was prostrated by the heat Tuesday night and played his role with difficulty. At the matinee yesterday his role was played by Wilfred Young, who will continue in it throughout the summer.

The Metropolitan Opera Company baseball team will play its first game this season with the Friars next Wednesday afternoon in the American League Park. Willie Small is, as he has been in past seasons, the manager of the team, and Earl Lewis is the captain. A well-known actor is to umpire this game.

DAYLIGHT BURGLARS LOOT JEWELER'S SAFE

All the East Side Where the Bold Robbery Occurred Is Stirred by the Deed.

THE WALL DRILLED THROUGH

And a Hole Bored in the Vault from an Adjoining Barber Shop—Loss in Thousands—Robbers Escape.

The east side in the neighborhood of Clinton and Rivington Streets, within a stone's throw of the entrance to the Williamsburg Bridge, which loves excitement probably more than any other section of New York, had a real thrill early yesterday morning when the news spread of a "great east side jewel robbery." A daring piece of work had really been pulled off after broad daylight by two men who were seen making their escape from the jewelry store of Joseph Fass, 76 Clinton Street, about 6:45 o'clock. How great the haul was is another matter and could not be determined. Mrs. Fass, who has charge of the store in the absence of her husband, made a guess as high as $30,000, but detectives at the Delancey Street Station, familiar with east side robberies, say that is an exaggeration. While Mrs. Fass will not give them any data on which to base an estimate until her husband returns, they think that a few thousand will cover the loot of the burglars. At a late hour yesterday no arrests had been made and the detectives say they have little to work on till Fass returns and gives them a description of the stolen goods.

No. 76 Clinton Street is an apartment house. At the right of the main door is the barber shop of Charles Schacht and to the right of that is the jewelry store of Joseph Fass. Two men, certainly very familiar with the surroundings, entered the hall of the apartment house, passed down a short flight of stairs, and to a door in the rear leading into a very narrow areaway. This was barred with a heavy padlock. The burglars removed a long staple, which destroyed the effectiveness of the lock, and passed into the areaway. A window at the rear of the barber shop, which was protected by heavy iron bars, gave entrance to the shop after one iron bar had been ripped out at the base and bent to one side.

Once in the barber shop, a large case used for keeping shaving mugs was moved a little out from the back wall and made a perfect blind, behind which the men cut a square hole into a little room just in the rear of the jewelry store and connecting with it by a door.

Through the hole and into the back room of the shop the robbers dragged a great electric hand drill and set it to work on the wall back of the safe, making a connection with an electric light bulb in the rear room. They succeeded in cutting an irregular hole in the back of the safe just about large enough for a man's hand. By reaching in they collected and bore away with them diamonds, watches, and chains of a value not yet determined.

The difficulties under which they used the hole were shown by the cuts they suffered. Blood was found around the safe in a great many places. In the barber shop they used several of Schacht's towels to wipe the blood from their arms and hands. That they wore gloves the detectives are positive, for not a fingerprint could be found that would aid in an identification.

The men left the jewelry store as they entered it, by way of the hole to the barbershop, through the window, and the broken bar to the areaway. Just as the second man was crawling into the areaway Mrs. Jennie Unger, who lives on the second floor at 167 Rivington Street, saw them and raised a great cry of "Thieves! Burglars!"

The window of her bedroom looks down into the areaway, but there was no way of direct passage from her flat to the door of the apartment house on Clinton Street. Other tenants were aroused, but the two men passed quickly into the hallway of the house in Clinton Street, and by the time Mrs. Unger had reached the street and given the alarm no trace of them could be found.

Acting Captain Foye of the First District has the hand drill the men used and the description given by Mrs. Unger, who got a glimpse of them. Detective Dribbeen found a handful of loose diamonds in the bottom of the safe, which at first were thought to have been stolen, reducing considerably the first estimate of the amount of the loss. But excitement continued high around the jewelry store all day and crowds gazed at the bloody towels, the broken bar, the square hole in the wall, and the jagged hole in the safe.

WED IN FAIRYLAND GARDEN.

Miss Agnes Hole and S. K. Rindge Married Amid Myriad of Lights.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—Like fairyland in its beauty was the wedding tonight of Miss Agnes Hole and Samuel Knight Rindge at the home of the bride's father, Willits J. Hole, in West Sixth Street.

Mr. Rindge, who is a graduate of Harvard, is the son of Frederick Hastings Rindge, who gave to Cambridge, Mass., its City Hall, Manual Training School, and Public Library.

The sunken gardens, where the marriage was celebrated, are famed throughout Southern California, and they were never more beautiful than to-night. Softly gleaming lights from myriads of tiny electric bulbs traced the arches in the gardens, and clusters and sprays of colored lights shone through the trees, and from the many clumps of shrubbery.

The Rev. Dr. John L. Pitner, an old friend of the bride's family, read the marriage rites. The service began with the entrance of the clergymen, followed by the little Misses Marjory and Laura Miller, scattering rose petals. Behind the white-clad flower girls came Master Walter Miller, in white satin, bearing the wedding ring. Then, escorted by the ushers, came the bridesmaids, Miss Margaret Miller of Los Angeles, Misses Florence and Miriam Shimer of Milton, Penn.; Hilda Welsh of Berea, Ky., Marian Cooper of Boseman, Mont., Hazel Myers of Ashland, Ohio, all friends of the bride at the National Park Seminary in Washington, D. C., and Miss Rhoda Rindge, sister of the bridegroom.

The bride was gowned in a Louis XIII. costume of brocade satin, with quantities of rose point lace. Her flowers were orchids and lilies of the valley.

The ushers were Roy Bayley and Daniel Brant of New York City, Stuart Salisbury, Pritchard Brawn, William Denis of Chicago, and Everett Bennett of Los Angeles. Mr. Rindge was accompanied to the altar by his brother, Frederic Rindge. A supper was served under the trees to the more than 800 guests.

SEES THREAT TO COURT.

Magistrate Sends Letter of Ticket Speculators' Counsel to Bar Association.

The sending of several ticket speculators to the workhouse produced a protest yesterday from Guggenheimer, Untermyer & Marshall, counsel for the speculators. The lawyers have put their objections to prison sentences in the form of a letter to all city magistrates, Police Commissioner Waldo and Warden Frank Fox of the workhouse. The letter, besides declaring that the magistrates who have sent speculators to the workhouse, have acted without authority, intimates that civil suits may be brought by the speculators against those responsible for their imprisonment.

This letter has been promptly resented by Magistrate Robert C. Cornell, assigned to the Domestic Relations Court. He has informed the lawyers that their course is in his judgment unprofessional and a subject for consideration by the Bar Association. Magistrate Cornell wrote:

> My answer to you is: I shall forward the communication to the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association, as it seems to be utterly unprofessional and a veiled threat on behalf of your clients, the so-called ticket speculators.

Lawyers Guggenheimer, Untermyer & Marshall take the ground that selling tickets on the streets is not disorderly conduct unless accompanied by a breach of the peace or conduct tending to such a breach, which element, they say, has not been present in the cases where workhouse sentences have been inflicted.

SIR ELDON GORST DEAD.

British Consul General in Egypt, Who Was Criticised by Col. Roosevelt.

LONDON, July 12.—Sir Eldon Gorst, British Agent and Consul General in Egypt since 1907, died this morning.

Sir Eldon Gorst followed Lord Cromer as British Agent and Consul General to Egypt. He took office in 1907, and it was upon his policy with regard to the natives of that part of the empire that ex-President Roosevelt cast reflections in his Guildhall speech which set the whole world a-flutter a little more than a year ago.

Sir Eldon was not without his own misgivings as to the wisdom of the recent British govermental attitude in Egypt. He took the office of Consul General after twenty years of familiar intercourse with the Egyptians, and he felt qualified to deal with them sympathetically. He tried to develop self-government, but only recently he had been obliged to realize that the Legislative Council and the General Assembly were obstreperous with Nationalistic agitation against the British. In a report he observed:

"The conclusion to be drawn is that the policy of ruling this country in co-operation with native Ministers at the present time is incompatible with that of encouraging so-called representative institutions."

For several months past it has been whispered about that Sir Eldon would be succeeded by Lord Kitchener. His illness had been protracted, and it had already been announced that he would not be able to return to his post.

John Eldon Gorst, the younger, was born in New Zealand in 1861, where his father, who afterward held high positions in the British Ministry, was Commissioner. He was educated at Eton and Trinity, Cambridge and entered the diplomatic service twenty-six years ago. In 1890 he became Controller of Direct Taxes to the Egyptian Government, and from 1898 to 1904 he was its financial adviser. Prior to his succeeding Lord Cromer he was Assistant Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs in the British Government.

Luis Walton Mooney.

Luis Walton Mooney, a newspaper man, who was actively identified in the real estate business a few years ago, was found dead yesterday morning in his room at the Hotel Brevoort, Fifth Avenue and Eighth Street. Mr. Mooney had long been a sufferer from articular rheumatism, and an acute attack supplemented by the excessive heat was the direct cause of death.

For more than two years Mr. Mooney had been a member of the telegraph staff of The New York Tribune. He left the office last week for his vacation, and was to have started for an outing in the country yesterday. Mr. Mooney was in his forty-first year. He was born in Englewood, N. J., and was a son of the late George and Lucy T. Walton Mooney of this city. He studied law at the New York University, but after graduating turned his attention to newspaper work, and for a time was real estate editor of The Herald and later the London correspondent for that paper. In 1902 Mr. Mooney entered the real estate firm of W. F. Ryan & Co., and on the death of Mr. Ryan he became a member of the succeeding firm, Parrish, Fisher, Mooney & Co. In 1905 he formed the real estate firm of Mooney & Lawrence, retiring from the firm to join the staff of The New York Tribune. Mr. Mooney is survived by three married sisters and three brothers, Dr. Henry Walton Mooney, Edmund L. Mooney of the law firm of Blandy, Shipman & Mooney, and William L. Mooney of Hartford, Conn.

Charles Halbert Denison.

Charles Halbert Denison, inventor of the Denison marginal index, and a former Vice President of the Republican Club, died yesterday at his home, the Hotel Winthrop, 125th Street and Seventh Avenue, at the age of seventy-eight years. For many years he had been in business at 152 East Twenty-third Street. Mr. Denison was stricken with apoplexy five years ago and since then had been an invalid. The extreme heat of the last few days was given as the indirect cause of his death. Mr. Denison was the son of the Rev. Avery and Mercy Benedict Denison and was born in Michigan. He was admitted to the bar, and came to this city about 1880. Mr. Denison spoke in many States during the Presidential campaigns under the direction of the Republican National Committee. For ten years he was Chairman of the Committee on National Affairs of the Republican Club of this city. Mr. Denison was a former President of the Patria Club. He was a veteran of the civil war.

FAST TRAIN TEARS WHEELS FROM AUTO

But Doesn't Upset It in Long Branch Smash, and Occupants Are Little Hurt.

CROWD WATCHES IN HORROR

Then Is Amazed at Outcome—Driver Couldn't See Train, and as Gates Were Up Thought Crossing Was Safe.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 12.—The rails were already singing with the near approach of the 11:15 o'clock express for New York this morning, when the throng of waiting passengers at the Hollywood and West End Station, saw an automobile start across the tracks at the Cedar Avenue crossing, 250 yards away. Many of them recognized it as the car of Mrs. Meyer Strassburger of New York, who is spending the Summer at her place on the Shrewsbury River at Branchport. Mrs. Strassburger was in the car and her chauffeur, Edward White, was driving.

The auto crossed the southbound tracks and had almost passed the northbound rails when the express shot into view from behind a clump of shrubbery. Persons on the station platform held their breaths as the auto seemed only to creep forward. Actually it was speeding with all the power that White could nurse out of his engine, but it was not enough.

The auto had all but cleared the tracks when the throng on the platform saw the engine strike the rear wheels. Women screamed and men gasped as the locomotive crushed the auto's wheels and sent the car flying from the tracks.

The brakes shrieked as they were forced against the wheels with full force of the air and as the train slowly halted the crowd from the station ran up the tracks, expecting to find the auto wrecked and its occupants dead or badly injured. They found the car, however, still upright though the rear wheels had been whisked out from beneath it and it was resting crossways of the road on its springs.

White still sat at the wheel and Mrs. Strassburger, frightened and a little bruised, sat in the tonneau. She had been thrown against the side of the car, but had not been shaken from the tonneau and beyond a few bruises was unhurt.

Mrs. Srassburger was helped from the car and assisted aboard the train on which she rode to Branchport, where she hired a conveyance to her home. White remained with the car to see to having it hauled away for repairs.

Late to-night it was said at the Strassburger home that Mrs. Strassburger was none the worse for her experience.

White, explaining the accident, said that some shrubbery prevented an approaching train from the south from being seen at the Cedar Avenue crossing, and that consequently autoists had to depend on the gateman. This morning, he declared, the gates were up, and the gateman made on effort to stop him. It is said that immediately after the accident the gateman disappeared.

Judson A. Brown.

Judson A. Brown, for thirty-five years the cashier and Treasurer of The New York Herald, died yesterday of heart disease at St. Georges, Bermuda. He went there for his health three weeks ago. Mr. Brown was born in Ohio in 1836, and he was only 18 when he came to this city. He went on the staff of The Herald when the paper was published in Ann Street, and in 1900 he was made Treasurer of the company. He retired two years ago. Mr. Brown was married in 1858 to Emily Stedman. Of their four children, two survive—Caryl S. Brown, a lawyer of 38 Park Row, and Grace T. Brown. Mrs. Brown died in 1905.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs. KITTY EMMETT, widow of Bob Emmett, died of heart disease last night in St. Elizabeth's Hospital in West Fifty-first Street. She and her husband were known as Bob and Kitty Emmett on the vaudeville stage, and after his death twelve years ago, she worked with her daughter in the vaudeville team of Emmett and McNeill. Mrs. Emmett was a sister of Lizzie B. Raymond, Mrs. Dick Bernard, and the late Dan McAvoy. She is survived by one daughter, Miss Lizzie McNeill.

The Rev. SAMUEL W. THOMAS, a widely known Methodist minister, died at his home in Philadelphia last night from injuries received in a fall several weeks ago. He was 81 years old.

PETER F. DIANA, 40 years old, of 113 Leslie Street, Newark, N. J., died yesterday in St. James's Hospital from the shot wound in his head which he inflicted himself on Monday while in a fit of mental aberration. He had been ill for nearly a year from a nervous disease. Mr. Diana was for several years Treasurer of the Empire Theatre. He was to be the Treasurer of the new Shubert theatre in Newark.

Mrs. ERVING WINSLOW, wife of a writer on anti-imperialistic subjects and herself formerly an actress, died on Tuesday at her Summer home in Concord, Mass. Her death was hastened by the heat. Her stage name a generation ago was Catherine Mary Reignolds.

GEORGE HARRINGTON, a landscape artist, died on Tuesday at Springfield, Mass., at the age of 78. In his youth he gave up a profitable business to study art, and his paintings have been exhibited at the National Academy of Design here as well as in the Philadelphia Acadamy and the Boston Art Club.

Prof. WILLARD D. GRAVES, 54 years old, Inspector of Training Schools for New York, died at his home in Binghamton yesterday. He is survived by his wife and one son, Dr. Gaylord Graves of New York. Prof. Graves had been State Inspector fourteen years, and had an international reputation in educational circles.

ALTA P. McDONALD, well known as a driver of fast trotting horses, died on Tuesday at his home near Albany. He was born in 1854, and raised and drove fast horses all his life. Major Delmar, Dariel, Connor, and Sweet Marie were among his famous trotters. He drove Prince Albert a mile in 1:59¼ at Syracuse several years ago.

DANIEL PAINE GRISWOLD, a traveler and book collector, died on Tuesday at Geranium Cottage, Cliffwood, Lenox, Mass., at the age of 47. He was born in this city, being the son of Burr W. and Martha E. Paine Griswold. He was graduated from Harvard in 1887, and married Miss Annie Robe, daughter of James Banks Robe of England. Mr. Griswold had been in poor health for several years.

JAMES T. BRAINERD, founder of the Brainerd & Armstrong Silk Manufactories in New London, Conn., died on Tuesday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Sarah B. Hill, in Cambridge, Mass., at the age of 85. He was born in Middle Hadden, Conn., and was the son of Russell Brainerd. He founded the first factory for the making of washable spool silks in this country at New London in company with Benjamin A. Armstrong.

WILLIAM S. RODIE, a wholesale coal merchant of this city, died in Paris yesterday of nephritis. He was born at Cold Springs, N. Y., in 1857, and his home was at 255 Scotland Road, South Orange. Mr. Rodie was a member of many New York clubs, among others the New York Athletic Club, the Larchmont Yacht Club, and the Manhattan Club.

THOMAS J. KENNEDY, a well-known lawyer, died yesterday at his home, 758 Avenue A, Bayonne, N. J., at the age of 67 years. He is survived by his wife, two sons, and two daughters. He was a Prohibitionist, and fifteen years ago was a candidate for Governor on the Prohibition ticket.

GEORGE MICHAEL HOTCHICK, Consul of the United States in Trieste, Austria, died in Chicago yesterday, aged 59 years. Mr. Hotchick underwent an operation in Trieste a year ago and never recovered his health. Consul Hotchick lived several years in Milwaukee, Wis. He was appointed Consul six years ago.

EDWARD L. HALSTED died at his residence, 209 West Eighty-first Street, yesterday morning in his seventy-second year. He was one of the 600 who enlisted in the Seventh Regiment for the civil war. He served in the Army of the Potomac, and during the closing battles on the peninsula was Chief Signal Officer on the staff of Gen. Sheridan. Mr. Halsted also served under Gen. Banks in the Shenandoah Valley, and was in active service four years. His widow, a son, and a daughter survive him.

GEORGE E. KAAS, one of the best-known special policemen in Newark, N. J., died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Matilda Hesseldein, 499 Clinton Avenue. He was 70 years old, and was a veteran of the civil war.

CHARLES JEFFERSON, 58 years old, an actor, who lived at 205 East Fourteenth Street, died suddenly last night at Fourteenth Street and Third Avenue. He toppled over, and before medical aid could reach him was dead. The body was taken to the Morgue. The cause of death was heart disease brought on by the heat.

ALFRED BONHEUR, a cousin of Rosa Bonheur, the famous painter of horses, died recently in Paris. He was 80 years old, and the head of the Bonheurs in the world, for it is said that there is only the one family of that name. Mr. Bonheur is survived by his wife and four children, Edouard, Rosa, Renee, and Lucien. Lucien L. Bonheur of 114 East 56th Street is the only one of the family living in New York.

STEPHEN VAN ALEN VAN RENSSELAER VAN HORNE, formerly general Eastern agent for the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation Company and the Detroit and Buffalo Steamboat Company, died on Tuesday in Roosevelt Hospital of typhoid after a three weeks' illness. He was 55 years old, and was born on Jersey City Heights. Mr. Van Horne was a member of the Holland Society, and was a son of John J. Van Horne. He lived at the Ansonia Hotel.

TIMANDRA TAKES MANHASSET RACE

Yacht Joyant, However, Is Actual Winner of the Trophy Subject to a Protest.

It was Boston's day on the Sound yesterday, for John B. Fallon's sloop Timandra, representing the Eastern Yacht Club, outsailed the other seven yachts that have been competing for the possession of the Manhasset Bay challenge cup on two of the four legs of the 16-mile course, and crossed the finish line the winner of the day's race, defeating the Joyant by 35 seconds.

The Joyant, however, by finishing in second place yesterday is unofficially, aside from all protests, the winner of the series, and the races for the cup for 1911 are over. The Joyant wins on the system of points that govern the race under the rules of the Yacht Racing Association of Long Island Sound. The score by points at the close of to-day's racing was as follows: Joyant, 23; Corinthian, 20; Cara Mia, 17; Sayonara, 13; Windward and Timandra tie, with 11 points each. The Italia has 8 and the Amoret 7.

The committee announced yesterday that there would be no decision regarding the protests against the Joyant, the Cara Mia, Corinthian, and Windward for some time to come. It is understood, however, that if the protests against these boats are sustained the winner of the cup will be the Sayonara, owned by V. F. West of the Portland Yacht Club, and which was sailed in the races by George Owen.

At the request of Commodore William M. Childs of the Indian Harbor Yacht Club, the owner of the Joyant, Capt. "Nat" Herreshoff, came from Bristol yesterday on his steam yacht Roamer for the purpose, it is said, of attending a conference of the yacht owners and the judges of the races. Commodore Childs said last night that the whole matter will probably be referred to the Executive Committee of the Yacht Racing Association of Long Island Sound. W. McMaster Mills's power yacht Augusta II. and many other steam power craft were at the start and finish of the race.

There was a good breeze from the southwest when the committee boat Jessica anchored off Great Captain's Island establishing the starting line. It was to be a windward and leeward race of four miles to the leg, and the outer mark had been set in the middle of the Sound four miles to the southwest. The summary:

Third and final race for the Manhasset Bay Challenge Cup. Start, 1:25. Course, 16 miles.

Yacht and Owner.	Finish. H.M.S.	Elapsed Time. H.M.S.
Timandra, John B. Fallon	4:51:36	3:26:36
Joyant, W. H. Childs	4:52:11	3:27:11
Corinthian, S.-C. Y. C.	4:58:41	3:33:41
Cara Mia, S. Wainwright	5:00:42	3:35:42
Windward, R. A. Monks	5:03:28	3:28:28
Sayonara, W. F. West	5:05:41	3:40:41
Amoret, C. B. Wheelock	5:07:51	3:42:51
Italia, George Lee	5:16:28	3:52:28

The Timandra wins from the Joyant by 35 seconds.

FAST BOATS AT LONG BEACH.

Speedy Motor Craft Will Try for Prizes in Channel on Saturday.

Many crack high-speed motor boats have entered in the second regatta of the season of the Long Beach Motor-Yacht Club, which will be held on the channel at Long Beach Saturday afternoon. Among the boats in Class A, which are expected to be at the line are W. A. Tucker's Hobgoblin, H. A. Simmons's Rocket, W. H. Moffitt's Willow Brook, Fred Lunning's The Kid, and J. Stuart Blackton's Vita. In the Class B will be U. S. A., Rowdy, Cricket II., Vada, Susie L., and Alma. There will be also a special class.

In addition to regular prizes in Class A, these boats will race for the Long Beach Challenge Trophy, a prize which must be won three times for final ownership. The clubhouse on the channel at Long Beach is within easy reach of clubs on Great South Bay, Hempstead Bay, and New York Bay, and as the entry list does not close until an hour before the starting gun is sounded, 4 o'clock, it is expected that many latecomers will appear at the line.

The high-speed event is for motor boats under 40 feet water line, and the winner must show twenty miles an hour or no race. Class B, which will consist of automobile boats under 40 feet water line, must show fourteen miles an hour or no race, and time allowance will be reckoned as per A. P. B. A. rules of 1910.

On the day of the regatta the new clubhouse of the Long Beach Motor-Yacht Club will be opened and visiting yachts from various clubs will line the course, dressed with flags and bunting. Entries should be sent to Lawrence Perry, Room 201, 225 Fifth Avenue, or they may be left with the Regatta Committee boat Daisy, which will be on the course at 2 o'clock, or with A. A. Dal Molin, Nassau Yacht Club, Rockville Centre, L. I.

LARCHMONT'S GALA SERIES.

Championship Motor Boat Race and Carnival on Tuesday.

In connection with the annual water sports of the Larchmont Yacht Club, to be held next Tuesday, which help form one of the gala aquatic occasions of the season, all indications point to the high speed motor boat race being one of the most important held for gas-driven craft hereabouts.

The fact that the race is for the championship of Long Island Sound has lent additional interest to the contest and already more than a dozen well-known boats have entered. It will be the only day during the week that the motor boats will have a contest.

The boats will cover a thirty mile course. It will be five times around a course of six nautical miles. There will be no sharp turns, which will greatly help the boats in their effort to break the record.

The Regatta Committee has just received the entry of J. S. B., a new hydroplane just built for J. Stuart Blackton. It will be the first appearance of the new craft and her work will be watched with interest. The contest will start at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon, an hour which usually insures very smooth water on Long Island Sound.

GOOD BREEZE FOR YACHTS.

Elena and Taormina Among Winners in Eastern Y. C. Races.

SARGENTVILLE, Me., July 12.—A moderate to a whole-sail southwester up the Western Penobscot gave the Eastern Yacht Club fleet the best sport to-day since leaving Marblehead last Friday on the annual cruise. The winners to-day were the schooners Elena, Taormina, Sea Fox, Vagrant, Venona, and the sloops Humma and Narcissus.

It was a twenty-five-mile race, starting off North Haven, with a run around Turtles Head, at the end of Long Island, and a finish below Castino, off Cape Rosier.

CHESS-PLAYING DETECTIVE

Recognizes a Master at the Game and Arrests Him for Theft.

Detective Allen piloted to Police Headquarters last evening a man he believed to be wanted in Boston on an old warrant for a still older theft, and he explained that he had recognized him as an ordinary chess player would naturally recognize one of considerable reputation. The warrant, issued in February, 1910, by Chief Justice Aiken of the Superior Court of Massachusetts, called for the arrest of one Nehemiah Jasnogrodsky, charged there with having passed the note of one Dr. Krauss in September, 1908, and then keeping the money. The value of the paper was put at $741.

Months ago Allen was told to find this man, and he thought he would recognize him, because, he explained last night, he had once had the honor of playing a game of chess with him. Last night he felt sure he saw his man in a cigar store on Third Avenue. He scraped up a conversation, turned the talk to chess, and then read aloud the warrant.

According to the police, Jasnogrodsky, playing under the name of "Jasno," has taken part in several international chess matches.

MILBURN TEAM BEATEN.

Meadow Brook Magpies Show Strength Against Great Neck in Polo Match.

That polo players fluctuate in form according to the make-up of teams contending, was plainly demonstrated yesterday at Cedarhurst, when the Meadow Brook Magpies—E. S. Reynal, Raymond Belmont, J. Cheever Cowdin, and W. Goadby Loew—took an allowance of 2 goals and then proceeded to earn 10, less ½ penalty against Loew—net 11½ in opposition to the First Great Neck organization, consisting of Elliott C. Cowdin, Hamilton Hadden, the Meadow Brook expert; Devereux Milburn, and his brother J. G. Milburn, Jr., who played strenuously to earn 6 goals, less Milburn's safety, reduction of ¼—net 5¾. Play was very fast throughout. Several of the exchanges were sensational and the contest was hugely enjoyed by quite a large number of clubmen and others.

The occasion was the third event for the Rockaway Hunt Club Cups, which the Magpies had won one inning upon by ¾ of a goal over the Cooperstown quartet last Monday. Mr. Milburn's team showed a reversal of form yesterday, inasmuch as they beat the "Coopers" by two goals for the Meadow Brook Cups a week ago. The last-mentioned team was considered to be growing rapidly in effectiveness until Mr. Rumsey's mishap a couple of days ago. The Great Necks disposed of the Magpies in the Blizzard series last week, playing Mr. Burden instead of Mr. Milburn, with an allowance, 8½ to 4½.

MAY HAVE SUNDAY BASEBALL

Assembly Passes Bill Permitting the Voters to Decide.

ALBANY, July 12.—A thunder of cheers and hand clapping greeted the passage in Assembly to-night of the Bush bill providing for local option on Sunday baseball. The vote was 85 to 33. Advocates of the measure, which is similar to that introduced in the Senate by Senator T. D. Sullivan, now believe it will pass that body.

A petition signed by five per cent. of the voters in a city, town or village calls for a vote on the proposition, and a majority of the votes cast decides the question, according to the Bush bill. If the electors favor the Sunday games, the place and time of playing are left to the discretion of the local authorities.

Talking for the bill, Assemblyman McCue announced that he believed "blue law" against Sunday baseball and other sports do more to fill prisons and insane asylums than saloons. "To close all the saloons in New York on Sunday," he declared, "all you would have to do would be to throw open baseball parks, theatres, and so on."

TWO MATCHES AT SEABRIGHT

Pell Wins in Tennis Singles and Long and Gardner Win in Doubles.

The Seabright lawn tennis tournament was continued yesterday, though the weather conditions were uncomfortable alike for both players and spectators. A match in the singles and another in the doubles were the only ones played. In the singles for the Achelis Cup, T. R. Pell, the national indoor champion worked his way to the final round in a style that left no doubt that he was at the top of his game. His opponent in the semi-final was Carlton R. Gardner the Californian. Pell won with the score of 6—1, 6—3.

The doubles match was in the semi-final round, where Melville H. Long and Carlton R. Gardner opposed Raymond D. Little and Karl H. Behr, the pair of internationalists. It was a lively set-to, but the victory fell to the Californians with the tally of 6—4, 6—3.

In order to give the gallery an exhibition of a first-class match in mixed doubles, Miss Hazel Hotchkiss, the national champion, will make her appearance at Seabright this afternoon. She will play with A. S. Dabney, and the opposing pair will be Miss Adelaide Browning, the Hudson River champion, and William J. Clothier.

Bassford Defeats Burchard.

Abraham Bassford, Jr., of Bronxville, scored a reversal of form yesterday in the semi-final of the Hudson River championship lawn tennis tournament by defeating Ross Burchard of Powelton, at 6—2, 2—6, 6—2. The tally was fourteen games to ten and 89 points to 77. The result produced a sensation among the gallery that witnessed the match on the courts of the Dunwoodie Country Club, at Yonkers. As a result Bassford, a former Cornell University expert, is coupled with Homer W. Guernsey of Poughkeepsie a former holder, for the cup and title in the men's singles.

The semi-finals of the men's doubles will be decided this afternoon and the women's events to-morrow. The summary:

Men's Singles (Semi-Final Round).—Abraham Bassford, Jr., Bronxville, defeated Ross Burchard, Powelton, 6—2, 2—6, 6—2.

Women's Singles (First Round).—Miss Elsie Dietz, Bronxville, defeated Miss Elizabeth C. Bunce, Poughkeepsie, by default; Miss Adelaide Browning, Ardsley, defeated Miss Emily Dietz, Bronxville, by default; Miss Anna Martin, Park Hill, defeated Miss Clare Cassell, Bronxville, by default.

Semi-Final Round.—Miss Ellen Barry, West Point, defeated Miss Elsie Dietz, Bronxville, by default.

Men's Doubles (Second Round).—J. L. Robertson and D. R. Todd, Bronxville, defeated M. C. McGuire and Dr. E. G. Littell, Amackassin, 6—4, 6—2; King Smith and Ross Burchard, Powellton, defeated A. F. Lattimer and A. Dudley Britton, Bronxville, 6—2, 7—5.

Third Round.—King Smith and Ross Burchard, Powelton, defeated C. S. Lutkins and O. H. Riggs, Nyack, 6—2, 6—4.

Mixed Doubles (First Round).—Miss Juliet Leach and Dr. B. F. Drake, New Rochelle, defeated Mr. and Mrs. A. Dudley Britton, Bronxville, by default; Miss Adelaide Browning and J. Terry West, Ardsley, defeated Miss Waddleton and Abraham Bassford, Jr., Bronxville, by default; Miss Elsie Dietz and J. Alexander Del Mar, Dunwoodie, defeated Miss Clare Cassell and Morris S. Clark, Bronxville, by default; Mrs. Henry H. Burdick and A. F. Lattimer, Bronxville, defeated Mrs. Walter A. Bethel and Col. L. H. Holt, West Point, 6—3, 6—4.

Second Round—Mrs. W. H. Pouch and Ross Burchard, Powelton, defeated Miss Kaltenbach and Erich Ambrose, Park Hill, by default; Mrs. Henry H. Budick and A. F. Lattimer, Bronxville, defeated Miss Elsie Dietz and J. Alexander Del Mar, Dunwoodie, by default; Miss Ellen Barry and Col. Walter A. Bethel, West Point, defeated Miss Elizabeth C. Bunce and Homer W. Guernsey, Poughkeepsie, by default.

Semi-final Round.—Mrs. Henry H. Burdick and A. F. Lattimer, Bronxville, defeated Miss Ellen Barry and Col. Walter A. Bethel, West Point, 6—2, 6—4.

Saving himself by brilliant spurts at critical times, Gustave F. Touchard successfully defended his holding of the Bronxville Challenge Cup by defeating George M. Church, his challenger, in five grueling sets, at 3—6, 4—6, 8—6, 8—6, 6—3, yesterday on the Bronxville Athletic Association courts.

Tie in Connecticut Golf.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 12.—There were ninety-two players in the qualifying rounds of the thirteenth annual State golf championship which opened here to-day. R. H. Hovey, the State champion, of Hartford, and S. J. Graham of Greenwich tied at 153 for the thirty-six holes, and will play off the tie to-morrow for the medal for the highest score in the qualifying round.

GOLF 'PROS' TIED IN OPEN TOURNEY

McDermott and Nicholls Cover Englewood Course Twice in 144 Strokes.

With remarkably low totals of 144 for thirty-six holes, J. J. McDermott of Atlantic City, the National title holder, and Gilbert Nicholls of Wilmington led the field at the end of the first half of the Metropolitan Golf Association open championship over the links of the Englewood Country Club yesterday. Closely pressing the leaders were James Thomson of Philadelphia and Oswald Kirkby, the Englewood amateur, with scores of 145.

The real glory of the competition belonged to Kirkby, who after a disappointing morning round, the result of having his ball land in an unplayable place while going to the twelfth hole, came back with a brilliant 68, the best of the day.

At the rate the leaders are going they will complete the seventy-two holes inside of 290, which was George Sargent's winning score in the National open on the same course two years ago. Sargent, by the way, got started badly, taking 82 for his first round. The scores:

Gilbert Nicholls, Wilmington, 144; J. J. McDermott, Atlantic City, 144; J. R. Thomson, Philadelphia, 145; *Oswald Kirkby, Englewood, 145; Jack Hobens, Englewood, 146; M. J. Brady, Wollaston, 147; W. SHERMAN GOLF LEADER.

Champion of American Advertisers Takes Low Score Gold Medal.

Special to The New York Times.

BRETTON WOODS, N. H., July 12.—Thomas M. Sherman of Yahnundasis, the champion of the American Golf Association of Advertising Interests, started out this year in the annual championship by duplicating his last year's performance on the first day by winning the gold medal offered in the qualification round with his card of 75. J. J. Hazen, Fox Hills; W. E. Conklin, Dunwoodie, and A. K. Oliver, Allegheny, tied for second gross score with 78 each. Another gold medal went to Miss Eleanor Freeman of Fox Hills, as she led the women golfers in their qualification with 106. John Shepard, Jr., of Providence won the low net score prize.

In the first round of match play in the first division, held this afternoon, T. M. Sherman, W. L. Crocker, J. J. Hazen, and A. H. Johnson reached the semi-finals. Play in all the other divisions starts to-morrow morning. The summary:

SUSPECTS STAY IN PRISON.

Justice Giegerich Rules That Disorderly Conduct Is a Crime.

Supreme Court Justice Giegerich dismissed yesterday the writs of habeas corpus sworn out by Louis Wold and Herman Knidler, who were convicted of disorderly conduct and sentenced to the Workhouse each for six months several weeks ago in a Magistrate's Court.

Both were arrested on a Thirty-fourth Street crosstown car on suspicion of being pickpockets. As they were not caught in the act, the charge of disorderly conduct was made against them. Their counsel, K. Henry Rosenberg, swore out the writs on the ground that disorderly conduct was not a crime, and that the men were being deprived of their liberty, contrary to the Constitution of the United Staes.

Justice Giegerich holds that disorderly conduct is a crime.

More Red Star Crews Strike.

ANTWERP, July 12.—The crews of the Red Star steamers in the Antwerp-Boston service joined the strike to-day. All the Red Star services are now affected.

REILLY FOULS STONEY.

Star Bout at Long Acre A. C. Ends in Second Round.

The star bout last night at the Long Acre Athletic Association, between Young Reilly and Young Stoney, was stopped in the second round when Stoney, who claimed a foul, refused to go on with the contest. His claim was a legitimate one, as Reilly, who was fighting a bit careless, landed foul on more than one occasion.

The bout gave every promise of being a good one, as the boys, who weighed about 105 pounds each, were evenly matched, and the first session was marked by some good boxing. Stoney started to do the forcing and worked both hands hard to the body, which soon told on Reilly, who was on the defensive during the period, and Stoney was entitled to the honors.

During the intermission Reilly's seconds instructed him to go out and mix matters, and the latter followed their instructions, but in doing so became wild and lost the bout. He began to pump his right to the stomach in the clinches, and soon was striking low. Stoney complained, but no heed was paid to his appeal, and after a deliberate foul he refused to continue and the bout came to a stop.

$20,000 FOR FIGHT IN LONDON.

Sporting Life Makes Offer for Wells-McFarland Bout.

E. McDonald, manager of Matt Wells, English lightweight champion, received a cablegram yesterday afternoon from the London Sporting Life offering a purse of $20,000 for a fight between Wells and Packy McFarland of Chicago in December. Sporting Life is probably acting for some London boxing club.

No Side Bet on Wolgast and Welsh.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 12.—Tom McCarey, who is to stage the Wolgast-Welsh fight here this Fall, has announced that he will forbid the posting of a $10,000 side bet between the fighters. McCarey says that he will do all he can to prevent the big gambling that is hurting the fighting game in this State and that the prohibition of the wager between the boxers in the title bout is his first step.

"I can't see that the bet would be different from ordinary gambling and I will not allow it," said the promoter yesterday.

Smith and Flynn at National.

To-night at the National Sporting Club will be fought one of the best heavyweight battles the city has seen in several years, if advance indications are carried out. "Jewey" Smith and "Porkey" Flynn are scheduled to go ten rounds, but there is every indication that the bout will end sooner, for each man has a terrific punch, and is a fighter of the whirlwind type. There will not be a dull moment from the time that the first bell rings until the finish comes, and the members who attend will get plenty of action for their money. In addition to two bouts between well-known little fellows, there will be two other heavyweight battles on the card, and there will be enough action for three ordinary clubs.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

Kid Black, said to be one of the most aggressive featherweights in the East, is going to tackle Frank Fleming, champion of Canada, in a ten-round bout at the Fairmont A. C. on Saturday night. Fleming's last appearance around here was in a bout with Black, and it was one the best scraps ever decided at the club in the Bronx. There will be two other ten-round bouts. Frank Pass will take on Jim Coffey and young Mickey McDonough will box with young Saylor.

The Brooklyn Beach Athletic Club will stage an international bantam-weight contest tonight when Jim Kendrick, representing Great Britain, will clash with Packey Hommey, an east side product with a wallop in both hands. Both boys are ready for the fray and each one has a host of followers who will be at the ringside to cheer on their efforts. Kendrick has a decision over young Wagner, and his recent battle with Champion Johnny Coulon stamps him as one of the most dangerous bantams in the business. Battling Hommey, a brother of Packey, will meet young Sheppard in the semi-final of six rounds.

GOVERNOR CHECKS BETTING.

Indianapolis Harness Horse Racing Restricted on Gambling End.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 12.—The bookmakers' stalls were deserted this afternoon while the second day's card of the Grand Circuit racing meet in this city was on, by the order of Gov. Marshall.

Yesterday the space under the big grandstand at the State Fair Grounds, where the stalls were located, was thronged with a crowd eager to get their money down on their choices, but to-day it was quiet, and what betting there was was done in front of the grandstand in private pools. Considerable money changed hands in this way, but it is said the amount was not to be compared with the betting of yesterday.

The track to-day was good and the fastest mile of the season was recorded when Zombrewer, driven by Snow, registered 2:04¼ in the second heat of the 2:09 pace, the feature event of the day. She took the third heat a quarter of a second slower, and was not pushed until right at the finish, when Sir R. pulled up and lost the heat only by a neck.

All the races to-day went in straight heats, and the only real big surprise on the card was the defeat of the veteran Geers's Akar by Zombrewer in the feature race. Many had picked the Memphis horse to win the big stake, but the best he could do was to take third money. The summary:

First Race.—2:18 trot; best three in five; purse $1,000.

Chicago Racing Without Betting.

CHICAGO, July 12.—Chicago's first race meeting in seven years, which is scheduled to open at the historic Hawthorne track on Saturday and to continue for a fortnight, will be held without betting. The Sheriff last night declared that any one attempting to bet, or any one receiving a wager, would be arrested, and that seventy-five deputies would guard against gambling.

Another Chess Match Drawn.

COLOGNE, July 12.—Carl Schlechter and Dr. S. Tarrasch, now engaged at the local club in this city in a match of seven games up, drew the sixth game of the contest, thereby remaining on even terms, the score now reading Schlechter 1, Tarrasch 1, drawn 4.

PUBLISHER INDICTED FOR CHEATING WOMEN

E. G. Lewis Is Charged with Obtaining Millions by Selling Unsecured Bonds.

ACCUSES FEDERAL OFFICIALS

Says They Have Sought to Destroy Him and That His Trial Will Draw 25,000 Women.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 12.—E. G. Lewis, until recently publisher of a number of magazines and promoter of enterprises, was indicted by a special Grand Jury in the United States District Court to-day on charges of fraudulent use of the mails.

It is charged in the indictment that by the debenture plan Lewis endeavored to recover, in exchange for long-time debenture papers, securities of his different companies and obligations, most of which were due at early dates, amounting to $7,160,000. Lewis's bond was fixed at $5,000.

The indictment, containing twelve counts, covers four proposals which Lewis laid before the public, and in which he is alleged to have obtained several million dollars by misleading statements circulated through the mails.

It is charged that Lewis, through misrepresentations with intent to defraud, sold unsecured notes on the Woman's Magazine building and the Woman's National Daily building in the University City, sold similar notes of the University Heights Realty and Development Company, operated a "debenture scheme," and misrepresented the condition of the Lewis Publishing Company in selling stock in the concern.

Lewis said that he may try to get his trial set for the week of Oct. 23, concurrently with the annual convention of the American Women's League, of which he was the founder.

"I want everybody to hear everything," Lewis said, "and I believe, if properly advertised, my trial would draw 25,000 more women."

To the newspaper reporters at the Marshal's office Lewis gave a long typewritten statement, giving his version of what he termed "the unremitting warfare of destruction kept up incessantly by certain postal officials against the so-called Lewis enterprises."

He said that 120 different pamphlets and circulars had been printed at public expense and sent broadcast to those interested in his institutions, characterizing them as frauds. Post Office Inspectors, he said, have "threatened, misled, intimidated, and urged" those persons to make some sort of a complaint against him. The result, he said, was that his credit had been destroyed and his business ruined, with losses exceeding $3,000,000. He thus replied to the various charges in the indictments:

"1. The sale of unsecured Lewis Publishing Company notes. No pretense was made that they were secured.

"2. The sale of an over issue of real estate mortgage notes. Each note was certified by a title company, and this charge is knowingly false.

"3. The sale of debentures. The funds from these were used for the purpose for which they were sold.

"4. That the publishing company stock was worthless. The postal officials made it worthless, if that is so."

BANTAMS HOLD THE STAGE.

Young Wagner and McGovern Win in Ten-Round Bouts.

Bantams held forth last night at the Twentieth Century Athletic Club in St. Nicholas Rink, four of the five bouts being between boys supposed to scale in at less than 116 pounds.

In the first of the principal attractions young Wagner of New York beat Young Britt of Baltimore, and in the concluding bout Philly McGovern had the better of his go with Packey Hommey, who failed to take advantage of the winner's poor condition.

It was a long drawn out show with little of interest except several rounds of the McGovern-Hommey bout.

McGovern was well coached and timed his ralleys when there was little time left to a round. His condition was ridiculous, and he probably weighed nearer 130 than 116 pounds. Hommey forced the pace throughout, but his blows had no force and if McGovern had been in any kind of shape he would probably have won the bout before it had gone very far.

As it was he all but scored a knockout in the last round when he flattened Hommey with a straight right on the jaw. Hommey got up groggy and managed to mess around and stay the round out.

WARD LINE STRIKE ON AGAIN.

Illness of General Manager Prevented Proposed Conference.

The strike of the firemen against the Ward Line, which was suspended pending a conference which was to take place yesterday, was declared on again last night at a meeting of the Marine Firemen's Union.

When the union committee called to see A. C. Smith, general manager of the line, they found he was too ill to go to his office. Assistant Manager W. D. Macy suggested that the committee wait a day or two, but H. P. Griffin, Chairman of the committee, said he would not dare take that answer to the men, and proposed that Mr. Macy attend last night's meeting.

Mr. Macy at the meeting submitted a temporary compromise plan, which the meeting would not agree to. Other demands were made which he said he could not undertake to accede to, and then he went away.

WILSON CONDEMNS RUSSIA.

No Divergence Among Patriotic Americans, He Says, on Passport Question.

Gov. Woodrow Wilson has sent the following letter to Herman Bernstein regarding his statement that Russia is violating her treaty obligations toward the United States and that the Russian Ministry of the Interior has been hoodwinking the State Department in Washington for years in regard to the passport question:

> State of New Jersey,
> Executive Department.
>
> I do not see how there can be any divergence of feeling among patriotic Americans concerning the situation in Russia with regard to the religious discriminations made by the Russian Government. I haven't had time to give the matter any detailed consideration. The principle involved admits of no argument. Cordially and sincerely yours,

IRON AND STEEL NOTES.

Indications Are for Bigger Business in Coming Half Year in Former Trade.

Commenting on general conditions in the trade, The Iron Age says:

> Conditions continue to warrant the belief that the volume of business in the iron trade for the coming six months will show a considerable gain over the bookings of the first half of the year. The steel mills in the Pittsburg and Youngstown districts are now operating as well as in June, or to between 70 and 75 per cent. of their capacity. The United States Steel Corporation is this week running slightly over 67 per cent. of its entire steel ingot capacity, and this rate is shortly expected to be increased.
>
> The week shows excellent bookings for finished products. Orders were placed in Chicago for 13,000 tons of rails while contracts for structural material exceeded 20,000 tons. The week's awards in structural material in New York comprised about 13,000 tons.
>
> The Eastern Pig Iron Association reports a heavier decrease in June in stocks of pig iron held by the blast furnaces than in any previous month this year.

The Iron Trade Review says:

> Owing to the improved demand for finished materials, the mills have been resuming rapidly since the Fourth of July, especially those of the Steel Corporation, whose business is assisted to a greater extent than the independents by foreign demand. Following sales of about 20,000 tons in the Mahoning Valley, at the very low prices of $12.65 and $12.75 valley, heavy inquiry has appeared amounting to nearly 75,000 tons, and some tonnage has been disposed of at slightly better than $13 valley. The Republic Iron and Steel Company, which recently completed an open hearth plant in the Youngstown district, is calling for a large tonnage.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following foreign trade opportunities. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to:

7,002. ARMY SHOES.—Consul General Peter A. Jay of Cairo, Egypt, reports that bids are called for furnishing 33,150 pairs of boots to the Egyptian Government for the use of the army during the years 1912, 1913, and 1914. Tenders must be submitted to the Financial Secretary, War Office, Cairo, before Aug. 1, 1911, on stamped paper, and should be in sealed envelopes marked "Tenders for the supply of boots to the Egyptian War Office, during the years 1912, 1913, and 1914." Quotations should be made in current Egyptian money per pair of boots.

7,003. MATCH PRODUCING MACHINERY AND COPPER SULPHATE.—An American Consul in a European country reports that a local Government official has asked to be supplied with catalogues and prices of most modern American match-producing machines. The Consul also writes that the annual consumption of copper sulphate in the country in question exceeds 250 tons. The sulphate must be 98 per cent pure.

7,004. AMERICAN GOODS FOR THE FAR EAST.—A business firm in the Far East writes that it would like to communicate with American firms who desire to export their goods to Manchuria. The firm would like to make arrangements with an American commission house to act as its buying agent for the following lines: Lace curtains, down-quilt table covers, art serge, winter curtains, gimps and cords, fringes, tapestries, chenilles, blind materials, art muslins, curtain loops, moquettes, cretonnes, cotton and linen ticks, plain and figured velvets, plush, buttons, and studs, linen table covers, and napkins, carpets, rugs, squares, mats, and blankets, leather and imitation cloth, linoleums, pictures and engravings, toilet papers, carpet felt, carpet thread, hessian cloth, horsehair, chair webbings, bentwood chairs, furniture of all kinds, copper chair springs, &c.

7,005. BIDS FOR BOILERS AND MACHINERY.—Consul General Alfred Winslow of Valparaiso, Chile, reports that the Chilean Government has asked for bids for the machinery and boilers for a central electric power plant at the Talcahuano Navy Yard. Bids will be received until Aug. 11.

7,006. AMERICAN CLOTH.—Communication from a business house in the Near East states that it would like to get in touch with American manufacturers of certain grades of cloth.

7,007. CONSTRUCTION OF HOTEL.—Consul General Thomas Sammons of Yokohama calls attention to the construction of a new hotel to be erected at Tokio at a cost of $1,000,000 gold, reference to which was made in Daily Consular and Trade Reports for March 24, 1911. The manager of the new project desires the names of American construction companies that might consider a contract for building this hotel.

7,008. MACHINERY.—A foreign business firm, with offices in the United States, writes that it is in the market for machinery for manufacturing wire mattresses, shot, and paper bags in a South American country. Estimates of cost comprising the complete installation of each of these outfits are desired.

7,009. AMERICAN LEATHER.—An American Consul in Italy reports that a business house in his district is in the market for leather adapted for the manufacture of furniture and carriage and automobile tops.

DUNPHY ASKS FOR A WRIT.

Counsel Says He Was Convicted on Vituperation Alone, and No Evidence.

Clark L. Jordan, counsel for Arthur A. Dunphy, who was convicted last month of having obtained $15,000 from the Anglo-South American Bank by false representations, appeared before Justice Lehman in the Supreme Court yesterday and asked for a certificate of reasonable doubt.

Mr. Jordan says in his brief that there was no evidence in the case to show that Dunphy had been guilty of any wrong act, and that Assistant District Attorney McGuire, who appeared for the prosecution, quarreled with the witnesses and attempted to impeach them "by an examination unparalleled in the history of trials in this State." The District Attorney, he asserted, repeatedly used such phrases as "Look me in the eye and tell me the truth," and "Is that the absolute truth?"

"It is impossible," continues Mr. Jordan, "to realize the enormity of the errors in this case without reading the entire record. The summation of the Assistant District Attorney, which entirely ignored the evidence and is a tirade against the defendant based solely on the ground that the bank had lost the amount loaned by it, was such an abuse of the privilege of the law officers of the county that a reversal of the judgment should be had for that alone. Without evidence the defendant was called a thief and was accused of having the bank's money in his 'wicked pocket.' It was intemperate, it was vicious, and it was untrue."

In his answer to these allegation District Attorney Whitman says:

"It must be borne in mind that the defendant did not deny a word of the testimony. It seems to the writer, in view of the circumstances, that the jury had no option except to convict. That being the case, it is obvious that nothing that the District Attorney said could have influenced the verdict."

Justice Lehman reserved decision on the application.

Shuberts to Produce "Love in Pawn."

"Love in Pawn," a new operetta by Engel and Horst, with music by Z. M. Ziehrer, will be produced by the Shuberts this week in preparation for a New York engagement in the Fall. In the German the piece was called "Der Schaetzmeister." The American adaptation has been made by Howard Jacot. The cast includes Lillian Wiggins, Oscar Schwarz, Melissa Ten Eyck, Joseph Pepe, Mae Dealy, Harold Roby, Milbury Ryder, C. von Norman, Al Cutler, Olga Obry, James Dealy, and Al Wilder.

Left on bases—New York, 11; Pittsburg, 7. Struck out—By Marquard, 9; by Steele, 1. Bases on balls—Off Marquard, 3; off Hendrix, 5; off Steele, 2. Hit by pitchers—By Steele, 1, (Devore.) Hits—Off Hendrix, 0 in 2-3 inning, (at bat 2;) off Steele, 8 in 7 1-3 innings, (at bat 24;) off Ferry, 1 in 1-3 inning, (at bat 3.) Umpires—Messrs. Frary and O'Day. Time of game—Two hours and sixteen minutes.

The Giants took a new lease on life yesterday and fought the Pirates tooth and nail at the Polo Grounds until they beat them out in the ninth inning by a score of 4 to 3. Rube Marquard carried the team through a few rocky erratic periods during the clash, and although he was hammered savagely at times he showed that he is at present about the only pitcher of the McGraw staff who can be relied upon to go in and pull out a victory.

The Giants were handed two perfectly good runs in the first inning through the goodness of heart of Claude Hendrix. Claude had no idea where the plate was and distributed five passes in a bunch and forced in two runs. Another run in the fifth inning gave the Giants a three tally lead, which they gripped tightly until the heavy artillery of the Pirates got intimate with Marquard's service in the sixth inning. Fred Clarke's single and home-run drives into the outfield stands by Wagner and Miller tied the score. In the last half of the ninth Devore's single, Doyle's sacrifice, and Murray's wee grounder, which Wagner played to the plate, scored Devore and won the game.

It was the biggest wrangling match that the umpires have encountered at the Polo Grounds this year. Umpire Frary behind the bat and O'Day on the bases were continually in hot water, and their verdicts inflamed both Pirates and Giants to oratorical conflagrations. Bobby Byrne objected to being called out on strikes in the third inning and threw his bat away in disgust. He kicked like a mule, and intimated that Frary's eyesight was as clear as ground glass. He was put out of the game, and took his own sweet time about making his exit, Frary holding his chronometer on him while Byrne took the extreme count. Merkle was caught napping off first base in the third inning, O'Day waving him out. McGraw immediately rose 1,000 feet in the air. These are Mac's very words: "You big fat-head, he was safe by a whole minute." Later Mr. McGraw substituted the word mutton-head for fat-head, but as O'Day understood the comment, both terms conveyed the same meaning. He exiled McGraw to the darkest corner of the bench and his chatter was stilled.

About the most thoroughly disgusted man in the whole world at 6:15 last evening was Gibson, the Pirate catcher. At precisely that moment Red Murray chopped a grounder to Hans Wagner and Devore, camping at third, started for home. The Dutchman shot the ball to Gibson, who sat right down on Josh as he slid under him. "Safe," yelled Umpire Frary. Gibson threw away his glove, mask and chest-protector and looked at Frary in profane silence. All through the game there was kicking of one kind or another. President Lynch of the National League saw the conflict. No one discovered him congratulating the umpires after the game.

Pittsburg had two or three golden opportunities to take the game, but failed to grasp the chances. Hendrix is the kindest pitcher the Giants have met in some time After Devore skied to Wilson, Doyle walked. So did Snodgrass. They worked a double steal, Snodgrass jumping into second about the same time as Gibson's throw. O'Day's verdict caused a big holler. Murray flied to Wilson. Merkle got a pass and filled the bases. This is a parade, not a ball game.

Hendrix's liberality was unbounded. Santa Claus-like he let Bridwell walk and forced Doyle in with a run. Fletcher also proved a good pedestrian, and he pushed Snodgrass in. Snodgrass was in a trance and almost made a play that would have made him world famous. Instead of walking down the third base path, he walked out on the grass and didn't think it necessary to go near the home plate at all. He walked behind the umpire and was on his way to the bench as if he didn't want the Hendrix gift at all. Snodgrass hadn't gone very far from the bench before every one of the 6,000 souls arose with a mighty shout and told him to pinch himself and wake up. Then he walked back and touched the plate. Another gigantic kick by Pittsburg. They claimed he forfeited his right to score when he walked to the bench, completely ignoring the plate. Elmer Steele then succeeded Hendrix and Meyers grounded out, Wagner to Hunter.

In the second inning Marquard started to pitch as if he was out for a world's strike-out record. He fanned Miller, Hunter, and Wilson in the second, and Steele, Byrne, and Leach in the third inning. Before the game was over he struck out nine of the Buccaneers. Larry Doyle beat out a grounder to first in the fifth inning. Snodgrass sacrificed Wagner, almost caught Doyle napping off second a couple of times, and he was finally squelched sliding to third. Murray walked and stole second, scoring on Merkle's single to the left garden.

It was in the fifth that Marquard showed signs of weakening, and Pittsburg missed a good chance to get some runs. Wilson doubled to centre and Gibson flied to Murray. Steele singled to centre and Wilson started for home. Snodgrass threw the ball in and Meyers nipped the runner at the plate. McKechnie then singled to right, Leach popped a fly to short centre field, and Snodgrass made a great catch after a long run and saved the day.

Clarke opened the sixth with a single through short. Wagner drove a home run into the right field stand, scoring Clarke ahead of him. Miller then sent a homer into the left field stand. Marquard settled down and shut off any more such work. Devore singled in the ninth and Doyle sacrificed him to second. Wagner booted a grounder from Snodgrass, Murray hit to Wagner, who threw the ball to Gibson to get Devore. Josh slid in and was adjudged safe.

STEPPING FORWARD AGAIN.

Back to second place again, tied with the Phillies.

"Red" Murray made another one of those close-to-the-carpet catches in the eighth, getting Leach's liner out of the grass and tumbling on his ear, but sticking close to the ball.

Richard de Marquise is his right name. The Marquard was originally an error, and it stuck.

"Git 'em," "Fight 'em," and "Nobody out" constitute the sum total of Arlie Latham's grandfatherly advice.

Larry Doyle has recovered his batting eye. Joy. Let the same kind of recuperation spread through the team.

Meyers made a great catch of Wagner's foul fly near the stand in the seventh, and thereby put the taboo on an almost sure Pirate run, for Clarke was at second waiting for Hans to crack the fence.

The steel girders to support the second deck of the new stand are being placed. Looks like a new skyscraper.

The umpires yesterday were about as popular as mumps in a girls' boarding school.

Umpire Frary issued one note of warning. "Keep on kicking and I'll put you all out of the game." What then, rain checks? Or riot?

Reds Knock Burns Out of Box.

PHILADELPHIA, July 12.—Cincinnati hit Burns's delivery hard to-day, and by knocking him off the rubber in four innings, won the game, 6 to 4. Luderus's home-run drive was one of the longest ever seen at the park. Umpire Finneran, who was assaulted by Outfielder Magee last Monday, was able to officiate to-day on the bases. Score:

Cardinals Win; Second Game Tie.

BOSTON, July 12.—St. Louis won the first game this afternoon, 13 to 6, by hard hitting, but Boston made an uphill fight in the second, and tied the score in the ninth inning, 6 to 6, the contest being called at the end of the tenth without either team making an additional run. The batting of Evans, Mowrey, and Oakes were features of the first game, and in the second two throws to the plate by Ellis for putouts cut off that number of runs. Herzog played brilliantly. Semi-Professional Baseball.

There promises to be a great game this afternoon at Olympic Field, 136th Street and Fifth Avenue, where the crack Lincoln Giants will take on the fast Poughkeepsie team. It will be ladies' day, and hence Manager McMahon has arranged this big attraction. The Lincolns have been beating everything, and to keep up their great streak McMahon will send Redding and Santop in the points. Jack Doescher will pitch for the visitors. Play will be called at 4 o'clock.

The New York Fire Laddies, conquerors of the Boston Firemen, will be the attraction next Sunday at McNulty Field, 149th Street and Eighth Avenue, where they will line up against Tom Durkin's McNulty team, now managed by Eddie Doyle. Either Spillane or Gill will pitch for the firemen, with Smith behind the bat. The McNultys will depend on Slocum and Seamon. In the preliminary conflict the Nyacks will tackle the West Harlems.

Another strong double bill is offered at Lenox Oval, 145th Street and Lenox Avenue, for Sunday. In the first game at 1:45 the teams of the St. Charles and Lady of Lourdes Clubs will meet. The second game will see the strong Pittsfield Club in action with the Metropolitans. The Pittsfield squad will have Larry Hererfer or Pfanmiller in the box. Schacht will pitch for the Mets. The grandstand at Lenox Oval has been covered so that the fans will not have to sit in the sun.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, July 12.—The combination of Roy Hartzell's stick work and Ray Caldwell's strong right arm proved too much for the tail-end Brownies in the second game of the series here this afternoon, and the Yankees chalked up an easy victory over Rhody Wallace's boys. Hard hitting in the third inning chased a quartet of Yankee runners around the circuit, and this was enough to settle the verdict, but the visitors turned in two more exhibitions of solid slamming with some Brownie miscues in the seventh and eighth innings and made the victory a walkover. The tailenders barely escaped a whitwash, Schweitzer's double with two out in the eighth inning chasing the Brown's pair of runs. The score was 12 to 2.

The old saying that chickens come home to roost was conclusively proved by Hartzell. The former Brownie, who figured in the trade for Austin and Laporte last Winter, has shown up strongly in all his games here this season, but in to-day's game he far outdistanced all his previous efforts. For timely stick work Hartzell's work to-day outclassed anything shown this season at Sportsman's Park. He figured in each of the three batting rallies by his team and incidentally played a prominent part in the scoring of nine New York runs. Hartzell started the Yankees on their way to an easy victory in the third inning. With two out and the bases covered with anxious Yankees, Hartzell pushed out a long double to right field which cleared the sacks. He followed the trio to the bench a moment later when Cree singled to left.

In the seventh Hartzell found the corners again populated, and his sacrifice fly to Shotten scored Blair. But it was not until the eighth that the ex-Brownie delivered his master stroke. Finding the bases filled a third time, Hartzell bumped the pill into the right field bleachers and added four more runs to his team's score. The small crowd of rooters gave Hartzell an ovation such as he never received in his St. Louis days as he followed Caldwell, Daniels, and Wolter across the place in the eighth inning.

While Hartzell was pushing New York's score upward Caldwell was mowing down the Brownies with almost faultless precision. In all only three hits were secured off the slim flinger, and two of these did not arrive until the eighth inning. In the first seven innings Austin alone was able to break into the hit column, the former Yankee getting a short double to left field in the sixth inning. Austin and Shotten, who reached second in the first inning on a pass and a steal, were the only Brownies to reach that station up to the eighth inning, and neither moved along to third base. Schweitzer's double with two out in the eighth inning, following a pass and a scratch single, saved the Browns from a shut-out. Besides showing magnificent form in the box, Caldwell led his team with the stick, getting a trio of singles in four times at bat.

Barney Pelty, the star server of the Wallace clan, was the easiest kind of a proposition for the Yankees, being reached for no less than fifteen hits, but he was allowed to stay to the finish. Every member of the visiting team succeeded in breaking into the hit column at least once.

The game served to introduce to major league society another college star, Burke Magner, former Captain of the Cornell University team. Although his regular position is short stop, Magner played to-day at second base in place of Earl Gardner, who is at the bedside of his sick father at Sparta, Ill. Magner accepted three chances without an error, got one safe hit and a sacrifice.

The Yankees picked up four runs in the third inning. Caldwell beat out a hit to Black, Daniels singled to right, and Wolter walked, filling the bases. Hartzell's double to right field cleared the corners, and Roy scored on Cree's single to right. In the seventh Chase doubled to left and beat the throw to third when Magner bunted. Blair singled to right, scoring Chase, and when Schweitzer fumbled the ball Magner also scored. Caldwell flied out, Daniels singled to right, and Wolter beat out a drive off Pelty's glove, filling the bases. Hartzell's long fly to Shotten scored Blair.

After two Yankees had been retired in the eighth inning Blair and Caldwell pushed singles into right field. Daniels hit to Pelty, but Black dropped the ball and the bases were full. Wolter's slam to left field scored Blair, but left the corners still occupied. Hartzell's smash into the right field bleachers cleared the bases.

With the score 12 to 0 against them the Browns got their two runs in the eighth inning. With one out, Pelty beat out a slow roller and went to second on a passed ball. Shotten walked. Austin lined to Cree for the second out, and then Schweitzer unloaded his double into right field, scoring Pelty and Shotten.

Providence Takes Last Game of Series from Newark.

Newark lost the final game of a series to Providence in Newark yesterday by the score of 4 to 3. "Iron Man" McGinnity made a desperate effort to make it three straight over the visitors. In the eighth inning, with a man on second and third and none out, the locals let a fine chance slip away for victory. Although they outbatted and outplayed the Providence team, they couldn't get their bingles when they meant runs. Providence had their four runs across before Newark scored. In the fourth the locals got two men across and their other tally came in the fifth. The score:

SUPERBAS CHECK CUBS IN FLAG RACE

Chicago Unable to Overcome Three-Run Lead Brooklyn Obtains in First Inning.

The reconstructed Cub machine, which is moving along with sufficient smoothness to head the dizzy parade to Penantville, slipped a cog at Washington Park yesterday, and the second game of the present series went to the Superbas by the score of 5 to 3. A bad start was responsible for the trimming—a pass, a pair of hits and a brace of errors in the opening chapter resulting in three runs—and this lead kept the Superbas from falling behind at any stage. The Cubs threatened to rally in the closing inning, which was started with a pair of triples to the fence, but the next three batsmen went out in order.

Ruelbach was far from being the puzzle to the Superbas that he has been in the past, but he pitched well enough to get at least an even break on the runs scored against him if he had been accorded the air-tight support that Knetzer received. Both boxmen succeeded in keeping the hits well scattered, no more than two coming in any one inning, and the runs didn't trickle across for either team very fast after the Cubs' loose playing had helped the Superbas to their trio of markers in the opening chapter. The Chicago wallops were harder than those of the Superbas, four being good for extra bases, and the Cubs had one or more on bases in eight of the nine innings, but they could not reach Knetzer at opportune times.

Jimmy Sheckard worked Knetzer for a pass in the first inning and followed up with the only steal of the game, but he failed to reach the terminal. Schulte and Hofman popped out and Heinie Zimmerman's bid for a triple was turned into an out by Burch, who made a remarkable running catch in deep left centre field.

Here comes the engine trouble that caused the Cub machine to skid. Ruelbach handed Burch his only gift of the afternoon, and when Jimmy Doyle moved up for a bunt Jake Daubert sizzled one past third base for a single. Zach Wheat's hoist dropped safely behind second base, and Goode in his anxiety to hold Burch on third, where Al seemed satisfied to remain, hustled the ball to the plate. Archer had to go out of positon to block the ball and when it bounded poorly Burch dusted across. Daubert moved up to third and Wheat to second on the error. Hummel's grounder spattered around Joe Tinker's fingers and then rolled up his arm while Daubert was racing home. Coulson followed with another grounder to Tinker and Joe sent the ball around on the double-play route instead of trying to get Wheat at the plate. Hummel was forced at second, but Coulson beat Zimmerman's peg to Hofman and Zach chalked up another Superba run. Tooley ended the inning by striking out.

With all this excitement out of their systems both teams settled down and played fine ball during the remainder of the game. The Cubs picked up a run in their half of the second inning. Doyle opened with a drive to the centre field fence for two cushions and Tinker's out, Daubert to Knetzer, put him on third. Goode dropped a Texas leaguer between Hummel and Burch and Doyle counted. Brooklyn went down in order in the second, the Cubs came back for another run in the third. Sheckard waited for another pass and Schulte's single to right pushed him along to second. Hofman's sacrifice advanced both runners and Sheckard scored while Tooley was throwing Heine Zimmerman out at first base. Schulte was left on third when Doyle popped a foul to Daubert.

Brooklyn got the run back in the same inning on Burch's double to left, Daubert's sacrifice and Wheat's drive, which had too much tabasco for Doyle. A double play helped the Superbas in check in the fourth inning and the Cubs received simlar treatment in the seventh. The Superbas threatened to score in the seventh when Zimmerman opened with a single to left and got two extra bases on Sheckard's error, but Bergen and Knetzer were easy and Burch went out on a pretty stop by Doyle.

The Superbas picked up their closing counter in the eighth inning on Daubert's triple to left and Wheat's single, which took a high bound past Doyle. Successive triples by Goode and Archer gave the Cubs their last run in the ninth inning. Archer was held on third base while the side was retired, a great throw by Coulson driving Jimmy back when he thought of scoring on Sheckard's fly to right field.

The batting of Goode, who made a single, a double and a triple, catches by Hofman and Burch, Daubert's fielding and a stop by Doyle featured the game. Hummel was back at second base after his three days' suspension for arguing with Umpire Frary in Friday's game. The score:

PROGRESS IN STEEL TRADE

Money Market Shows Firmer Tone—Banks Have Heavy Cash Payments to Provide Again This Week.

Very little business was done on the Stock Exchange yesterday, and the change in prices so far as the majority of the active stocks were concerned was small, though the general movement was downward. Some of the southern stocks, among them Atlantic Coast Line, Louisville & Nashville, and Southern Railway common, were stronger than most others, and closed with net gains. American Tobacco preferred rose 1⅜, and the company's 6 per cent. bonds made a net advance of over a point. Among the less active issues declines and advances were more evenly balanced than among the stocks which made up the bulk of the transactions. The commodity markets were irregular, cotton closing lower in all options, while wheat at the end of the day was up a fraction, and corn showed a gain of about 1⅛ cents a bushel. The movement in the latter, though apparently the outcome of active speculation in the grain markets, was prompted in some measure by the belief that still more rain is needed to carry this crop safely forward.

Steel trade affairs seem to be moving in entire keeping with the era of betterment, which began over a month ago with the changes in prices which had the effect of stimulating consumption even more rapidly than had been generally expected. Yesterday's information bearing on the steel trade served the double purpose of recording further improvement and of emphasizing the need on the part of steel companies for larger orders than those which were coming to hand the month before last. The statement of the Lackawanna Steel Company for the second quarter of the year showed yesterday net income of $651,000, which was a decrease compared with the corresponding quarter of the previous year of $1,010,000. This illustrates the relatively small business done by the steel companies during the second quarter, particularly April and May, since when there has been much improvement as the general steel trade reports have shown. The Iron Age says in its weekly review that conditions continue to warrant the belief that the volume of business during the second half of the year will show a considerable gain over the bookings for the first half. The usual July shut-downs have been shortened, which would indicate increased demand from consumers even if other evidence of this increase were lacking.

A slightly firmer tone was noted in the money market yesterday, but the movement will have to go considerably further before it affords much satisfaction to lenders, who have been forced for many weeks to accept rates which to them have appeared excessively low. A considerable sum remains to be paid to the Treasury before the end of the week in payment of Panama bond subscriptions, and these payments and those which have already been made since the publication of the bank figures last Saturday suggest a further large draught on the cash holdings at this centre. How far this loss will be offset by receipts of cash from other quarters cannot be determined until later in the week.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

J. W. Jay of New York has applied for membership on the Cotton Exchange.

Stock Exchange has admitted to the list Imperial Chinese government, J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., National City Bank, and First National Bank full paid receipts for 5 per cent. Hukuang Railways loan of 1911, and interest from June 15.

The $5,000,000 5 per cent. bonds of the Union Oil Company of California, recently offered by Hallgarten & Co. and William Salomon & Co., have all been sold.

The annual dividend paid by the New York Realty Owners has been increased from 5 to 5½ per cent.

Williams, McConnell & Coleman will receive subscriptions for $1,500,000 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of the Federal Heater Company, a merger of a number of manufacturers of heating apparatus. The stock is being offered at par, with a bonus of 10 per cent. in common stock. The company has no bonds or other debts.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

As a whole the market on the Consolidated Exchange did not present much change from the condition of comparative apathy which has characterized it recently. Commission houses continued to report a good business in odd lots, this being one of the best features about the dealings. Transactions took place in a number of stocks of which no sales were reported on the New York Stock Exchange. In this class were Pacific Mail and Western Union.

The market was firm. Spanish pig lead was unchanged at £13 7s 6d. Cleveland warrants were 1½d higher, at 46s 10½d. Spelter was unchanged at £25. Best selected copper was [illegible], unchanged.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Trading in Somewhat Better Volume, with Substantial Declines in Some Issues.

COBALT SHARES SELL OFF

La Rose and Nipissing Make New Low Records for the Year—In Bond List Losses Predominate.

Curb trading was in somewhat better volume yesterday, though irregular. American Tobacco, after opening at 397, sold off to 391 and closed at 393½ after sales of 80 shares. Butte Coalition sold 400 shares from 18¾ to 18½. Giroux sold off from 6⅜ to 6¼, and Greene-Cananea from 7¼ to 7⅛ on transactions of 1,400 shares. Inspiration rose from 8¾ to 8⅞ on sales of 1,000 shares. La Rose and Nipissing, both selling ex-dividend, made new low records for the year, the former at 4⅛ and the latter at 9⅞. Losses predominated in the bond list. Hudson and Manhattan 4½s sold off from 79 to 78¾ and closed at 78⅞ on sales of $171,000. Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation 4s sold off from 92⅞ to 92¾. Southern Bell 5s sold off from 99⅞ to 99¾, and Chicago Elevated 5s rose from 98⅜ to 98 7-16.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Prices Improve in London—Heavy Closing on Paris Bourse.

LONDON, July 12.—Money was in abundant supply to-day, and discounts were weak.

On the Stock Exchange cheap money induced a broadening demand for home rails, coppers, and foreign bonds at higher quotations. Consols improved 3-16, and the new Persian loan sold at a premium of ¼ to ⅜. Rubber shares reacted on profit-taking.

The market for American securities opened steady and advanced under the lead of the Pacific stocks. The improvement was lost later on New York offerings, and the closing tone was easy.

Money, 1 per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 1⅞ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for three months' bills is 2 per cent.

Gold premiums are quoted at Madrid 8.25, and at Lisbon 8.

India Council bills were allotted to-day 1s. 4 1-32d.

PARIS, July 12.—The Bourse opened firm to-day, but the close was heavy.

Three per cent. rentes, 94f. 65c. for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f. 29½c. for checks.

BERLIN, July 12.—The tone of the Boerse was steady to-day, with trading quiet.

Exchange on London, 20 marks 47 pfennigs for checks.

Money, 2 per cent.

Private rate of discount, 2⅜ per cent.

PLANS FOR WESTERN PACIFIC.

It Is Admitted They Include Traffic Agreement with Harriman System.

Bankers concerned in the financing of the Western Pacific confirmed a report yesterday that negotiations have been pending for a traffic arrangement with the Harriman lines. The Western terminus of the Harriman system is at Ogden, from which point it gets into San Francisco over the Central Pacific, which is controlled by the Union Pacific through its ownership of the Southern Pacific.

The Western Pacific was built by the Goulds to give the Denver & Rio Grande access to San Francisco, the two roads connecting at Salt Lake City. Both the Union Pacific and Denver & Rio Grande have lines from Salt Lake to Ogden, so that no construction would be necessary to link the Western Pacific with the Harriman system. The Western Pacific was opened in December, 1909, although passenger service was not inaugurated until last August.

The Denver & Rio Grande is responsible for any part of the interest on the Western Pacific's bonds which is not earned by the new line. It was because of this obligation that the Denver Directors decided to pass the preferred dividend a few weeks ago.

No agreement has yet been made by the Gould and Harriman boards and it is not certain that the present negotiations will succeed. The position of the new road would be greatly strengthened by the suggested arrangement, which by increasing the traffic over the Western Pacific would increase its ability to provide for its own fixed charges.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Talk is heard in some quarters of the possibility that the plan for the segregation of the Union Pacific's investment assets from the railroad proper will be taken up again for discussion by the Directors. So far as appears from inquiries made yesterday, this talk has been going on among people outside of the management of the road and not at all among the Directors themselves. Four years ago a committee was named to consider this question, but it never made a report and nothing ever came of the proposal. It has remained quiescent ever since and there seems to be no present basis for the revival of the discussion of the possible adoption of such a segregation plan by the Union Pacific.

Losses in Porcupine District.

Few speculators or investors who have bought shares in the one hundred or so Porcupine companies have any reason to be worried by the fire which has swept over that section, since most of the stocks have been sold on prospects, and the fire which swept over their claims ought to facilitate the work of the promoters when they get ready to start mining. A broker who returned from the district a few days ago reported that fires were raging then and that the dry condition of the woods made it a dangerous place to stay in. He lamented particularly the loss in South Porcupine, which showed promise of developing into a fair-sized city. The fire is likely to cause a loss to the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway, which has been building into the Porcupine district.

Mexican Losses.

According to the President of the National Railways of Mexico, who is in New York, the losses suffered by various business interests during the revolution turn out to be less serious than had been supposed. The railroads suffered chiefly through the destruction of bridges and the consequent interruption of traffic. The revolutionists, however, chose the quiet season before Summer planting for most of their activities and thereby caused as small a loss to agriculture as possible. With the ending of hostilities business has begun to recover and the railroads are now carrying more traffic than a year ago. The Southern Pacific officials estimated a few weeks ago that their property loss as a result of the fighting would not exceed $500,000. The rebels usually destroyed communication by burning wooden bridges, which accomplished the desired result at the smallest expense to the railroads.

Lackawanna Steel's Quarter.

Declines in the convertible bonds of the Lackawanna Steel Company last week were accompanied by rumors that the quarter's report would make a discouraging showing. The report was made public yesterday and shows net income of only $651,661, a falling off of $1,010,340. The decline in net earnings for the quarter amounts, in fact, to all but $467,017 of the decline in earnings since the first of the year, the net earnings from Jan. 1 to June 30 amounting to $1,271,735, a recession of $1,477,357. Other income in June also fell off, the total, $164,859, representing a decline in this item of $184,140. The total income for the six months was $1,606,360, which is a decline of $1,820,731. Unfilled orders at the end of June were 218,391 tons, which was a decrease of 161,445 tons.

Heavy Totals of Maturities.

Since 1907, or during the four and a half years between the end of 1906 and June 30 last, the railroads and industrial corporations put out some $7,246,473,880 new securities, and since 1908 and up to the end of 1912, a five-year period, the maturing obligations aggregate $1,667,692,741, according to statistics compiled by The Journal of Commerce. At this rate, the maturities may be figured at about 25 per cent. of the financing output. During this year and next the maturing obligations aggregate about $489,000,000, of which railroad securities make up about $403,000,000. The estimated amount of railroad securities maturing in the last five months of this year is $6,960,000 bonds and $40,559,000 notes, and industrial securities coming due aggregate for the same period, $9,364,400 bonds and $12,000,000 notes.

Three Owego Firms Seek Receiver.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., July 12.—A petition in involuntary bankruptcy has been filed in the United States Court by three Owego business firms, creditors of the Reliance Motorcycle Company of Owego. An effort to continue the business was made at a meeting of creditors in New York recently, but the action of two creditors forced the others to petition the court to appoint a receiver.

Railroad Gives $30,000,000 Mortgage.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 12.—The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company of Indiana has given a mortgage to the Mercantile Trust Company of Cincinnati and Henry C. Starr, as trustees, to secure a bond issue of $30,000,000. The mortgage executed in July, 1910, to secure a bond issue of $40,000,000, of which $9,250,000 has been issued, is to be canceled.

Cummins Answers in Bankruptcy.

William J. Cummins has filed an answer to the second bankruptcy petition, in which he denies that he has committed the acts of bankruptcy alleged, and asks that the charges be inquired of by the court. He denies that liabilities will approximate $5,000,000, and alleges that the probable value of his assets is greatly in excess of $400,000. He, however, admits his inability to pay his debts and his willingness to be adjudged a bankrupt on that ground.

Yukon Mining Pictured.

Supplementing the recently issued report of the Yukon Gold Company, President S. R. Guggenheim has sent to the stockholders a profusely illustrated pamphlet descriptive of the company's operations. It is introduced with the explanation that "the nature of the work undertaken by the company is so little understood and the conditions governing mining in the Far North so unusual that the Directors have decided to place before the stockholders an illustrated and descriptive story of the progress of operations, in addition to the annual report."

JUNE WAS BAD FOR CROPS.

Condition Was 10.7 Per Cent. Under Average—Cotton Most Promising.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Cotton showed the highest average growing condition of any crop on July 1, with lemons and oranges ranging second and third. In its general review of the crop conditions for June the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Agriculture says the month of June was decidedly unfavorable for growing crops in most parts of the United States. The aggregate condition of all crops on July 1 was 10.7 per cent. below the average condition, whereas on June 1 conditions were only 2.8 per cent. under average.

A comparison of the condition of various crops on July 1 with their average growing condition on July 1 of recent years (past ten years for most crops) is shown as follows, 100 representing average conditions and not normal:

Cotton, 110.2; lemons, 102.2; oranges, 100.5 Rice, 99.0; beans (dry), 98.1; apples, 97.6; pars, 96.3; grapes, 96.1; peanuts, 96.0; raspberries, 94.9; corn, 94.6; cantaloupes, 94.4; Winter wheat, 94.3; sugar cane, 94.1; rye, 93.6; lima beans, 92.3; flax, 92.1; watermelons, 91.6; tomatoes, 90.9; alfalfa, 90.8; all wheat, 89.6; onions, 88.9; sweet potatoes, 88.3; sorghum, 88.0; blackberries, 87.9; hemp, 86.2; cabbage, 85.0; tobacco, 84.4; potatoes, 84.1; Spring wheat, 84.1; broom corn, 82.2; barley, 82.0; oats, 79.7; timothy, 7⅞.1; pasture, 79.0; peaches, 75.6; hay, all kinds, 74.7; kaffir corn, 74.6; clover hay, 72.2; millet, 69.1.

The above figures relate only to relative growing conditions, not taking into account changes in acreage.

Taking into account both acreage and condition, indications are that the wheat crop will be 1.4 per cent. larger than the average production of the past five years, corn 4.9 per cent. larger, oats 12.3 per cent. less, barley 11.6 per cent. less, potatoes 10.8 per cent. less, tobacco 22.7 per cent. less, flax 10.5 per cent. more, and rice 5.8 per cent. more.

The average weight of wool per fleece this year is 6.8 pounds, compared with 6.7 pounds last year and 6.5 pounds the average of the past ten years.

HEINZE COPPER AT LOW EBB.

Stock Which Sold at $80 Brings Fifty Cents at Auction.

F. A. Heinze's United Copper stock, which sold around 80 in the bull market of 1906, and even during the collapse of the Heinze pool which precipitated the panic in October, 1907, did not go below 8, sold at auction yesterday at 50 cents a share for a block of 9,500 shares.

The last sales on the Curb were at 2½. Stockholders have been unable to obtain any definite information of the financial position of the company, although they have brought several actions in the New Jersey courts demanding an accounting. Another Heinze issue, Ohio Copper, sold 10,500 shares at the same time at $1.76 per share, which is about the current quotation on the Curb.

MORE PAY FOR MINE WORKERS

Advance of 1 Per Cent. for June Under Working Agreement.

Mine workers in the anthracite regions of Pennsylvania will receive for June an increase of 1 per cent. in the rate of wages fixed by the Anthracite Strike Commission of 1902. The increase applies also to the July pay roll and is in accord with the commission's decision that in addition to the general advance of 10 per cent. in wages then granted there should be a further increase of 1 per cent. for every advance of 5 cents above $4.50 in the average tidewater price of the domestic sizes of coal. The average price in June was $4.59, which entitles the miners to a 1 per cent. advance. In the Fall and Winter months when coal prices are higher the increase amounts to 7 or 8 per cent. at times.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

MANY SUBSTANTIAL GAINS

Chicago Market Conspicuously Strong —Boston Trading in Nominal Volume, with Narrow Price Changes.

Local issues were strong yesterday in several of the leading stock markets of other centres.

Chicago securities moved upward and practically every issue on the local list gained. Lake Street Elevated Railways 5s showed some activity in the trading. They opened at 85 and then jumped by points to 87, where they sold at noon. People's Gas Light and Coke stock again went up half a point. A report from the company showed that it would be able to pay dividends, even if the city fixed the rate at 70 cents. Commonwealth Edison held steady at 136, with slightly active trading, running fractionally higher on several trades. Advances were made by the Booth Fisheries issues, the common rising 3½ points and the preferred 3 points, though on very limited transactions. There were better prices in Chicago Railways 2s, the Can issues, and others, while American Shipbuilding and some others were easier. There were sales of Chicago Elevated Railways common stock at 21, and the preferred stock was quoted 82 to 86. No transactions have as yet occurred in the latter issue.

Outside of American Telephone rights, trading in the Boston market was generally confined to odd lots, and transactions were few and far between. Amalgamated fluctuated within a point, and North Butte, which is usually one of the most active issues, showed but one quotation.

It was the street railway stocks that made all the animation in the Philadelphia market, the buying of these being of the same confident character noted for the last ten days. The result was a higher price level for both Philadelphia Rapid Transit and Union Traction. In other quarters only odd lots made up the market. Cambria Steel yielded ¼, to 44¾. Lehigh Navigation trust certificates went back to 88 from 88¼, and the stock from 88½ to 88.

American Coal convertible debenture 4s were active and fractionally higher in Baltimore. United Railways 5 per cent. notes continued in demand at a slight advance. Houston Oil shares were firmer.

Yesterday's transactions on the various out-of-town Exchanges, as reported to THE NEW YORK TIMES, were as follows:

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—Wheat was weak all the morning, strong all the afternoon, and closed at a net gain for the day, the Northwestern markets showing most gain. The weakness early was due to the very favorable weather conditions in the Northwest, the indifferent cables, and the weakness in coarse grain. Liverpool was reported under more pressure owing to increased offerings of Indian wheat. The weather was clear and cool in the Northwest in the morning, just the kind needed for filling the Spring wheat crop. Weather conditions were favorable in Canada and there were large receipts of Winter wheat to be hedged in the future market. The receipts were big, about double last week and three times as large as last year. In three days the interior receipts have gained 2,000,000 bushels over last week. The Northwestern Miller report was favorable on Spring wheat, reporting excellent conditions for the growth of the crop in the Northwest. Late in the day early sellers became active buyers owing to the reports of rust damage in Minnesota and the strength in corn and oats. There were also some reports of export business, five loads at outports and twenty-five at New York, but the New York business was understood to be simply cost, insurance, and freight, New York, to come forward to this market at 98c for No. 2 red, and not for export. The rust reports from Minnesota were sent in by several concerns and the market was sensitive to these reports. The violent advance in corn, however, seemed to be the principal factor. No. 2 red was quoted at 91½c, free on board; No. 1 Northern $1.07, No. 1 Manitoba $1.04¼.

CORN.—The corn market was active and lower early on favorable weather conditions in Illinois, with good rains in that State, also good rains in Kentucky, scattered rains in other portions of the Ohio Valley, rather general light rains in Iowa, and scattered rain elsewhere. A good deal of long corn was thrown over, but late the market turned very strong with heavy commission house buying and covering on reports of increasing damage in Missouri, Kansas, and Nebraska, and also in Illinois and Iowa. Snow claimed that the crop had reached the limit of its endurance in these sections, and was being damaged by the unfavorable weather. No export business reported. No. 2 corn closed at 70½c, free on board. Futures advanced 1¾c to 2¾c from the low of the day and closed at ⅝ to ¾c net gain.

Oats were active and lower during the morning on the decline in other grain and favorable weather conditions, but after midday there were damage reports received from the Northwest, claims of further deterioration, and with active speculative buying prices advanced readily, closing at the extreme. New high levels were made on this advance. Cash oats was firm with standards 52c, No. 2 white 52½c, No. 3 white 51½c.

PROVISIONS.—The trade in hog products was again very small with prices slightly steadier. Hogs were about steady at Western points, with total interior receipts 109,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Practically the same factors which have exerted influence on the oil market for the past week were accountable for the recession yesterday. The general disposition is to regard cotton crop prospects as exceptionally favorable at this time, and this belief, in conjunction with the slow consuming demand, results in a decided prevalence of bearish opinion. On the scale-down there is buying against sales made to the trade, with other short covering, while claims that a prominent refining interest recently bullish was selling oil in the future market caused some comment. Business in seed is at a minimum, but there is an unanimity of opinion that farmers will realize the improbability of procuring high prices, at least during the early part of the season. Future quotations follow:

COTTON.

The possibility of further showers in the cotton belt, particularly in the Southwest, was responsible for much of the selling pressure in evidence during yesterday's session. This was not unnatural in view of the fact that on Tuesday considerable buying was based on the theory that the belt would probably undergo another warm and dry spell, with the subsequent result of an increase in bullish crop accounts. The market ruled at substantial losses during the entire session, exhibiting but little resiliency, and the general run of sentiment inclined to favor lower prices. Old crop positions were relatively steady, due to an absence of speculative pressure rather than to any important demand, although trade interests continued to buy conservatively in the market.

Liverpool advices received during the early part of the session inspired quite a little selling, the cables being below expectations and influenced to some extent by favorable dispatches relative to India's cotton crop. Apparently the disposition abroad was to ignore bullish news, judging from the indifference in which Neill Brothers & Co.'s circular on the Summer months was received.

Locally sales tended to increase on the small rallies, and conspicuous in this respect were Wall Street and the South, while interest in favor of lower values was showing confidence and aggressiveness. Support from the bulls was noticeable at times, but was not adequate to inspire much new buying. Scattered complaints continue to be received from parts of Texas and Oklahoma, and also the Carolinas, owing to a deficiency of moisture, but, on the whole, crop accounts are very satisfactory, and already predictions are heard of a bearish August Government document. Boll weevil reports were received from a wider area, but the pest, judging from the tenor of these advices, was not causing much destruction at present, although it would not be illogical to assume from past years that the ravages of this insect will gradually increase in the near future.

The principal buying at present, aside from that of trade interests, appears to be based largely on the supposition that a large yield is imperative this season to supply the consuming demand, while crop scares are not to be unexpected. In the meantime American trade conditions show but little improvement, although each decline in the future market is in favor of betterment.

New York spot cotton was unchanged, with middlings quoted 14¼c. Southern spot cotton market unchanged to ⅛c lower.

COFFEE.

Coffee worked higher again on covering, particularly of September and December. The opening was firm at an advance of 7@11 points, reactions were limited, and the close was steady at a net advance of 1@9 points. Sales were reported of 39,250 bags. Hamburg reported prices unchanged to ¾ pfennig higher, Havre was unchanged, Rio was steady, unchanged, and Santos 100 reis higher. Sao Paulo reported a minimum temperature of 37 2-5 degrees and otherwise very cold.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The warm wave of the last several days has been succeeded by a general change to lower temperature over practically all parts of the country east of the Rocky Mountains, and, as a general change in pressure distribution over the American Continent and the Atlantic Ocean has been established, it is altogether probable that moderate temperatures will prevail through the remainder of this and into next week. Within the last twenty-four hours there were rains in the Atlantic States from New England to Florida and at scattered points elsewhere.

The indications are that the weather will be generally fair throughout the country Thursday and Friday, with moderate temperatures, everywhere east of the Rocky Mountains.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate westerly and northwesterly; Middle Atlantic Coast, light to moderate westerly; South Atlantic Coast, light to moderate westerly; South Atlantic Coast, light variable.

Steamships departing Thursday for European ports will have moderate westerly winds and generally fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND FRIDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Thursday and probably Friday; moderate temperature; light west to northwest winds.

New England—Fair and slightly cooler Thursday, except stationary temperature in Southeast Maine. Friday, fair; moderate temperature; light to moderate west winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was [illegible]; at 8 P. M. it was [illegible]. Maximum temperature, [illegible] degrees at 10:10 A. M.; minimum, [illegible] degrees at 7 A. M. Humidity, [illegible] per cent. at 8 A. M.; [illegible] per cent. at 8 P. M.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Hoguet Estate Gives Dyckman Tract for Broadway Block Front—Over $1,500,000 Involved—Investors Buy West Side Apartments—Fifth Avenue Dwelling Sold.

There was an element of genuine activity in the realty market yesterday, the chief feature involving a deal in which property to the value of about $1,500,000 changed hands, a large part of it being in the upper Dyckman section. The Hoguet estate, which has figured prominently lately in several important sales of the old estate holdings on Washington Heights, purchased, through Slawson & Hobbs, from Daly & Carlson the entire block front on the west side of Broadway between 164th and 165th Streets, having a frontage of 250.1¾ feet and 100 feet deep on each street.

The property is improved with two six-story elevator apartment houses, lately completed, known respectively as the Wilton and Hamlet Court. The selling price is said to have been in the neighborhood of $800,000. The block is just south of the American League Park and is in a part of the upper Washington Heights locality which has lately experienced a lively building movement of apartment houses.

In part payment the Hoguet estate gave two large parcels in the upper Dyckman tract, being the southwest corner of Ninth Avenue and 214th Street, 99.11 by 300, and the southeast corner of the same thoroughfares, 99.11 by 125. The parcels are one block east of the Subway road and there is a station at 215th Street.

In view of the active building movement around the 207th Street station and the renewed interest that is clearly apparent in the future of the Dyckman section, the acquirement of these large parcels by a firm of builders is an indication that the blocks in the immediate vicinity of the 215th Street Subway station are regarded as ripe for improvement in the near future. This is the largest transfer of Dyckman property that has taken place in many years, and the entire transaction shows clearly how highly the entire upper west side is regarded for investment and prospective improvement buying.

Of particular interest in this connection was the announcement that Bradley Martin, who has been a heavy owner of Dyckman property, has transferred to Charles Hensle a plot of fourteen lots on the northwest corner of Nagle Avenue and Arden Street, fronting 100 feet on the former and 300 feet on the latter. It is two blocks south of the Dyckman Street Subway station. Mr. Hensle has been a large operator in the vicinity and recently completed an entire block front of apartments on the south side of 207th Street, between Post and Sherman Avenues.

The property was given by Mr. Martin in exchange for the West Point apartment house, the sale of which was mentioned on the preceding day, although it was not then announced that Mr. Martin was the buyer. The West Point is a new six-story apartment on the southeast corner of Riverside Drive and 135th Street, recently completed by the Hensle Construction Company, and was held at $325,000.

Investors Buying Apartments.

The demand for flat and apartment house property by investors was evident yesterday, when two deals on the upper west side were reported. On West Ninety-third Street, where there have been several sales during the past couple of weeks, the Berwyn, a six-story elevator apartment at 306, covering a plot 87.6 by 148.5, was sold by William H. Wingate to an investor through Pease & Elliman. The house is on the south side of the street, 100 feet west of West End Avenue.

On West Ninety-eighth Street T. J. McLaughlin's Sons sold the eight-story apartment, to be known as 207, which is rapidly nearing completion. It occupies a plot 83.4 by 101.11 and is located 155 feet east of Broadway. The new owner will complete the structure.

Further north, in the Washington Heights section, the Saranac Construction Company sold 470 to 478 Convent Avenue, southwest corner of 151st Street, a new six-story elevator apartment house, having a frontage of 108.11 feet on Convent Avenue and 86.11 on 151st Street.

Fifth Avenue Dwelling Sold.

The four-story and basement dwelling 858 Fifth Avenue, adjoining the Havemeyer house at the northeast corner of Sixty-sixth Street, has been sold by Grace Gengette Dickinson.

It occupies a lot 25 by 100. The seller acquired title to the property in June, 1910, from the executors of the estate of George W. Kidd, of which she was an heir. The house is assessed at $210,000. Herbert A. Sherman and Henry D. Winans and May were the brokers. The buyer will occupy the house.

$75,000 for Forty-first Street Plot.

Lively bidding in the auction room for the four-story building at 58 East Forty-first Street, adjoining the Murray Hill Hotel, advanced the price for the property to $75,000, which is said to be the record for an inside lot on that street. The plot has a frontage of but 16.8, and is 98.9 feet deep. It was sold in partition proceedings and was purchased by Theodore Kunkell and others, the defendants. After the sale they assigned their bid to B. L. M. Bates, the plaintiff in the proceedings and the proprietor and owner of the Murray Hill Hotel. The plot was sold by Joseph P. Day.

Buyers for Private Dwellings.

Ennis & Sinnott have purchased for speculation through the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company from Mary A. Kemeys of Paris, France, 463 West Fifty-seventh Street, a four-story dwelling on lot 20 by 75.

Charles Edelson has sold for the Congregation Agudath Achim of Harlem 206 West 134th Street, a three-story building, on lot 17 by 99.11.

East Side Tenements in Demand.

Two east side tenements have been sold to investors by Lewis Berney. Both are five-story structures with stores on lots 25 by 100, one being at 234 East 109th Street, sold for Moses Pearlman, and the other at 1,763 Third Avenue, near Ninety-eighth Street, sold for the A. H. Jackson estate.

The six-story tenement on plot 25 by 100, at 415 East Twelfth Street, has been sold by Harry Smith to Annie Hochfelfer for Isidor Brown.

Bronx.

The Mink Construction Company has sold through John F. Fetzer a two-family house on Ellis Avenue, between Castlehill and Olmstead Avenues; also the two-family house 670 East 225th Street, near White Plains Avenue, for William Gordon.

In exchange for the fifty-foot plot on Tiffany Street, sold to Samuel B. Steinmetz last week, the Henry Morgenthau Company took 1,553 Vyse Avenue, a two-family house, on lot 25 by 100. Hugh B. Connolly was the broker.

Long Island.

George L. Hilton has sold to the Thomas F. Martin Realty Company of Brooklyn a parcel of 89 acres, having a frontage of 18.23 chains on the east side of the road, running from the Head of the Vleigh to Flushing, adjoining land of Nathan Sanford, James Lott, and Doughty's swamp; also Union Turnpike and New Road; also one-quarter of an acre on the east side of the New Road running from the Flushing Plank Road and fronting on Union Turnpike; subject to a mortgage of $50,000.

Stephen Tritschler has sold to Louis Burkard of 2,350 Myrtle Avenue, Glendale, ten parcels of land at Glendale; subject to a mortgage of $82,250.

Charles M. Hauck has sold to Gustave A. Hauck of College Point a parcel having a frontage of 25 feet on the west side of Fourteenth Street, College Point.

Staten Island.

Harold E. Wittemann has sold to J. Harry Tiernan, the Schweikert holdings known as 12, 14, 16, and 18 Bay Street, Tompkinsville, consisting of four four-story brick dwellings. This is one of the largest deals made in this section in a good many years.

Buys Twenty-five Greenville Houses.

A sale of twenty-five houses has just been made in the Greenville Heights section of Jersey City. Edward Russ of Hoboken has bought the property from Mrs. Dora Weinberg of Brooklyn. One is a three-story apartment house, and the other twenty-four are two-story brick two-family dwellings. Thirteen of the houses are on the north side of Woodlawn Avenue, two on the south side of Woodlawn Avenue, near West Side Avenue, and the other ten are on the east side of West Side Avenue, between Armstrong and Woodlawn Avenues.

Deal for Yonkers Block.

The Wakefield Park Realty Company has sold to an investor a plot of sixteen lots at the southeast corner of Webster Avenue and Glen Avenue, Yonkers, just north of the New York City line. The plot has a frontage of 400 feet on Glen Avenue and 100 feet on Webster Avenue, and takes in the entire block, running from Webster Avenue to the New York Central Railroad property. Shaw & Co. negotiated the sale.

New Home for Blind.

The New York Association for the Blind is the buyer of the old four-story building at 111 and 113 East Fifty-ninth Street, sold about two weeks ago by ex-Inspector William W. McLaughlin.

Plans are being drawn for the erection of a large fireproof building to meet the requirements of the association, whose success at its exhibition at the Metropolitan Opera House last Winter demonstrated the great necessity for such a work in New York City.

Notes.

The House and Real Estate Owners' Association of the Twelfth and Nineteenth Wards will meet at 8 o'clock Friday evening in New York Turn Hall, Eighty-fifth Street and Lexington Avenue.

Harry K. Knapp is the buyer of the plot, 75 by 100, on the south side of 214th Street, 300 feet east of Ninth Avenue, sold recently by Lincoln McCormack.

Everett M. Seixas & Co. have leased for the 507 Fifth Avenue Company, offices in the Columbia Bank Building, to Cassimer J. Vieau, and have also leased for Mrs. Osborne her estate at Croton-on-the-Hudson, to Mrs. Stephen Moore, for the Summer.

Benjamin Englander has leased for the Eagle Improvement Company to Meyer Goldberg & Sons, the first, second, and third lofts in the new building at 134 to 140 West Twenty-sixth Street, containing about 25,000 square feet.

Sol Stern of 621 Broadway has been appointed agent of the Lohengrin apartments on the southwest corner of Madison Avenue and 125th Street, where extensive alterations and improvements are being made.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Rolled Sheets of Metal Pay 45 Per Cent.—Drum Duty Is Raised.

Hermann Boker & Co. and others failed to receive a favorable decision by the Board of United States General Appraisers in a case involving the classification of iron and steel sheets nickel plated. The merchandise consists of rolled sheets of metal composed of iron nickel. These flat metal sheets are formed by welding to a plate of iron or steel, one or both sides, as the case may be, a sheet of nickel, and then rolling the metal so united down to the thickness of the sheet as imported.

The articles were assessed for duty at the rate of 45 per cent. ad valorem as manufactures in chief value of metal, and are claimed by the importers to be dutiable at specific rates under paragraphs 131 and 132 of the present Tariff act as sheets if iron or steel, coated. Judge Fischer holds in his decision that the Collector made no error in his classification, and that in harmony with the rulings of the United States courts the higher duty must stand.

The American Express Company and others have failed in a controversy with the Government regarding the classification of cylindrical drums. The Collector assessed duty on the drums at the rate of 30 per cent. which relates to cylindrical tubular vessels. There was no protest against the levy of duty on the contents, although the extra duty on the drums or containers was held by the importers to be entitled to free entry. This the board denies.

Postal Regulations Amended.

Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock has issued an order amending Section 462 of the Postal Regulations so as to allow coupons, order forms, and other matter intended for detachment to be included in permanently attached advertisements, or elsewhere in newspapers and periodicals. The order specifies that advertisement coupons must only be an incidental feature of such publications. They must not be such as to destroy the "statutory characteristics of second-class publications," or of such characters as to bring them within the prohibition of the statute denying the second-class rate of postage to publications designed primarily for advertising purposes.

When Advertising for Help.

There are three things to consider when advertising for high-class assistants:—

1. The kind of people your advertisement will reach.

2. The number of people reached by your advertisement.

3. The way your advertisement will be placed before the reader.

The New York Times is the newspaper of the intelligent.

The sales of The New York Times daily exceed 175,000 copies.

The New York Times Help Wanted columns are carefully edited. All objectionable or doubtful advertisements are rejected. Your advertisement has added value by an environment of reliability.

FOSDICK HITS HARD AT THE LOAN SHARKS

Recommends the Burd Bill and the Establishment of a Reasonable System.

BRIBES OFFERED AT ALBANY

Ample Proofs of Extortion and Oppression — Judges Among Victims — Interest from 50 to 400 Per Cent.

Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick filed yesterday his report to Mayor Gaynor on "loan sharks." The Commissioner, in his report, lays especial emphasis on the relation between the "loan sharks" and the City Government's Civil Service employes.

Money borrowing from "loan sharks" by civil service employes is remarkably prevalent, according to the Commissioner.

The salaries of 314 city employes were garnisheed by "loan sharks" during the first six months of this year. About twenty per cent. of the city's civil service employes have borrowed money from "loan sharks" at one time or another. Not only poor, $900 a year City Government clerks, but one City Magistrate, two Justices of the Supreme Court, an Alderman, and several Assistant Corporation Counsels have been found, during Commissioner Fosdick's investigation, to be in the clutches of the "sharks." In 100 cases of city employes the interest charged them by the "loan sharks" ranged from 50 to 400 per cent. per annum.

"A city employe in negotiating a loan with a loan agent is generally called upon to sign a number of papers," says Commissioner Fosdick. "These include undated notes, indorsed by another employe, two or three blank assignment forms, a power of attorney to fill in the blank spaces in the assignments, a confession of judgment for the amount of the loan, and sometimes a general power of attorney to sign for and collect all wages. In most cases which we have examined it appears that the borrowers do not appreciate the nature of the papers which it is necessary for them to sign."

Most Cases Remain Secret.

"From Jan. 1, 1911, to June 30, 1911, 314 garnishee judgment executions were filed in the City Paymaster's office by loan agents. These executions amounted to $19,862.89. To this sum, of course, must be added poundage fees and additional costs. During March, April, and May, 1911, 134 documents, alleged by claimants to be notices of legal assignments in their possession, were filed in the Finance Department. Under the law, (chapter 77, laws of 1904,) the Finance Department is obliged to investigate the validity of these assignments to determine whether or not the provision requiring a three days notice of an assignment has been complied with. Pending this investigation, the employe's salary is withheld. The fifty-six assignments filed against pay checks for the month of May, 1911, were declared void on June 5, after investigation. Before this date, however, about twenty employes had obtained releases from their creditors by part payment of the amount claimed.

"It should not be forgotten that most of the transactions between loan agencies and city employes never become a matter of record in the Finance Department. There are hundreds of cases in which there is prompt payment, or a continual renewal of the indebtedness incurred."

The report continues:

The following is a table of loan agents who have advanced money to city employes, and the per annum rate of interest calculated on the basis of fixed charges:

Name and Address.	Yearly Range of Percentages.
Brodie & Co., 116 Nassau St.	133⅓	164
William H. Henry & Co., 116 Nassau St.	120	228
Mercantile Finance Co., 41 Park Row	57	164
Simon Bros., 119 Nassau St.	63	80
George F. Williams & Co., 280 Broadway	200	229
Royal Bank, 95 William St.	60	63
D. H. Tolman, 108 Fulton St.	212	327
Post & Co., 150 Nassau St.	120	133⅓
Frank Gens, 230 Grand St.	133⅓	400
H. Ellwood, 206 Broadway	..	327
Riverside Security Co., 271 West 125th St.	164	229
Superior Credit Co., 315 4th Av.	..	279
Bernard Foss, 495 9th Av.	..	50
Edwards & Co., 99 Nassau St.	..	273
City Credit Co., 1,133 Broadway	..	90
Rubenstein & Co., 299 Broadway	200	229
Clarke Bros., Tribune Building	50	70
Israel Dryson, Liberty St.	141	171

These figures do not entirely reflect the exact conditions which were found to exist. Some loan agents refuse to accept part payment, but insist upon a renewal of the loan each month, with the usual charges for legal services, &c. In many such cases confessions of judgment are filed against men who have paid four-fifths of the original loan in renewals. Thus the salary of a fireman, who had obtained $47.50 and had returned $40 in renewals, was garnisheed for $77, which, with fees, interest, &c., amounted to $96.50. A $1,200 clerk borrowed $30 three years ago, incurring an obligation of $38. He has since paid $96 in renewals, and is informed by the loan agent that his debt amounts to $51. Another clerk borrowed $150 two years ago. At the present time he has paid over $200 and still owes $90.

"Loan Shark" Influences at Albany.

To show how powerful the "loan shark" influences are at Albany and how they exert their mysterious influences on legislation there, Commissioner Fosdick includes in his report several letters which were written by up-State agents to a loan shark, now dead, named John Mulholland, six or seven years ago. Assemblyman Anthony J. Burke of Erie County had introduced an "anti-loan shark" bill at Albany. The up-State agents of the "loan sharks" thought it was was merely a "strike" bill and corresponded with "Loan Shark" Mulholland as to the advisability of paying Mr. Burke $250 to withdraw it. One letter alleged that the "loan shark" agents actually offered Mr. Burke $250, but that he said he would not withdraw the bill for less than $300, and so the transaction fell through.

"Assemblyman Burke is a very weak man; what he wants is money," is a statement in one of the letters of the agent to "Loan Shark" Mulholland.

Ex-Assemblyman Burke, who is now a yardmaster for the Buffalo Creek Railway in Buffalo, while testifying before Commissioner Fosdick denied all knowledge of the alleged transaction.

Commissioner Fosdick says further in his report:

That vicious influences have been at work in preventing remedial legislation in connection with loan agencies is scarcely to be doubted, nor is it improbable that in some cases the loan agencies have been made the victim of "strike" measures. Otherwise it is difficult to explain the regularity with which bills affecting this class of business have been introduced and defeated.

The necessity for loan agencies in a community like New York must at once be admitted. The so-called "loan shark" cannot be eliminated without substituting some similar agency accessible to the man of limited means. For this reason it is important that legislation on this subject should proceed upon a full and complete understanding of the facts. Unnecessarily harsh legislation will only serve to drive the business into the dark, and render the present methods even more oppressive by increasing the risks of operation.

Approves of the Burd Bill.

In conclusion we beg to call to your attention Senate Bill 1,380, (printed 1663, the so-called Burd bill,) now before the Legislature, which provides for the appointment of a commission of inquiry to investigate the operation of small loan laws in this and other States, including pawn broking, chattel mortgage and salary loans, and to recommend to the Legislature of 1912 remedial measures along these lines. The bill provides for the appointment of five Assemblymen and three Senators, and in addition seven others to be selected by the Governor as representatives of the Sage Foundation, the Merchants' Association of New York, the Charity Organization Society of New York, the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities, the Charity Organization Society of Buffalo, ad the United Charities of Rochester.

A similar committee appointed by the Legislature of Massachusetts has just completed such an investigation as that contemplated by the Burd bill. Among its recommendations are:

1. The abolition of the present "fee system."
2. A reasonable rate of interest.
3. The centralization of control over loan agencies in the person of a State supervisor.

A bill incorporating these recommendations has been introduced into the Massachusetts Legislature, and we are informed that it stands an excellent chance of being passed.

The subject of the adequate control of loan agencies is so large and complicated that nothing short of a careful study such as has been successfully prosecuted in Massachusetts and as is contemplated in the Burd bill can accomplish satisfactory results. Our short examination here in New York has convinced us of the necessity of new legislation which should be the result of a thorough study of all the conditions surrounding this class of business, a study which only the Legislature has the power to undertake.

Commissioner Fosdick said to a TIMES reporter yesterday that he believed it was desirable for loan agencies to continue, but that he believed that either a charitable organization or a private corporation would find it moderately profitable to make loans at the rate of 3 per cent. a month, with no renewal charges. The loan sharks, including their "fake" renewal charges, exact 10 per cent. a month for money. The 3 per cent. a month plan, without any fees or renewal charges, is working satisfactory to both borrowers and lenders in Massachusetts and some Western States.

Managers of the loan agencies mentioned in Commissioner Fosdick's report did not seem to want to discuss the charges against them yesterday. They said that 90 per cent. of the civil service employes who are among their clients are unscrupulous, and always anxious to evade payments, and that the seemingly exorbitant renewal charges are necessitated by this fact.

AMERICA TO LOSE AIRMEN.

All the Moisant Fliers to Go Abroad if More Purses Are Not Put Up.

Lack of interest in this country in cross-country flying sufficient to occasion the posting of purses for such flights may result in the next few weeks in the departure from our shores of two French fliers, Réné Simon and Réré Barrier, who, since the second international aviation Tournament at Belmont Park last October, have been touring this country, Mexico, and Cuba under the management of the Moisant International Aviators. Roland Garros and Edmond Audemars, who came here to fly demoiselle machines, the smallest aeroplanes made, at the international tournament, and who remained to handle Moisant monoplanes, are both in France now, where Garros recently has competed in the Paris-Madrid, Paris-Rome, and Paris-London flights. Unless prizes for cross-country flying are speedily put up in this country these fliers will remain abroad also, and America will thus lose the services of four men who fly monoplanes, the only ones, with an exception or two who have represented America in this type of machine.

Simon and Barrier will compete in a few cross-country flights here for which prizes have been promised. They are under contract to give a few exhibitions, but with the completion of these they will abandon this field of aviation to devote themselves entirely to cross-country and competitive meet flying.

St. Croix Johnstone and Andre Houpert, also Moisant fliers, will abandon exhibition work also, and whether these monoplane experts remain in this country or abandon the field to the biplane operators depends on the next few weeks. If, by Aug. 1, no cross-country prizes are posted in the United States, Simon and Barrier will join Garros and Audemars abroad, where more than $500,000 in prizes remain to be competed for this year.

STEEL INVESTIGATOR HERE.

Chairman Stanley Believes a World Combine Would Soon Be Killed.

Congressman Augustus O. Stanley, Chairman of the House committee which is investigating the United States Steel Corporation, was in New York yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria. He declined to discuss the specific nature of the conferences he had held here, but said he had not seen any steel manufacturers or their representatives. Asked his opinion of the talked-of world steel combination, Mr. Stanley said:

Everything is connected, through steel, with the high cost of living. This shirt I am wearing was probably made on a steel loom in a steel-frame building. Even a common candle is made in a steel mould. If a world combination of steel men should be effected, the people would call upon the Governments to take notice and these would refuse to foster a concern organized for the purpose of doing things abroad which it dared not do at home.

"Prices," continued the Congressman, "depend on the tariff. Exhorbitant prices cannot be maintained without the aid of the tariff for the reason that Brazil, Cuba, and other places have capital invested in iron ore which endeavors to reach open markets at fair prices.

"There is enough ore in this and other countries to furnish material for profitable production. In the steel trade it frequently happens that the man who sells rails one day may be a Director in the railroad company that buys them the next day, and the price of the rails all depends in which company he is the most deeply involved, the railroad or the steel company."

He added that he was confident that if any world-wide steel combination was organized, laws would be passed against it. Congressman Stanley returns to Washington this morning.

Borough President's Mother Robbed.

Thieves broke into the home of Mrs. G. F. McAneny, mother of Borough President McAneny of Manhattan, at 40 Danforth Avenue, Jersey City, early yesterday morning and stole silver and plated ware to the value of $100. None of the family was at home when the robbery occurred. Mrs. McAneny is out of town. The thieves forced a front porch window with a jimmy.

TEST CASE MAY END QUEENS ROAD MUDDLE

Acting Corporation Counsel Decides That Jackson Avenue May Be Repaved.

OVER $350,000 IS INVOLVED

Favorable Action by the Controller Expected to Permit the Letting of Contracts for Other Work.

Another step was taken yesterday in untangling the situation which has prevented the Borough of Queens from doing the repaving planned under the appropriation granted this year by the Board of Estimate, amounting to $350,000. Acting Corporation Counsel Sterling notified President Gresser he had advised Controller Prendergast that he saw no reason why the latter should not register the Clancy & Van Alst contract for repaving Jackson Avenue from Woodside Avenue to Train's Meadow Road. This contract was to some extent a test case and it is expected that favorable action on it will lead to the Controller's giving permission for the expenditure of the whole appropriation.

The holding up of this contract, which involves only $8,000, has prevented the completion of the work of repaving with asphalt Jackson Avenue from Thompson to Woodside Avenues. This is now paved with granite blocks, part of which are to be taken up and relaid along that part of the street covered by the Clancy & Van Alst contract. Until these are removed the asphalting cannot be done. In his letter to the Controller, Mr. Sterling said:

So far as expense is concerned, this matter is comparatively unimportant, the amount involved being estimated at about $8,000, but work cannot be completed under the other contract for paving Jackson Avenue until the work has been finished, or at least begun, that is called for by the Clancy & Van Alst contract. This contract, I am informed, has been executed and is before you for registration and certification, the expense to be paid from the proceeds of corporate stock.

It is to be observed as to this contract that at a meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment held July 1, 1910, a resolution was adopted authorizing the President of the Borough of Queens to advertise and award a contract for this work, which is described as repaving with granite blocks, on a sand foundation, the roadway of Jackson Avenue from Train's Meadow Road to Woodside Avenue. The cost, however, under the Clancy & Van Alst contract, as estimated, is only about $8,000, because old granite blocks are to be used instead of new ones.

The result is thus a saving of nearly $30,000 of the cost as estimated in the resolution of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment authorizing the work. This case thus comes within the same principles as were stated in my letter to President Gresser, dated Dec. 20, 1910, in regard to the repaving of the other section of Jackson Avenue.

As written there, I do not think that Chapter 546 of the Laws of 1910 should be construed as limiting the power of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to authorize the paving or repaving of streets to be paid for from the proceeds of corporate stock, since it is specifically provided in Section 169 of the charter that corporate stock can be authorized to be issued by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment without the concurrence or approval of any other public board or body for the purpose of repaving streets to an amount not exceeding $3,000,000 in any one calendar year, nor, as stated in my letter to President Miller, do I think that the act should be construed to take effect retroactively.

I know of no reason why you should not certify the contract with Clancy & Van Alst as payable from the proceeds of corporate stock authorized by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

It is expected that the Clancy & Van Alst contract will now be registered by the Controller without delay. It was said at the Borough Hall in Queens yesterday that the contractors are ready to go to work.

The Corporation Counsel still has to pass on the requests sent by President Gresser to the Controller on Dec. 29, 1910, for a resolution of the Board of Estimate authorizing him to repave the College Point Causeway, the Jamaica-Hempstead Turnpike, and Woodhaven Avenue. This request also was sent to the Corporation Counsel, and is now under consideration by Mr. Sterling. All this repaving comes under the appropriation made by the Board of Estimate and the people of those portions of Queens affected, to say nothing of the motorists who use the roads, are up in arms over the delay.

Besides these, there are several other pieces of repaving which were planned under the appropriation and which are in abeyance through the same legal difficulties. President Gresser advertised for bids on these, but rejected them when Controller Prendergast wrote him on April 24 that he would refuse to register the contracts, and asked that no further action be taken until he had received the opinion of the Corporation Counsel on the Clancy & Van Alst contract. That contract having now been passed, President Gresser will readvertise for bids on these sections. When they are approved, most of the work laid out under this year's appropriation will be in hand.

The condition of the roads in other parts of the borough, aside from the main thoroughfares, presents somewhat different problems. No provision has been made for repaving them, and the magnitude of such a project is indicated by the fact that there are 450 miles of macadamized roads in the borough, which is bigger than Manhattan, Brooklyn, and the Bronx combined. The maintenance of these roads is in the hands of the Borough Bureau of Highways. Its appropriation this year is $619,000.
